Centex, Board To View Housing

Elk Grove Village Board Pres. Charles Zettek agreed Wednesday the board should contact Centex Corp. concerning development of low and moderate-income housing as recommended by the housing commission.

Noting that Centex represents the only major developer in the village, Zettek said. "I'm quite sure the board will want to talk to Centex about this need."

Zettek also noted that the board would want to meet with the commission to discuss its first report, which was presented to the board Tuesday night.

"I think there's a great need for dialogue with the commission," he said. "I'm looking forward to meeting with the commission."

The village board accepted the commission's report Tuesday and indicated a meeting would be set up between the two groups to discuss the report.

Besides urging the board to contact local developers, the commission report asked for funds for the commission to conduct a survey on the desirability of housing for the elderly as well as for grown children and current residents. The commission also proposes to conduct open meetings.

The survey and open meetings would both be used to secure additional information for preparing a final report and recommendation. The report would be completed within six months, the commission said.

Commission Chairman Neil Cooney read the report to the board Tuesday, but members indicated they would not comment on the report until they had studied it.

Park District Crew To Build Bleachers

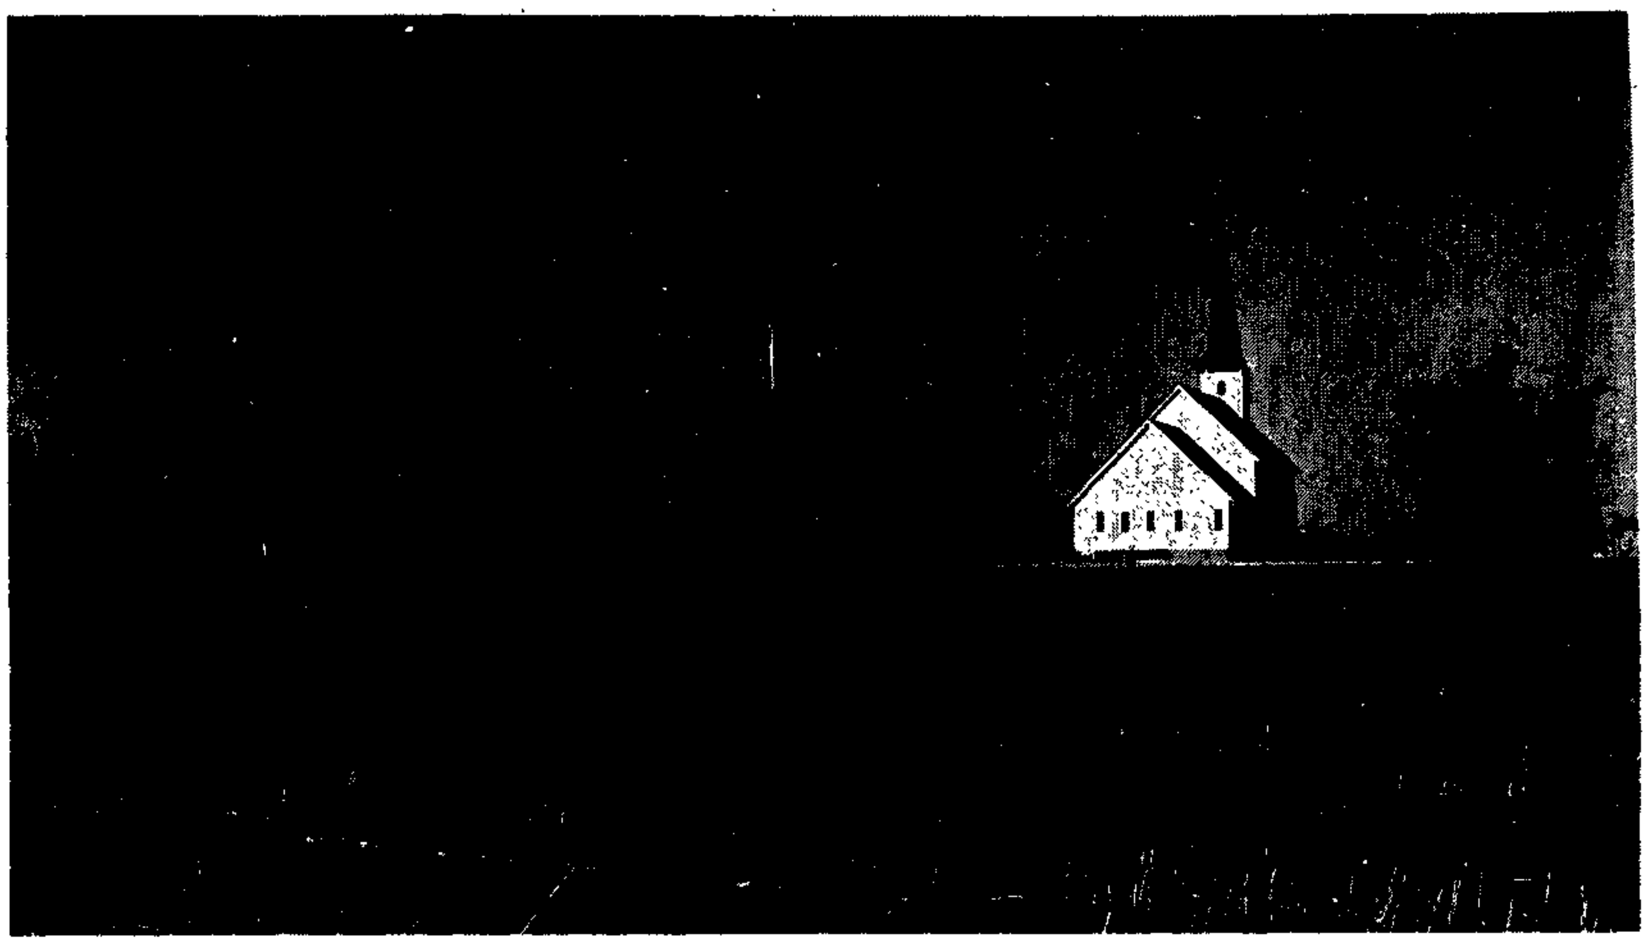
Spectators at Disney Pool will have a place to sit during swim meets as soon as the Elk Grove Park District's maintenance crew gets finished building them.

The bleachers will be collapsible and will be easily stored when not in use, according to park district officials.

Last month, Jack Claes, director of parks and recreation, asked permission to purchase bleachers for the pool, but the park board asked for more information on the type of bleachers to be purchased.

In addition, Park Commissioner David von Schaumburg asked whether the bleachers were the main priority in the financially hard-pressed park district.

Park officials indicated they will save money by building the bleachers themselves.



Village Board Is Chastised

A representative of the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee chastised the Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday night for "inaction" on the village's housing needs.

George Martin, chairman of the CMCC strategy committee, noted that it has "been a long time between Nov. 29 (1969) and this (the housing commission) report." A fire on that date, in which three children living in substandard housing were killed, provided the original impetus for the study.

"We would think that Elk Grove Village would have done more than this," Martin said. "We urge the board to give a strong mandate to the commission.

"Is that length of time an indication of the complexity of the problem or an indication of the board's unwillingness to tackle this problem?" he asked.

Martin addressed the board after the village's housing commission presented its first report to the board. The board accepted the report and indicated it would meet with commission members to discuss it.

CMCC has been actively campaigning for low- and moderate-income housing in the Northwest suburbs for over a year. In the spring of 1970 the group asked the Viatorian Catholic order in Arlington Heights for land to develop low- and moderate-income housing. The Viatorians complied, but the Arlington Heights Village Board later voted to deny rezoning on the property.

The group has also campaigned for low and moderate-income housing in Des Plaines.

Youth Found Dead In Car

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Township youth was found dead in a car parked in a garage in Long Grove Tuesday morning.

Lake County Sheriff's Police said that Wayne Dillavou of Hinsdale Road in Elk Grove Township, was apparently asphyxiated from carbon monoxide fumes.

Dillavou was found in a car in the garage of a friend's house at Rt. 2, Ill. Rte. 83, about 11:30, police said.

Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK

A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Disney Park Will Get $7,000 Football Field

The Elk Grove Park District is going to get a $7,000 football field in Disney Park courtesy of the Elk Grove Athletic Association.

Grant Galloway, president of the association, and other members of the organization which sponsors George Halas franchised football, made the offer at the park board meeting Tuesday night. The board accepted in a unanimous vote.

The field would also include four baseball diamonds and would be on the 550 by 620 foot portion of the park bordering on Wellington Avenue.

Galloway explained a member of the association, will donate the labor and heavy equipment needed to grade the area. In addition, he said the association will install two field drains in the field to carry away runoff water and may next spring be able to sod the area.

"We're planning to make these fields into class A fields," Galloway said. Once they are completed, he said, the park district would have control of all scheduling and the field would be used by groups other than the association.

"We want to improve this land for all the boys in the village," he said.

In addition he said the association plans to build two softball diamonds across the street from the park on land owned by the village. The diamonds will be used for a girl's softball league and the group plans to start next spring, he said.

The village land, directly behind village hall on Wellington Avenue, has been offered to the association and to Elk Grove Boys' Football Inc., a rival group which sponsors Pop Warner league franchise football.

Boys' Football approached the village earlier this month and asked to use the land for a $30,000 football field which they wanted to use only for their games. After an unsuccessful attempt to get the groups to cooperate on a single field, village Pres. Charles Zettek agreed to let both groups use a part of the village land.

The park district refused to allow the Boys' Football group to build a field on its land because of the demand that the field be used exclusively for the group's football games.

In a proposal for Disney Park in a bond issue which was defeated twice this spring, the park district planned for a football field and baseball diamonds on approximately the site where the association will now build it.

That bond issue also proposed an enclosed ice skating rink and other improvements in the park.

The Athletic Association began this year and has 96 boys age 8 to 14 most of whom play in the Halas franchise.

Elk Grove Boys' Football Inc. has 215 boys in the same age group who play in the Chicago Suburban League of Pop Warner. It has been in existence four years.

Hauser Elected To State Park Dist. Unit

Edward Hauser, president of the Elk Grove Park Board of Commissioners, has been elected to the board of directors of the Illinois Association of Park Districts.

He was elected at a recent meeting of the association in St. Louis to a two-year term on the board.

The Illinois Association of Park Districts has members from about 300 park districts in the state of Illinois.

The Chicago Board of Education will receive about $5.5 million in federal funds which could keep Chicago public schools open for an extra 12 days. They were to have been closed for the Christmas-New Year vacation, Rep. Roman Puchinski, D-Ill., said.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

Most of the nation is expected to have pleasant Thanksgiving weather.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	42	31
Buffalo	29	21
Denver	37	21
Los Angeles	70	50
Miami Beach	77	75
New Orleans	66	51
New York	36	26
Phoenix	70	42
San Francisco	58	48

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

No Test For Middleton's Accuser

Criminal Court Judge Robert Downing yesterday refused to order a psychiatric examination for one of the women who said Dr. James G. Middleton sexually assaulted her in his Des Plaines office.

The ruling came late yesterday afternoon following a motion filed earlier in the day by Edward Genson, Dr. Middleton's attorney. In an affidavit signed by him, Genson outlined his basis for the request.

Judge Downing said although he feels the court has the authority to order such an examination, he also feels Genson's affidavit was not sufficient to justify ordering the test.

Moments earlier Judge Downing denied Genson's request to throw out the arrest warrant which enabled Cook County Sheriff's Police to arrest Dr. Middleton in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, Dec. 1. The judge said the defense failed to show any grounds for quashing the warrant.

DR. MIDDLETON has been charged by two of his former women patients with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery. The alleged sexual attacks came after the doctor gave them drugs to make them more receptive to the attacks according to the women.

Judge Downing did not, however, rule on a third defense motion, which has been the subject of a hearing for the past three days.

After hearing more than three hours of arguments from both sides, Downing said he would "take under advisement" a motion to throw out all evidence collected at the time of the arrest. The judge said he will issue the court's decision on that motion Dec. 2 at 10 a.m.

Genson has requested all the evidence be suppressed because, he contends, the search and seizure were illegal.

James Kavanaugh, assistant state's attorney, claims the police had the right to search the premises because they had reason to fear for their safety and that of citizens in the area. He also said the police believed at the time some of the items could be used as evidence against the doctor on the sex charges.

AMONG THE ITEMS confiscated were: artificial devices for sexual stimulation, pornographic material, photos, films, tape recording equipment, camera equipment and explosives materials.

In his affidavit, Genson requested the order for a psychiatric examination for one of the women who said she was attacked by the doctor in his former office at 632 W. Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines.

Genson said he was present when the woman testified at a medical board hearing. He said the woman said at that time she was in a "rundown condition" the day of the alleged attack and also had been in an automobile accident the same day.

Genson said the woman told the medical board she was in a "dazed condition" from medication the doctor allegedly gave her during the alleged attack and "couldn't fully perceive the circumstances of the incident."

The attorney also said she failed to report alleged previous molestations by the doctor and had in fact returned to him for further treatment.

THE AFFIDAVIT ALSO said the woman failed to report the alleged attack for several months and that she had set up a booth in a shopping center soliciting petitions for the promotion of Donald Shaw, the officer who arrested Dr. Middleton.

Kavanaugh argued successfully that the statements made by Genson were not relevant and did not show that the woman is incompetent to testify.

After Judge Downing issues a decision on the motion to suppress, the actual trial of the doctor is expected to begin about the second week in December.

Fail To Get Action On County Tax Service Fee

by TOM WELLMAN

Despite a hastily-called County Board committee meeting Wednesday a proposal to levy a service charge against all county taxing bodies has not received final action.

After three amendments to the ordinance had been approved by the board, the finance committee, a committee of the whole agreed to defer a future vote until a legal opinion on the ordinance could be gained from the state's attorney's office.

Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines charged the move was "the first time in eight years an ordinance had been presented without a legal opinion."

He also asserted the sudden committee meeting as a "step backward" and that it was a "major political victory" for a Democratic power move.

Fulle said he was notified at 5 p.m. Tuesday about the meeting, but was unable to obtain information about the nature of the meeting.

When hearings — held mainly for department heads but open to the public — began two weeks ago, on the 1972 budget a complete schedule of hearings was circulated. However, the schedule was altered and the revised hearing schedule has been available often on only short notice, according to reporters in the county building.

When the meeting began at 10 a.m., the following three amendments were approved, with only Fulle and Comr. Joseph Woods of Oak Park voting "no":

—Allowing the county auditor to determine the total cost of collection;

—Setting the procedure for the service charge on a ratio of the taxing body's share of the tax extension;

—Allowing Cook County "at its option without notice" to withhold the service charge from payments to taxing bodies.

Fulle then asked for the state's attorney's opinion, and the board voted to defer the matter until an unspecified later date.

The ordinance, presented earlier this month to the board, would levy a service charge against all taxing bodies to pay for the $10.5 million cost of collecting and distributing taxes.

It replaces a percentage of tax collection charge — between 1 and 1.5 per cent — which the county had levied before the plan was thrown out in the 1970 Illinois Constitution.

After the Nov. 1 introduction of the ordinance, a public hearing was scheduled on the matter for the following Tuesday. However, it was canceled and rescheduled to Nov. 10.

On Nov. 10, about 150 suburban officials attended and to a man testified against the proposal. Among those opposing it were Jack Siegel, attorney for Arlington Heights and Evanston, and Anne Evans of Des Plaines, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

Teens May Have Place To Gather

Teens will have a place to go on Friday, Dec. 10, if plans for a program at Lions Park Community Center are completed.

That date has been tentatively set for the opening of a teen drop-in center being sponsored and supervised by the Elk Grove Park District, Elk Grove Village Community Service, local churches and the police department.

Plans call for the center to be open from 7:30 to 11 p.m. that night, with a variety of activities, including a coffee house and general recreation, planned.

The sponsoring groups have been working for about a month to begin a teen program, which will be the first in a park district owned facility since August.

Refreshments, coffee house entertainment, pool and ping pong tables and quiet areas for conversation will all be included in the program, which will be held in the former teen center at 180 Kennedy Blvd.

TEEN PROGRAMS have been under scrutiny by the park district since last spring. The teen center was closed in August, renamed the community center and has been used for park district programs.

The cooperative approach to the teen program is a departure from past practice, when the park district hired a teen center director and operated a teen program six days a week in the building.

The new program may be expanded to include Thursdays and Saturdays if the Friday night activities are a success, according to organizers.

The park district's teen program was plagued by low attendance and a reputation that it was a hang-out for "greasers."

Teens appeared at a board meeting of the Community Service organization last week protesting the fact they will no longer be allowed to congregate at the trailer which serves as headquarters for the Listening Post telephone hotline and youth counseling services.

At that time the Community Service board told the teens they would be able to go to the drop-in center at the Community Center. At that time that group of teens expressed doubt about the program.

A meeting was scheduled last night between the teens who have been at the trailer and the youth services committee of Elk Grove Village Community Service to discuss the rules governing the trailer.

Forest View Homeowners Ask To Meet Board

"A potentially catastrophic situation" exists now in the Forest View subdivision in Elk Grove Township, according to H. R. Black, president of the Forest View Fire Protection District.

Black has asked for a meeting with the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees to discuss the problem of 21 homes in the subdivision being without fire and ambulance protection. The 21 are those whose owners have not paid $84 to the village for a year's protection.

The village board has said the fire department will not provide service to homeowners of the unincorporated subdivision who refuse to pay for the service, except to rescue persons trapped in a burning building.

ONE HUNDRED homeowners in the subdivision have paid for the service.

Previously, the fire protection district and homeowners association contracted with the village for fire protection. The three groups were unable to agree on a new contract and the district levied no fire tax this year. As a result individual homeowners must sign contracts for fire protection with the village if they are to receive the service.

Black's request was turned over to the judiciary, planning and zoning committee during Tuesday's village board meeting.

In other action Tuesday night, the board:

—Approved a resolution accepting Arthur Avenue (from Ill. Rte. 83 to Devon Avenue) and Lively Boulevard (from Pratt Avenue to Devon Avenue) from the developer.

—Authorized final payment of $9,862 to Ruby Construction Co., the general contractor, for the municipal complex.

APPROVED A request from the Cook County Forest Preserve District for permission to install a water service pipe from Cosman Road to the Forest Preserve ranger office.

—Approved a resolution authorizing Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., certified public accountants, to conduct the village audit for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1972.

—Authorized $200 payment as Elk Grove Village's share in the cost of secretarial and clerical services to support the area-wide program to abate aircraft noise. The village is the 13th municipality to contribute funds to the O'Hare Area Noise Abatement Council.

—Awarded a $3,195 contract to the Wallace & Tiernan Division of Electro-Rust Proofing Co. to furnish and install a rust-proofing system in the village's 500,000-gallon water storage tank.

Atcher Declines To Run For County Clerk Post

Mayor Robert O. Atcher late Tuesday revealed plans to decline a top level invitation to seek the GOP ballot position for Cook County Circuit Court Clerk.

"When I received a phone call from Joe Tecson, my good friend from Riverside, asking that I be a candidate for this office, I told him I would have to talk to some people — those that elected me to the job I hold here in Schaumburg," Atcher said.

Tecson is chairman of the GOP slatemakers committee now holding Chicago interviews for prospective candidates for state and county offices.

"Last April, some said I was not qualified to hold the office of mayor, but yet, the Republican State Central Committee considers me qualified for a responsible county office.

"WHEN THAT sinks into Mr. Totten (GOP Committeeman Donald L. Totten), I'll tell the slatemakers I appreciate their consideration and decline," asserted Atcher.

Totten said he was not aware of the invitation extended to Atcher until Tuesday, adding he would not be interested in sponsoring him.

Totten said he expected the reason for the invitation was that Atcher ran a good campaign last time.

Tecson backed up Totten.

"Totten, or any other committeeman, would have to sponsor a candidate. Absence of sponsorship of a committeeman would leave very little chance of being slated," he said. "That's his (Totten's) job."

"As chairman of the slatemaking committee it's my duty to call hundreds of people," he said, adding, the calls are made on the theory the more interest stimulated among individuals, the greater the chance of ending up with a top-notch candidate.

"With that background I called Bob Atcher, who is a fine person," Tecson said.

Atcher's reference to Totten concerned the controversy which has sprung up in the past year with the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

Differences of opinion occurred when Atcher's village party, Schaumburg United Citizens (SUP) refeused to accede to ROOST demands concerning candidates for the April municipal election.

The controversy grew when Atcher announced formation of SUP as a permanent political entity in the village.

Several weeks after SUP's birth, the new group scheduled a picnic, co-incidentally, on the same day as the ROOST summer outing.

THE BATTLE RAGED when SUP disclosed plans to hold the President's Ball on the same night as the annual ROOST dinner dance, prompting Totten to call the village organization "a pimple on the the pachyderm's pelvis."

Atcher carried Schaumburg Township last year in his attempt to unseat Democrat Edward J. Barrett as Cook County Clerk.

Running against Sen. John Graham (R-Barrington), Atcher was an unsuccessful candidate for the Illinois Senate in 1967.

Anthony Hannagan Jr. of Park Forest was interviewed by GOP slatemakers Monday as an applicant for Circuit Court Clerk position.

Her 5th Turkey Dinner In 2 Weeks?

by WANDALYN RICE

When some Elk Grove High School girls sit down to dinner today, they will know what their mothers went through fixing it.

The girls in four of Polly Knudsen's cooking classes at the high school have already had Thanksgiving dinner that they made themselves for class.

The classes made turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, mashed and sweet potatoes and a salad last week and served the dinner at long tables set with the school's best china.

Mrs. Knudsen said she decided to start the Thanksgiving project because the food department gets one free turkey from the federal government. "I thought we ought to use it and if you cook turkey in one class you should do it in all the classes."

The girls helped plan the menu and did all the cooking except for the turkey, which Mrs. Knudsen put in the oven at home and then brought to school partly cooked.

"I SHOWED THEM the turkey and we talked about what you have to do with it before I took it home," she said.

In order to get the proper cooking time for the turkey, Mrs. Knudsen had to put it in very early — and for the 12:40 p.m. class that meant getting up at 3:30 a.m.

"The only bad part of this whole thing is stuffing a turkey at 4 in the morning," she said.

The girls made everything else from scratch, including cranberry sauce. "They were a little disappointed that they couldn't open a can of Ocean Spray," Mrs. Knudsen said.

Teachers and counselors joined the girls for the meal, which came off with few hang-ups despite their fears. "This is good for the girls because they feel a meal like this is impossible for them and they are finding out it's not," Mrs. Knudsen said.

And so, today Mrs. Knudsen will be sitting down for her fifth turkey dinner in two weeks — this time at her mother's house. "She was talking about fixing goose and I was sort of hoping after four turkey dinners, but she changed her mind," she said.

77 Racing Days At Arlington Park

by KURT BAER

Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE) walked away from the Illinois Racing Board Wednesday with 77 days of racing next year at Arlington Park Race Track, 43 fewer days than it had requested.

Opening day at Arlington Park will be May 31 with the horses running through Aug. 28. Last year there were 110 racing days at Arlington.

CTE also lost its bid to open the Illinois thoroughbred season next year at Arlington Park. The Sun-Times, Daily News charity meeting which kicks off the 1972 schedule on April 15 will be run at Hawthorne Race Track in Chicago.

CTE Pres. Jack Loome had no comment yesterday on the board's decision.

As expected, the racing board transferred CTE's Washington Park dates to the Arlington track. But it granted only 26 of the 60 dates CTE had requested in the Washington Park application.

CTE'S ARLINGTON Jockey Club division was awarded 45 days out of the 60 it had requested. An additional six days running of the Chicago Tribune charities from July 22 to July 28 accounts for the total 77-day racing season.

In awarding days to the state's 21 racing associations, Racing Board Chmn. Alexander MacArthur said he would continue his investigation into association stockholder lists.

"During these hearings, we flushed out quite a few mother hens which had been squatting on some strange eggs," MacArthur said. "By strange eggs I mean not of the species."

MacArthur reminded the leaders of Illinois horse racing who were gathered in Chicago that although the law required the awarding of dates on or before Nov. 30, the board did not have to grant racing licenses until 30 days before the scheduled opening of a meeting.

Although the racing season at Arlington Park will be 33 days shorter than last year, CTE was actually awarded the same number of dates as in 1971.

The difference stems from 33 days which last year were granted to the Balmoral Jockey Club which held its meeting at Arlington Park. This year, the Balmoral Club will run those same 33 days at Sportsman's Park in Chicago.

MacARTHUR SAID the principal criterion used in deciding the dates was the amount of revenue generated for the state at various tracks.

Last week, Illinois Atty. General William J. Scott announced plans to file suit against CTE for over $4 million in alleged back taxes.

The suit was filed because of CTE's practice in past years of totaling the wagering during its Arlington and Washington Park divisions as two separate meetings even though both were run back-to-back at Arlington Park.

By counting the betting separately, Scott charged CTE had avoided higher tax brackets which would have netted the state an additional $4 million.

Other thoroughbred associations in the Chicago area were awarded dates as follows:

Hawthorne Park, 39 days, April 15 to May 30; National Jockey Club Inc. 38 days at Sportsman's Park, Aug. 29 to Oct. 11; Balmoral Jockey Club, 33 days at Sportsman's, Oct. 12 to Nov. 11.

State law allows for a maximum of 187 days of thoroughbred racing in the Chicago area.

Farm Program: Good Or Bad? Depends On What You Want

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You don't have to be an expert to recognize that most federal programs have some good points and some bad points

Where the expertise comes in is recognizing which are which

Experts who exhausted themselves identifying the good and bad points of President Nixon's economic phases not to mention the administratio's phosphate detergent policy, surely are entitled to a rest, poor things But such is not to be

For just this week the Agriculture Department announced a 1972 farm program which has several good and bad points in need of clarification So once more into the breach, lads

Q Why is the department making changes in next year's farm program with respect to feed grain?

A Because we had a record crop of feed grain this year

Q. THAT'S GOOD. A record crop means the feed grain farmers no longer need government supports, right?

A No, that's bad A record crop means the farmers need government supports worse than ever

Q But does not a record crop produce an abundance of grain, which brings happy smiles to the faces of our farmers?

A No A record crop produces a surplus of grain which depresses prices and causes our farmers' faces to break out in a glower

Q That's bad

A No, that's good Lower grain prices mean cheaper food for livestock, which means consumers will save on meat prices, which eases the pressure of inflation

Q. THAT is good

A No, that's bad. The grain price slump cuts down farm income giving the farmer less purchasing power, which increases unemployment and accelerates the recessionary trend

Q That is bad What is the administration doing about it?

A It is reducing the amount of land devoted to feed grain production and raising payments to the growers

Q That's good, isn't it?

A Not necessarily Raising farm income may help Nixon's reelection campaign And if you're a Democratic presidential candidate, that's bad

Republican leaders from five townships will interview candidates for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District Tuesday evening.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn, 3405 Algonquin Road.

Already scheduled to appear is state Rep. David J. Regner of Mount Prospect, who is expected to run for a vacancy in the state Senate.

Republican candidates for the House are expected to include Don Totten, Schaumburg Township GOP committeeman. Arlington Heights Village Trustee James T. Ryan and Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, former Constitutional Convention delegate, also of Arlington Heights, will seek the endorsement of the Wheeling Township Republican Organization Monday night, but one or the other may withdraw from the race after the endorsement.

Democrats seeking election from the district are incumbent Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights and John P. Kelley of Schaumburg.

Conducting the interviews will be the five township committeemen, Cook County Commissioner Floyd T. Fulle, Maine Township; Richard A. Cowen, Wheeling Township; Carl R. Hansen, Elk Grove Township; Bernard Pedersen, Palatine Township; and Totten, Schaumburg Township; in addition to Bernard F. Lee, Mount Prospect; William R. Fitzgerald, Schaumburg; Warren Colclesser, Palatine; and Veva Meyer, Arlington Heights.

Prospective candidates were invited to contact Fulle, at 678-1700, or their township committeeman.

FULLE WILL address the Regular Republican Organization of Elk Grove Township at its regular meeting Monday night. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 See-Gwun Road.

GOP Committeeman Carl R. Hansen said Fulle will discuss the home rule powers of Cook County, granted under the new state constitution, particularly as they relate to new home rule municipalities such as Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

He will also talk about the 1972 county budget and changes in the county government, said Hansen. Another topic that may be discussed is the proposal for a new county made up of six Cook County townships, he added.

Meetings of the organization are open to the public. "All interested persons are invited to come and meet their Cook County commissioner and learn more about county government and how it affects them," Hansen said.

GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE Dan Walker will meet with members of the Wheeling Township Independent Democratic Coalition at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, in the home of H. Robert Powell, 110 S. Kennicott Ave., Arlington Heights.

Walker is seeking the Democratic nomination without support of the Democratic Party slatemakers in the March primary election.

"All citizens interested in independent politics will be welcome," to meet Walker at the meeting, said Powell.

WHILE WALKER has run behind the probable party candidate, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, is polls pitting each of them against Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, he made a strong showing in what may be the first head-to-head test between him and Simon.

The New Trier Township Democratic precinct captains recently voted to back Simon, but not by a wide enough margin to issue a formal endorsement. Simon attracted 67 votes while Walker got 52. A total of 80 votes were required for endorsement.

Various polls have shown Walker with a strong lead over Ogilvie while Walker has trailed the governor by a few percentage points.

Rep. Schlickman Will Seek Reelection In 4th District

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, announced yesterday he will seek reelection to the Illinois House of Representatives in the new 4th Legislative District.

He said he will defend the record of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in his campaign and will stress the issues of ethics in government, abolition of the personal property tax, and up-dated land-use policies throughout the state.

Schlickman's present 3rd District was divided into four different districts under reapportionment, leaving him the choice of seeking reelection in any of the four.

The district in which he will campaign includes parts of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Des Plaines, Niles, Park Ridge, Skokie, Glenview, Golf and Morton Grove.

Another Republican incumbent, Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, has also announced that he will run in the new 4th District. A third Republican who resides in the new district, Rep. Arthur Simmons, R-Skokie, has indicated he will retire from the legislature.

IN MAKING his announcement, Schlickman called Ogilvie "one of Illinois' great governors" and pledged unqualified support of his reelection during the coming compaign.

He said he will continue to support strong ethics legislation and pledged himself to "full compliance" with such requirements.

He also said he will work for early abolition of "this abhorrent measure," the personal property tax, and will stress the need for land-use policies "for enhancing and preserving the environment."

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman

Schlickman said he chose to run in the new 4th District because his home is in the district, and of the four from which he chose. "It is the most challenging because of its diversity of interests." He also expressed gratitude to those voters he will no longer represent for their past support.

Schlickman, 41, will be entering his 12th election in 15 years. Twice elected to the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees, he has been elected four times to the General Assembly. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in the 1969 Republican primary.

SCHLICKMAN SAID his efforts in the legislature have been chiefly devoted to local government, equitable taxation, reduced governmental expenditures, improved mental health and social services, rehabilitation of criminal offenders, state aid to nonpublic schools, and improved land-use.

He serves as chairman of the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission; the Legislative Advisory Committee to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission; and the Zoning Laws Study Commission.

In three terms on the House Appropriations Committee, he headed two subcommittees which he said initiated budget reductions exceeding $100 million.

The 1960 "Young Man of the Year" of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, he was named by Rutgers University in 1966 as one of the nation's outstanding state legislators, and was cited by the John Howard Association in 1967 for his efforts in criminal rehabilitation.

Schlickman is a graduate of Georgetown University Law School and practices law in Arlington Heights. He and his wife, Margaret, have two sons, both students at Georgetown, and two daughters at home.

Theroux Drops Out Of Race

Wheeling Township Assessor Marshall Theroux has withdrawn his name from consideration as a candidate for the Illinois General Assembly in the new 3rd Legislative District.

Theroux had been scheduled to appear before Wheeling Township Republican precinct captains, along with Arlington Heights Village Trustee James T. Ryan and Mrs. Virginia Macdonald, to present his candidacy.

In a letter to precinct captains, however, he said he was withdrawing in the interest of party unity. "It is clear at this point that none of the three candidates will receive the two-thirds vote needed" for the organization endorsement, he declared.

"Rather than contribute to a choice that might be devisive, I am now withdrawing," he said.

Theroux pledged enthusiastic support for whichever candidate is chosen. Declaring high regard for both Mrs. Macdonald and Ryan, he said, "I will not only cheerfully support either of them after endorsement, but look forward to working in the winter's campaign."

Elected township assessor in 1969, Theroux is a former deputy committeeman for the Wheeling Township GOP and a past president of the Township Republican Club.

Correction

The U.S. congressman from Chicago's 1st Congressional District was incorrectly identified here Tuesday as Democrat William L. Dawson.

Mr. Dawson is deceased. He was succeeded in Congress by Rep. Ralph H. Metcalfe, also a Democrat.

TAXPAYERS AIR THEIR complaints at a neighborhood school board meeting. The local board is responsible for most policy decisions, although all of its powers are delegated by the state. The local boards are anxious to retain this control, but may lose it if the state takes over school finance.

Tell 'Action Goals For The 1970s'

by BETSY BROOKER

Second in a series

Who should govern our public schools? And who should pay for their operation?

Public testimony at state hearings, recorded in "Action Goals for the 1970s," clearly supports more government aid for public schools. But more government control of public schools is disputed.

"Action Goals for the 1970s" is a report compiled by the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI). It is a mandate for education reform delivered by students, school officials and taxpayers at recent state hearings and a weekend conference.

The OSPI report states, "the chief concern of school administrators and board members is the current financial crisis of the schools. Fear has been expressed that many schools would not be able to meet even minimum standards for school recognition because of this crisis."

"THE NEED for the state to assume the major burden in financing the schools and in getting the disparities between rich districts and poor districts was an implicit demand at the hearings," reported the state education officials. Witnesses charged that use of the property tax for school support is unfair. They called for a new system of school finance that would promote "quality education."

The most popular proposals include: "revision of the state aid formula to place the primary burden for financing education on the state; and initiation of a state program to provide larger sums of money to school districts with smaller tax bases."

Adding a note of caution to their proposals, the witnesses called for retention of some local control of public schools. Questions such as "who would own a building constructed with state and local funds" were left unanswered.

Witnesses complained they feel isolated from the educational decision making process. They urged mandatory establishment of citizen advisory councils at the local school district and educational service region levels.

In addition, "The notion that students, who are the direct consumers of education, should be represented on school boards was generally supported as a responsible approach to insuring the involvement of young people in the decision making process," according to the report.

"WITNESSES GENERALLY agreed that the selection of school board members from geographic subdistricts rather than selection at large would more adequately guarantee the involvement of minorities and the poor in decision making."

While they supported more local involvement and control of the school, the witnesses were wary of centralization of power at the state level. And they were concerned about the transition role of the state education office in preparation for establishment of the proposed State Board of Education.

Local control however should not become so burdensome that it impedes the education process, according to some witnesses. State education officials reported, "the testimony revealed the nagging feeling there are too many small school districts in this state. Currently there are 1,144 separate school districts in the state."

Yet some witnesses balked at a proposal that "by 1975 every child in Illinois will attend a school district which has sufficient size and financial ability to provide a quality education for him." Witnesses questioned the criteria for "sufficient size and financial ability." Some were reluctant to reorganize school districts.

Support was given to a proposal to bring the services of the state education office closer to the local districts. And the witnesses approved study and experimentation with the 12 month school year.

Former German Pilot Glides Into Harper

by BRAD BREKKE

Mention aviators, and Amelia Earhart and Charles Lindbergh probably come to mind.

Lindbergh flew a solo flight non-stop from New York to Paris in 1927. And Amelia became the first woman to cross the Atlantic in a solo flight in 1932.

But there is another big name in aviation and her life and records are virtually unknown in America.

Her name is Hannah Reitsch, a 60-year-old German test pilot, and she spoke at Harper Junior College Monday.

Mrs. Reitsch, a holder of the Iron Cross First Class, is a glider pilot most of all and even as late as last year set a new world's glider record over the Alps, attaining speeds of 370 miles an hour.

SHE SAID IN 1932 she studied medicine, then went into research and finally went into aviation. She had always wanted to be a flying doctor in Africa. Her father was a German physician and her mother an Austrian mountain climber and she claims this is how she transformed her heritage into a love of flying in the moutains and studying medicine.

In 1937 she became the first woman flight captain. In 1938 she became the glider champion of Germany. And in 1939 she won several more gliding records.

During World War II Mrs. Reitsch was a test pilot for the Germans and later became the first woman to fly a jet and a helicopter, having already been the first woman to fly a glider. She said she also became a prisoner of war in Germany, when she was captured by the Americans.

"Don't ask me what gliding means in an age when we have reached the moon. But let me say that the first man on the moon, Neil Armstrong, likes to fly gliders," she said.

The woman pilot explained that gliders lose height every second and that the world's record for altitude, flying a glider, is 44,000 feet, although this is a record she did not set.

During the course of her flying career she once set a world record of over six hours in a glider.

"EVERYONE SAID hooray for me when I landed. But when I get home, my Mother leave a note for me not to take all the credit. She say I must have grace of God, or I would have come down much earlier because of no wind. She helped me to understand humility.

"I had to sit on a hardwood board, on that flight in an open cockpit . . . was it cold. They didn't build gliders so nice as they do now. It was torture sitting there that long," she said.

Mrs. Reitsch then went on to tell how she felt when she was gliding high above the earth.

She said you feel closer to the stars than earth.

She spoke of a great emptiness in the heavens. A great quiet. And a great loneliness.

"Oh, you feel so much closer to God alone up there at night, without a sound around you. You feel so small. And all the problems of earth, even the wars, seem so small in comparison to the stars.

"And when you are high up, you can see the heavens above, the mountains below. Incredibly clear and very cold.

"The sea is like gold. The mountains are draped in white. The clouds a dripping red . . . all sparkling below like jewels."

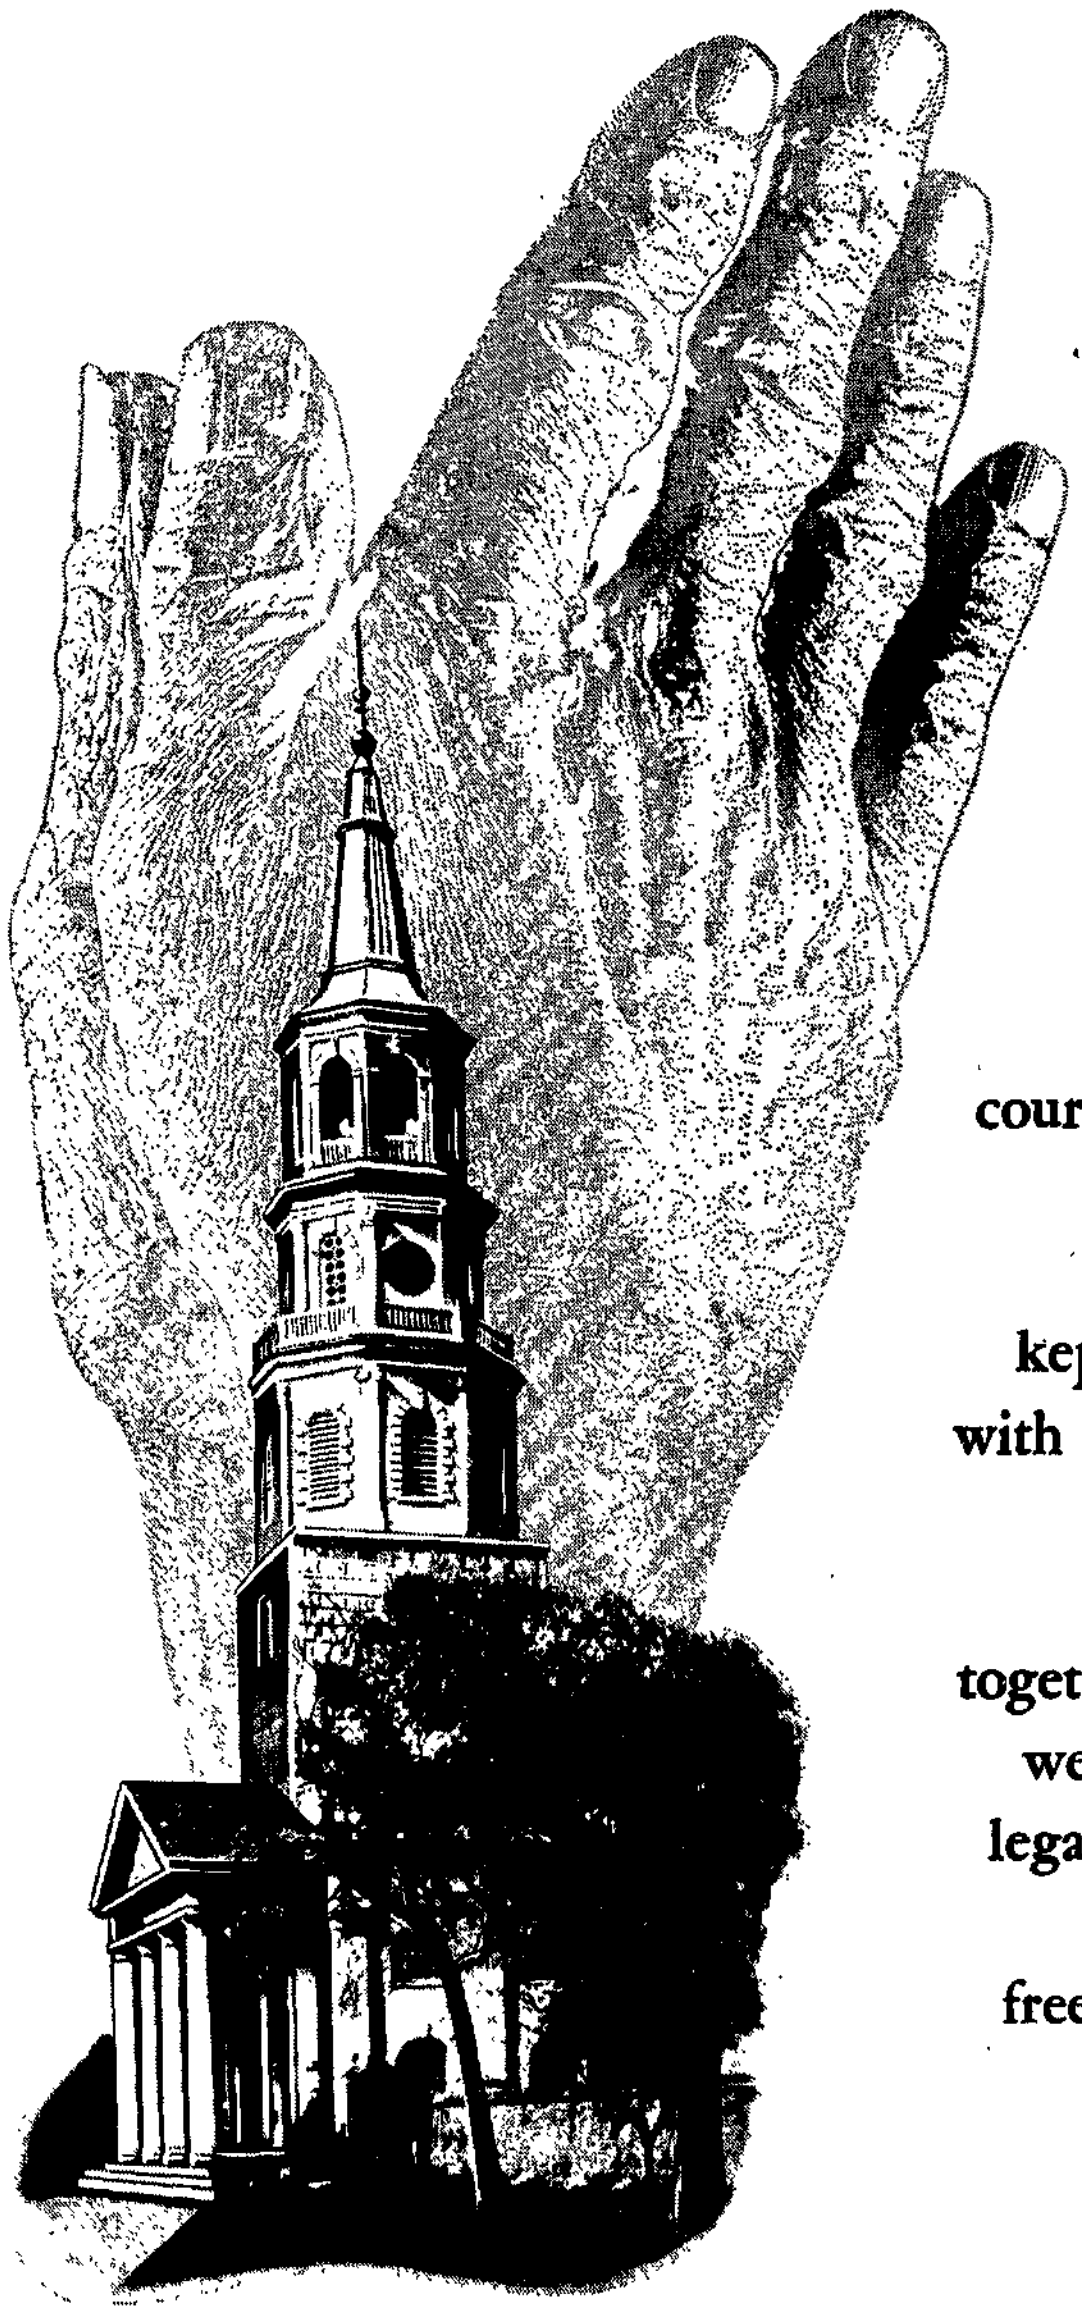
THANKSGIVING TIME



The Tradition of Freedom...Our Cherished Legacy

Freedom is a tradition in our great nation. From the earliest beginnings, the courage of our Pilgrim forefathers made it possible. The will and faith of our people have kept it alive. It will remain ours with vigilance and dedication. So— the past, the present and the future are inextricably woven together. Through freedom. Today we give thanks for this precious legacy. We remember and cherish our tradition. We pray that freedom will become the inalienable right of all nations.

Birth Control, VD To Be Discussed

Factual presentations will be given by medical experts about birth control and venereal disease at William Rainey Harper College on Dec. 7 and 9. The sessions will be open to the public.

Dr. Peter Segal, staff member of Northwestern University Medical School, will show a film, "To Plan Your Family," at 12:15 p.m. on Dec. 7 in room E-107. Segal, an obstetrician and gynecologist, will also discuss contraceptive methods. A question-and-answer period will follow his presentation, and a display will be available for viewing.

Segal is past medical director for the Planned Parenthood Association.

Epidemiologist Robert Delaney will use slides with his talk on venereal disease at 12:15 p.m. Dec. 9 in room E-107 Delaney is an advisor for Cook County Public Health Department. He will also answer questions from the audience.

The birth control and venereal disease lectures are made possible through the Student Senate and are sponsored by Harper College Health Services.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKay, college nurse, is in charge of the programs.

"The students' needs and requests have generated the plans for the lectures," Mrs. McKay said. "Last year was the first time we held seminars on birth control and venereal disease — and about 500 persons attended the sessions."

Mrs. McKay said, "The topics will be presented in an objective manner with positive and negative aspects discussed."

Harper College is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

Hi Neighbor!

HAVE A HAPPY THANKSGIVING

Comfort, Safety, Security, Turkey — Those are key words on Thanksgiving. But they are key words with us year 'round.

We make the environmental and security control systems that provide comfort, safety and security around the clock in offices, plants, schools and hospitals. And we make sure that they are not "Turkeys."

Great Joy
CONCORDIA

GOOD TIDINGS FROM Johann Sebastian Bach will be sung Sunday by the Northwest Choral Society at its fall concert. The 65-member choral group, shown here rehearsing, will sing the Midwest premiere of a Bach Advent oratorio, Good Tidings of Great joy. The concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines.

'Good Tidings' Concert In Des Plaines Sunday

The Northwest Choral Society will sing a premiere performance of the Advent oratoiro "Good Tidings of Great Joy" by Johann Sebastian Bach at a concert in Des Plaines this Sunday.

Soloists for the performance include Mrs. Louis Volberding, Miss Emilie Miller and Dan Detloff. The concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines.

Mrs. Volberding, a Des Plaines resident, has been a featured soprano soloist in a number of oratorio presentations and concerts in the Chicago area. Miss Miller, a Chicago resident, is a mezzo-contralto soloist with both the Rockefeller Chapel Choir and the North Shore Symphony. She has also appeared as soloist with the Gary (Indiana) symphony, the Michigan City (Indiana) Choral Society and the Chicago Lyric Opera Chorus during the 1968 season.

Detloff, making his second appearance with the Northwest Choral Society, was baritone soloist at Expo '67 in Montreal and on tours in the United States. He is director of music at Irving Park Lutheran Church and a professional member of the Chicago Symphony Chorus.

Schools Purchase Liability Insurance

If a civil rights suit is filed against a High School Dist. 214 employee or school board member, the district will be protected by a $1 million insurance policy.

The school board recently voted to purchase civil liability insurance to cover district personnel. The district must pay $1,000 of each loss. Each individual in the district is covered up to $100,000.

The cost to the district for three-year coverage is $6,000. The insurance firm of Lamb, Little and Company holds the policy.

The board's action is a response to recent legislation which makes it mandatory for school districts to protect employes and school board members from civil rights actions

Don't Forget Golden Agers

In that Norman Rockwell picture of three generations of a family clustered in prayer around a giant turkey, the focus seems to be on the eldest

Today, grandmother and grandfather remain at the center of the traditional Thanksgiving picture. Hidden though are the problems persons over 65 years face away from the Thanksgiving table

In fact, the older generation may be only reunited once or twice a year with its children For the rest of the year parents are often shunted aside into a home for the aged, into a cheap apartment (if one can be found) or into a retirement community far from the suburbs

Age does not have to be a plight, a time of despair or a lonely wait for death But as the youth culture increasingly dominates our lives there's an increasing danger that we will forget our parents and grandparents

For many persons over 65, loneliness it the last problem in the world about which to worry There are many, many persons who relish retirement and relaxation For many persons however, increasing physical ills, the loss of a wife or husband and the feeling that "nobody wants me" make old age a sad and tragic time.

An Arlington Heights trustee, James T. Ryan, has taken an important step to create an awareness of the reality called aging He recently proposed an ordinance to his village board to set up a special task force to look into what Arlington Heights can and should do to meet the needs of its senior citizens.

Hiring the elderly would be a good first step for any governmental unit not only to help those over 65 but to tap a resource which government needs to tap

Of the 3,036 persons over 65 years of age that live in Arlington Heights, there must be many persons itching to get back into a full-time or part-time job There are also many persons over 65 years of age who have the obvious qualifications for such work

For many, the retirement years call for travel, gardening or other well-earned leisure-time activities Many persons retire, however, and find they are still physically capable of making a contribution — and raising a living — through service to government, commerce or industry.

There has been some local attention to persons over 65 For example, Arlington Heights applied last year for federally financed housing for the elderly. The application is currently at the top of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) list of projects to be funded

In High School Dist 214's seven high schools, a "Gold Card" allows persons over 65 years of age to attend high school plays at no cost District officials have reported it is one of the most popular programs in the district

In short, government can and should respond to its constituents — and it is increasingly apparent that the elderly will demand a response if government doesn't act on its own

Last week the Circuit Court eliminated the homestead exemption as a tax break for persons over 65 There were several threats that the hard-pressed elderly, many who live on meager pensions, would respond with "no" votes on school referenda

The gentleman and lady who will cook or carve that Thanksgiving turkey today probably won't carry a picket sign in the future But his or her needs deserve attention — and response — from all branches of local government

A Step Backward?

Prof Paul Samuelson 1970 Nobel Prize-winner in economics, writes that he was amazed to learn that his economics textbook was being translated into Swedish

In Sweden, he asked the publisher, "Why did you bother? All educated Swedes know English."

The publisher replied, "Our students are losing their English They are better than early generations when it comes to the speaking vocabulary needed to travel abroad. But where grammar and subtler vocabulary are involved, there is a falling off in their mastery of the language because they are no longer drilled at school in the way they used to be."

Samuelson says he found this incredible until another person gave him the clue to the puzzle

"Actually, no one likes to study for exams in a text outside his native language I didn't like it in my time, nor did my father before me But today, what students don't want to do they don't have to do."

Now the deterioration of English among Swedish students hardly counts for much in the world's weighty concerns, yet it is not just in that country that "what students don't want to do, they don't have to do"

It will not be many years before we discover what else besides linguistic proficiency has been lost in this educational revolution.

Aid Goals Need Overhaul

by RAY CROMLEY

If the current squabbling and confusion over foreign aid eventually results in a top-to bottom overhaul of the entire concept and establishment of future assistance efforts on a rationally productive basis, it will indeed be a blessing

Something of this nature has been long overdue in the opinion of this writer after two decades of reporting on the subject, a view shared by many within the aid program, itself, both young Turks and veterans of the original Marshall Plan Nowhere, in fact, is criticism stronger of what the program has become than among men who have given 10 to 15 years of their lives to it

In private, of course

In its present form, the U S assistance program does not conform with President Nixon's foreign policy

It does not mesh with the purposes outlined by President Kennedy 10 years ago when the program was reorganized in its present form

Too frequently, aid has consisted of doing for foreign countries those things we believed should be done in the ways we thought they should be carried out, brushing local views aside

Because of a difference in customs or lack of local expertise, the results often have not done what we intended —"Logical" irrigation projects flopped because local people were not skilled in creating the organizations necessary to ensure maintenance, fairly divide the water, accurately divide costs and carry out collections

Ray Cromley

—Cooperative lending organizations funded by aid have failed because local managers found it impossible under local customs to lend the money fairly or to secure repayment even when recipients were prospering and the funds needed back in the lending pool for needy farmers

In some cases our aid triggered radical shifts in the economies and disrupted the social order

In other cases overemphasis was put on military aid when greater economic assistance might have increased stability and lessened the military need

Training of foreign peoples has been woefully inadequate in fostering the technical skills required to use the equipment we have provided, particularly in maintenance

There has been too much reliance on figures — on dams built irrigation projects started, tons of fertilizer spread, miles of road constructed, wells dug, power generated or schools completed

Americans can give of their technical knowledge They can train men and women in needed skills They can bring foreign specialists here But Americans cannot plan successfully the economic program of distant Asian, Latin or African nations without courting chaos

Nixon has said he wants local nations to plan their own defenses and provide the bulk of their own security The United States, at invitation, will provide the technical backup

Congressional furor over the aid bill should give the administration an opportunity to develop precisely this type of program If the will is strong enough

There are perhaps three reasons why it is necessary to effect changes

—Though the President's budget did submit some rather strong reform recommendations he has been so preoccupied with other quite urgent matters that there has been a tendency to let aid rock along —The talent required in the numbers necessary for project planning has been lacking in many developing countries until quite recently

—It is easy to talk about returning more initiative to recipient countries It is quite another thing in practice Knowing our own technical capability, we tend to "take over," as we took over fighting the Vietnam war because of the failings we saw in the South Vietnamese

A Stone Arch At Hiroshima

'The Error Shall Not Be Repeated'

by BRUCE BIOSSAT

Around a simple, low stone arch, a small knot of people huddled under umbrellas in the soft rain

In places far distant, people were arguing about the U S plan to set off a five-megaton underground atomic explosion on Amchitka Island in Alaska

Here, the people at the arch were looking at a polished granite "chest" with this inscription:

"Please rest in peace, for the error shall not be repeated "

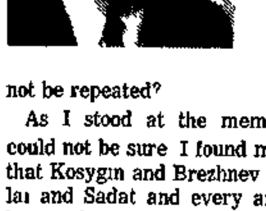
The chest contains the names of more than 78,000 known dead from the world's first atomic bomb, dropped over this very spot at 8 15 on the sunny morning of Aug 6, 1945

The dying has not ended Now and then someone suffering symptoms clearly identifiable as "atomic disease" — the internal aftereffects of atomic radiation — dies suddenly And another name is placed in the granite chest

The 78,000 is just a rough count No one really has any idea how many Japanese were killed that morning or died thereafter from injury or disease There may have been tens of thousands more And the Japanese are convinced that many who die seemingly from other causes today are in truth victims of the great bomb

Is there anyone, other than men in remote fastnesses, who has not heard of the horror of the bomb, who does not know that in mere seconds a city then holding 420,000 people was obliterated?

Is there anyone who knows the story who needs to be told that the error must not be repeated?



Bruce Biossat

As I stood at the memorial arch, I could not be sure I found myself wishing that Kosygin and Brezhnev and Chou En lai and Sadat and every angry, trigger-happy fanatic in the world would be made to come and see this place, to walk through the museum housing the relics of the bomb's unearthly destruction

The director of the museum is a gentle-spirited, bespectacled man named Kaoru Ogura, who was born in Seattle There was a strange incongruity in the softness of his voice as he guided me about, adding explanatory words to the visual story told in pieces of torn clothing, bent metal, fused sets of teacups, stone steps where a smudgy shadow bespoke a sitting woman who just vanished in a flash

The graphic story of Hiroshima's holocaust does not end with static exhibits There is a film showing how it was for those who lived — for a time No antiwar speech could hope to match it. I saw many watchers bow their heads or put their hands over their eyes

On the morning of Aug 6, 1945, no clock in Hiroshima ever struck nine The city was dead — and still reeking with peril for those who dared to venture into it But the human spirit, even when brutally scarred, thrusts into new life Hiroshima is reborn, a bustling industrial and port city of 600,000

The new city engulfs the memorial The children who play near it are innocent of the horror it recalls But, a few hundred yards away stands the ruin of a building that survived the bomb There is a curious grace in the frail garland of steel beams which are the remains of its sturdy dome As I drove off, I stared at it a long time For, in today's Hiroshima it alone had been there when it happened

Thanksgiving Day Meaning

What does Thanksgiving Day mean to us? A table loaded to the groaning point with food? One day set aside to fete relations and friends, to enhance the day? Is it the one day out of the year to visit our parents?

Perhaps we have lost the true meaning of Thanksgiving Day It originally was a day set aside to thank God for safety, bountiful harvest and home

It does seem a "little" ungrateful for us to remember to thank Him one day out of the year Each and every day of our lives should be offered up to Him in thanksgiving When we think about it, no breath we breathe, no tick of our hearts, can we claim as ours, wihout His giving He gives constantly to us, and we, only on Thanksgiving Day? And that is if we remember

A blessed Thanksgiving Day to all

Excellent Summary

We thought that your editorial entitled "Suburbs Stall Transit Action" in the Nov 11 issue of the Herald was an excellent summarization of our story and certainly came to the point about what everyone should do about it

While we don't send editorials normally to other newspapers, we thought yours stated the position so succinctly that we took the liberty of sending copies to the editors of all the other newspapers in the suburbs as well as the chief editorial writers of the downtown newspapers

Fees Not 'Illegal'

Your editorial in Nov 18 Herald, "Illegal School Fees Must End," was of special interest to me, for I oppose such fees as a matter of principle rather than as a matter of legality

As a member of the board of education in District 211 I initiated action several months ago which hopefully will lead to the elimination of fees at district schools within the next few years Specifically my proposal is to reduce fees by $4 a year during each of the next six years, at which time they would be eliminated

However, your editorial is very misleading Fees have not been adjudged illegal as yet That is why the system is being challenged in the courts In fact as you state in your editorial, a lower court already has ruled certain of these fees legal, and that ruling will stand until a higher court overturns it And, until that time school districts are NOT "illegally surpassing their taxing powes," as you put it

Thus, while I agree with your philosophy, I feel your editorial as written is entirely misleading — and inaccurate

'Thanks' To Schools

We would like to express our deep gratitude to all of our many friends in Dist 214 who came to the Hersey Prospect faculty Benefit Game on Nov 18 It is impossible to express in words our deep appreciation for your thoughtfulness

It was most wonderful of the many administrators, teachers and coaches to take time from their busy schedule to organize, supervise and participate in this game It is tremendous to know that we have so many friends who care

We would also like to take this opportunity to again thank the Hersey Student Council for establishing the H L Schultz Memorial Fund and express our thanks to all the Hersey and Prospect students who have given of their time and effort to raise money to contribute As Mr Schultz always said, "You young people are great " And to all of our friends who so generously contributed, we would like to extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation May God Bless all of you "

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials have chopped a federal conservation subsidy program to the lowest level since 1954. But a never-say-die lobbyist has cranked up a grass-roots campaign to force expansion of the program.

The latest administration move came earlier this month when the White House Office of Management and Budget told the Agriculture Department it could allocate only $140 million for 1972 operations of the Rural Environmental Assistance Program.

Congress earlier had authorized $195.5 million for the program, under which farmers can collect federal "cost-share" payments if they carry out approved conservation and pollution-reducing practices. In most cases the government subsidy covers about half the overall cost of the work.

FACED WITH the $55.5 million gap between what Congress approved and what the administration is — so far — willing to spend, President Robert M. Koch of the National Limestone Institute has called on local farm leaders to mount a lobbying campaign for release of the "frozen" funds. Koch urged backers of the payment program to call or write their congressmen and senators "to demand the full funding of the $195.5 million which Congress passed for the 1972 program."

Koch, for years an active lobbyist in behalf of the payment program, had announced several months ago he was giving up because of a lack of grass roots support. Recently, however, he reversed his stand and returned to the fray because of what he called a "tremendous grass roots swell" for saving the subsidy program which followed his earlier statement.

Wireless Meter Reading System Will Be Tested

An automatic wireless meter reading system that uses a mobile unit to pick up microwave signals will be field tested by Commonwealth Edison Company starting next year.

L. F. Lischer, Edison vice president, said the research will be conducted on an advanced and improved version of the PURDAX system manufactured by Sangamo Electric Co., of Springfield.

Edison plans to install the system on more than 500 electric meters in a program that is expected to require about two years for design, installation and field testing.

Scheduled for operation by next June, the system will use a roving radio-equipped panel truck to obtain meter readings. The truck's equipment will include transmitting and receiving equipment and a computer-compatible tape recorder.

Microwave beams sent out by the mobile unit's transmitter will contact meters via antennas that reflect signals of meter readings back to the receiver and tape recorder. The system will use the latest solid state miniature electronic technology.

During the test period all meter readings will be checked for accuracy by the normal visual-manual method.

"This trial marks an extension of Commonwealth Edison's efforts to advance the technology of automatic meter reading," said Lischer. "The goal of Edison and Sangamo is to perfect a system that will be accurate, economical and fully adaptable to the increasing mobility of the large number of customers in Chicago and northern Illinois."

Earnings In Quarter Low

The Richardson Co. reported sales for its third quarter, exclusing those of Joseph Davis Plastics Co., (a subsidiary whose assets were sold in early August), of $25,994,000, compared with $26,937,000 for the same period a year ago.

Earnings after preferred dividend requirements, exclusive of Davies, were $393,000, or 9 cents a share for the third quarter of 1971, compared with $1,011,000, or 49 cents a share in 1970.

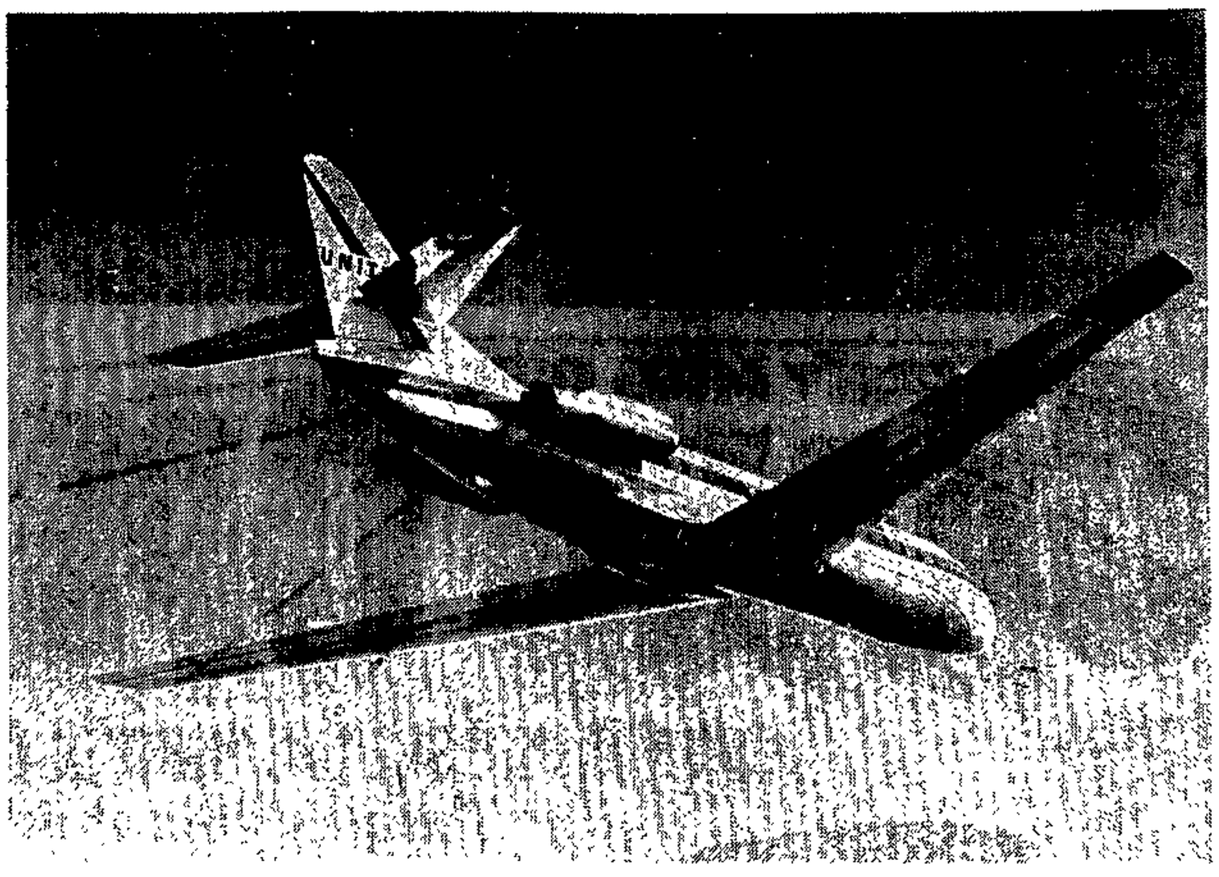
On the same basis, sales for the nine month period were $77,241,000 in 1971, and $83,828,000 in 1970. Nine month earnings were $1,574,000, or 50 cents a share in 1971, and $2,799,000 or $1.31 a share in 1970.

Joseph Davis incurred an operating loss of $96,000 on sales of $625,000 in the third quarter of 1971, compared with a loss of $342,000 on sales of $1,610,000 for the same period a year ago. For the nine month period, Davis sales were $3,659,000 in 1971, and $6,658,000 in 1970, with losses of $665,000 in 1971, and $597,000 a year ago.

Richardson earnings for the third quarter of 1971, including the Davis operations, amounted to $297,000, or 2 cents a share, compared with $669,000, or 26 cents a share a year ago.

For the first nine months of 1971, earnings including the Davis operations, were $909,000, or 6 cents a share before an extraordinary item, compared with $2,202,000, or 91 cents a share a year ago.

Company president William B. Basile said, "The sale of Davis has relived Richardson of the serious operating losses that the subsidiary had been sustaining, and stabilized our position for the first time in more than a year." Basile added the company had experienced an improvement in sales during August and September, which carried into October.



A $6.8 MILLION sale to Sterling Airways of Denmark of the 13 remaining Caravelle jets owned by United Air Lines was annouced by Edward E. Carlson, president of United, and Anders Helgstrand, president of Sterling. Helgstrand said Sterling will use the Caravelles in charter work in Europe, the Middle and Far East and Africa. The acquisition makes Sterling one of the world's largest users of Caravelles, with 31 aircraft. Details of the $6.8 million sale, believed to be the largest single transaction involving used commercial aircraft, were negotiated by Glen A. Allred, United's contract sales manager in Denver. He said deliveries to Sterling would begin later this month and will be completed next March.

Lawmakers Keep Close Tax Eye On Cigarettes

Cigarettes continue to draw the revenue-raising eyes of state lawmakers across the country with fourteen states upping the state tax ante on this item so far in 1971, notes Commerce Clearing House (CCH).

The biggest increase in the rate of state tax, 5 cents a package, was levied by four states: Arkansas taxes were increased to 17.75 cents, effective March 22; Connecticut taxes rose to 21 cents effective Aug. 23; Nebraska taxes jumped to 13 cents, effective April 28; and Washington's tax rose to 16 cents effective June 1.

CCH said the smallest increases were levied by Minnesota, up 1 cent to 13 cents on May 21, effective retroactively to May 29, 1969; Florida, up 2 cents to 17 cents effective July 1; and Maine, up 2 cents to a total levy of 14 cents effective July 1. New Hampshire had a percentage increase of 8 per cent to result in a total levy of 42 per cent.

Other states raising cigarette taxes were Delaware, 11 to 14 cents; Georgia. 8 to 12 cents; Iowa, 10 to 13 cents; Massachusetts, 12 to 16 cents; Montana, 8 to 12 cents; and Texas, 15.5 to 18.5 cents. A 5-cent Oregon increase has been suspended by referendum and will appear on the November, 1972 election ballot.

Cigarette tax rates have increased rapidly during the last six years as indicated in CCH's State Tax Review.

Wright Speed, Work At Line Jolt Hawk Five

Lightning-quick Wright, capitalizing on Harper turnovers and cashing with regularity at the free throw line, broke open a tight game in the second half Tuesday evening and rolled to a 103-83 victory over the visiting Hawks.

Harper, making its debut with new head coach Dave Etienne, only trailed by one at halftime, but the swift Rams, playing their third game of the young season, started working the boards with more authority and using their speed to good advantage in rolling to the victory.

"We're better than we showed," said Hawk coach Etienne. "I know the kids know that and that's important. We had foul problems and losing Spry (Don) for so long took away our rebounding in the second half.

"You have to give credit to Wright, they used their speed, and they took away a lot of things that we wanted to do, but they had played two games already and that had to help."

Harper, shooting a dazzling .532 from the floor and matching Wright in baskets, just didn't make enough trips to the free throw line. The host Rams hit on 38 of 51 free throws and four Harper players had five fouls.

"Don (Spry) picked up four in the first half and actually played only about 10 or 12 minutes in the game," said Etienne. "We rebounded better in the first half and held them to only three offensive rebounds then. They had us 24-11 rebounding in the second half and our fouling and turnovers were the difference too."

Harper showed good firepower on the attack with reliable Kevin Barthule taking game honors with 11 baskets and 7 free throws for 29 points.

"Kevin did a great job," enthused Etienne. "He's the closest to the complete type of player we have and one of the hardest working kids I've ever coached."

Jeff Algaier tossed in 19 points and Terry Rohan 16.

"We know what we have to work on," said Etienne, "and we'll just keep pushing it until we get it right. Our inability to get back on the fast break showed. We knew we were weak on it and we'll just have to emphasize it more now. These kids will be okay. This is a good group."

Harper plays Prairie State Friday night at seven o'clock at the College of DuPage, Lambert Road and 22nd Street, Glen Ellen.

Area All-Staters!

Running backs Joe Bombicino of St. Viator and Mike Pryor of Forest View and lineman Pat Teefey of Hersey were named to the 35th Annual Chicago Daily News All-State football team released Wednesday.

Quarterbacks Jim Stauner of Palatine and Terry Ormsbee of Arlington were named to the Rockford Morning Star-Register Republic All-State football team announced this morning. They were two of 10 quarterbacks named to the 44-man squad. No other Herald area gridders were honored by Rockford.

Brodnan Paces Frosh

Arlington grad John Brodnan made his Northwestern University basketball debut an impressive one as he paced his freshman teammates with 18 points in a scrimmage against the Wildcat varsity.

The freshmen got clobbered, 90-48, but Brodnan managed to click on 6-of-14 from the field and 6-of-7 from the free throw line. The talented guard hauled down one rebound and was nailed for two personal fouls.

The varsity was led by guard Shoger's 22 and Rick Sund's 18. After running to a 40-29 halftime advantage, the varsity shut off the frosh attack and limited them to just 19 second-half points.

Female Track Stars

Kathy LaPorte and Trudi Rebsamen of Mount Prospect, Illinois were among the nation's top track and field competitors for this past season while competing in the AAU Junior Olympics program. Official tabulations for the twenty-first season of Junior Olympic track and field competition were announced today by Sam Giambelluca, chairman of the Junior Olympic track and field committee for the AAU. Miss LaPorte's performance of 17' ½" for the long jump placed her fifth in the junior division. Miss Rebsamen was third at 17-2 and she ran 60-5 in the 440 for second.

An estimated five million young people competed in the various AAU competitions during the 1971 outdoor season, the twenty-first for the Junior Olympic program. Boys and girls participated in the athletic activities in age groups ranging from bantam (9 and under) to midget (10 and 11) to junior (12 and 13) to intermediate (14 to 15) and finally to senior (16 and 17) divisions.

Football Feast On Turkey Day

by HARMON STAFF

Number One battles Number Two on Thanksgiving Day, and Thumber Three thrashes it out with Number Six on Saturday.

As we said last week, copy will abound this week on Nebraska-Oklahoma. In the Harmon book, the Cornhusker power quotient is just two points stronger than the Sooners, but whatever happens, you may be sure that a lot of mouth-watering turkey dinners all over the nation will suffer from cute footballitis.

Saturday's clash between the two Alabama unbeatens, Auburn and Alabama, won't run into any conflict with Thanksgiving dinners — possible only cold turkey for the losers. The Southeast Conference championship is squarely on the line in this 36th renewal of the Battle of Alabama. Georgia's inability to stop Auburn two weeks ago surprised us . . . the Crimson Tide might have the same problem, but we don't think so. Alabama will "hold that Tiger" just a bit better . . . Auburn is the underdog by six points.

Army meets Navy in the Big Tradition in Philadephia. The Cadets have shown a few more flashes of brilliance than the Middies, but as usual it can be anybody's ball game. On paper, it's West Point over Annapolis by two points.

In all the years we've been rating the college division teams (small colleges?), we've never had such a powerful Number One team as Delaware is this year. Nor have we had one that has been so far out in front of the rest of the pack as are the Blue Hens. Temple, now classed as a major school, was the only team to beat Delaware. Eight points back, in second place, is Tampa, with unbeaten Tennessee State and McNeese State third and fourth respectively.

On Thanksgiving Day, Texas will nail down the coffin containing the rest of the teams in the Southwest Conference. The Longhorns, No. 11, will win the league crown and earn the host's spot in the Cotton Bowl with an 18-point victory over Texas A & M. Seventh-ranked Georgia will whip the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech by 14 points.

In the Southwest and far West, two of the nation's powerhouses will close out their 1971 seasons. Tenth-ranked Arizona State, beaten only by Oregon State, will beat archrival Arizona by 28 points, and Houston No. 12, will scalp Utah, also by 28 points.

In one of the climaxes to the 1971 college football season on Dec. 4th, 5th-ed Penn State will beat Tennessee, No. 18, by 13 points.

Elk Grove Sweeps Four Games From Streamwood

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Association teams enjoyed another successful week, sweeping all four games from Streamwood Park District. Three wins were routs and only two goals were allowed by Elk Grove in the four contests.

In Bantam action, Elk Grove was a 4-1 winner. Gary Pratscher scored first, assisted by Mark Gustafson and Joe Uhlarik. Mike Walsh got the next score, assisted by Steve Phillips. Gustafson got the third goal from Bob Brunn and Uhlarik and Brunn tacked on the final tally on another Uhlarik assist.

The Bantams also played a non-conference game against Hoffman Estates battling to a 2-2 tie. Steve Cimino played well as goalie for Elk Grove. Uhlarik scored the first goal unassisted. Elk Grove's other score was by Brian Rutkowski, assisted by Bill Javers and Walsh.

The Midget game went to Elk Grove by an overwhelming 11-0. John Javers got his first shutout of the season in goal. Ron Cleckler led the scoring with a three-goal hat trick. Mike Wallman added two goals. Sven Overland had a goal and assist. Greg Ibarra a goal and Frank Ferraro and Larry Mitch assists.

Other scoring was by Harold Bishop with a goal and two assists, Mark Christensen and Ray Fedel with a goal apiece, and Rob Goeske with a goal and assist. Bill Halfpenny, John Foster and John Gallagher barely missed scoring as their shots hit the net post.

Elk Grove won the Squirt game 9-0 for its sixth straight win to remain in first place. The Pee Wee game went to Elk Grove by an 11-1 score.

The same four teams will go against Dundee next Wednesday, Dec. 1 sith the Squirts starting at 6:00, the Pee Wees at 7:10, Bantams at 8:20 and Midgets at 9:30. The Village Realty Juveniles will take on Schaumburg Sunday, Nov. 28.

Puppets Used To Describe Care Of Teeth

Dental Hygiene sophomores at Harper College in Palatine have created a puppet troupe to demonstrate, in storybook style, the do's and don'ts of tooth care. The shows are presented in local elementary schools.

This is the third year free dental health instruction has been presented by Harper Dental Hygiene students as part of the requirements for their community dentistry course. It is the first year the puppets have made their appearance.

Instruction is given at elementary schools in Barrington Dist. 4, Palatine Dist. 15, Schaumburg Dist. 54, and Arlington Heights Dist. 59. Included in the presentations are the puppet show, instruction by the visiting hygienist, and "brush-ins" with new toothbrushes for each child.

The puppets, including such characters as a pirate, a golden-haired lady, variuos monster types, and even animated gloves, were created at the suggestion of Mrs. Mary Catherine Edwards, assistant professor of dental hygiene.

MRS. EDWARDS says, "The puppet show is a good addition to our educational program. The students have been so creative and innovative — they have really extended themselves in doing the job."

The puppets are also television stars. The show has been videotaped in Harper's educational TV studio. The tape will be shown on a television monitor for the children who attend the Harper Dental Hygiene Clinic.

The clinic serves the public as well as Harper faculty, students and staff. Services include X-ray, cleaning of teeth by ultrasonic equipment, and charting of dental caries. More than 6,000 patients have been served since the opening of the Clinic in fall, 1969.

The clinic iss open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. A nominal fee is charged for services.

The Dental Hygiene students are enrolled in a two-year career program (including one summer session) leading tonn associate in applied science degree. Graduates, upon passing the State Board examination, can look forward to a career as a dental hygienist in a private dental office, hospital, public or private health agency, the armed forces, and other government agencies.

"CAPTAIN DECAY" and "Tinker Tooth" come to life with the help of Harper College dental hygiene sophomres Barbara Sliwa, left, and Anne Tennant. The puppets perform for elementary school children.

Cub Scout Leaders Set Dec. 5 Pow-Wow

The largest conference of Cub Scout leaders in the Northwest suburbs will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, at Harper College in Palatine.

Over 400 adult leaders are registered for the training and sharing Pow-Wow. Chairman of the event is Robert L. Gillilan of Barrington.

Training and facilities chairmen are as follows: physical arrangements and registration, Gene Frank, Elk Grove Village; exhibits midway, Robert Grizzell, Arlington Heights; Blue & Gold dinner, Sheldon Kornick, Niles; pack administration, William Hommowun, Hanover Park; Webelos den, Ray Witczak, Palatine; crafts, Vern Ecklund, Des Plaines; skits and puppets, James Eischen, Glenview; games, Bill Stout, Arlington Heights; professional coordinator, Jim Stevenson, Hoffman Estates.

Sponsor of the Pow-Wow is the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America. Special guest speakers will be Arthur J. Allen, scout executive, Mount Prospect, and S. P. Dykstra, council training chairman, Palatine.

Tickets are available at $1.50 advance reservations only.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Over the past five years every type of coin or medal has been issued in commeoration of someone or something. But not until Coin World introduced the "Santa Token" have I seen anything paying tribute to old Saint Nick.

It measures 20 millimeters in diameter, which is one millimeter larger than a U.S. cent and displays the smiling countenance of Kris Kringle on the obverse with his name above, and a piar of ribbon-bound bells and the inscription "Season's Greetings" on the reverse.

The token, in pure copper or silver, is produced by Art-Gem Coins, 7016 Harvard Ave., Cleveland, Ohio 44105.

WITH THE increasing number of pure silver, sterling silver and fine silver products being offered, the question arises as to just what is being offered.

Today, almost six years after silver was abandoned for coinage by our Treasury, its effect on the world trading exchanges is no more nor less than when it comprised 90 per cent of our pocket currency. And yet the very mention of the word in a sales brochure geared to sell a "silver" product seems to net the producer far more profit in a single sale than a bar of the real stuff.

Being a precious metal, it is preferred for alloys over most metals and, regardless of its percentage in the mixture, the coin or token is always referred to as a "silver piece."

A good example of this is the 1942-1945 U.S. wartime emergency five-cent piece all too often called the silver nickel. Actually, its percentage of the whole composition never exceeded 35 per cent but its overriding preference to copper or manganese gave it top billing.

"Silver ingots" are popping up all over the country. They are available in 1-ounce to 25-ounce bars mostly of .999 fine silver, the purest form possible. Pieces formerly advertised as 1,000/1,000 Fine just could not hold up under complete refinement and that fineness is no longer popular.

MOST 1-OUNCE Troy ingots of this purity sell from $3 to $3.50. A 25-ounce Troy bar reduces accordingly to around $60 to $68. With the November closing price of silver at $1.30 an ounce, the going rates for these ingots are within reason.

Some producers are offering "solid sterling silver" ingots at prices far greater than the composition warrants. Sterling silver can be no more than .925 fine, making the actual worth of a sterling silver 1-ounce ingot considerably less than an ingot of .999 Fine.

For your protection, always examine a gold or silver ingot for indications of its refinement. Ingots or bars represented as "pure" or .999 fine must be counterstamped with that information along with the producer's name or hallmark. If these signatures are not present, you have every right to hold the article suspect. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

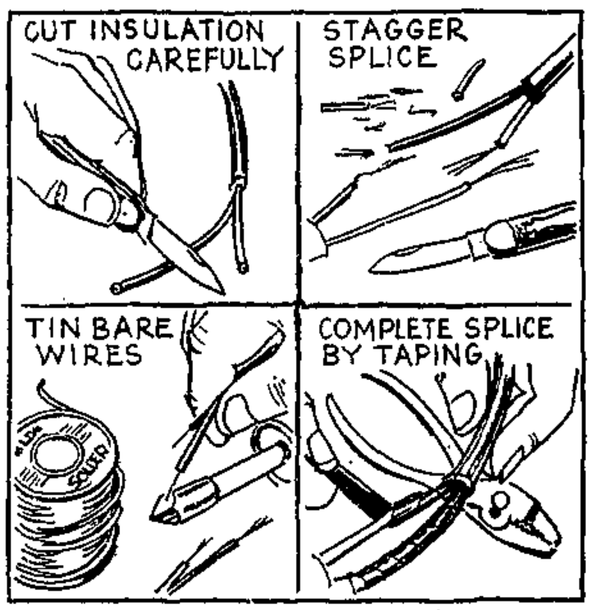
Do-It-Yourself

Fastening one electrical wire to another — whether inside a light fixture, an appliance or merely making a short wire longer — is known as splicing.

It involves more than simply twisting two wires together. The connection must be made so that it is electrically sound as well as mechanically strong.

If electrical cords are old and frayed at more than one spot, splicing is not wise. Nor is it practical to splice short lengths.

To keep the splice from being lumpy, stagger it in the two wires that make up the cord. Cut one strand so that the connection will not occur in the same spot in the other strand.



CUT THE insulation carefully so that you don't go through the wire. While there are special cutters electricians use to make the job go quickly, they are an unnecessary expense for the casual user. Use a sharp knife. Make several cuts at an angle.

With practice, you can cut insulation with side cutters, special pliers that are used for electrical work. If you use side-cutting pliers, make certain you close them only partially so that you cut only the insulation.

If you have staggered the cuts in both wires, remember to match up the short wire in one cord with the long one in the other.

You will make a better electrical connection if you tin the bare wires before splicing. Scrape the wires clean. Then hold the wire against a soldering iron until it is hot. Apply rosin-core solder to the hot wire, coating it thinly and evenly.

After the wires are tinned, twist them together tightly. Hold the spliced section against the hot soldering iron (or use a small blow torch) and again apply rosin-core solder.

THE SPLICED joint is completed by taping. Use a combination of rubber and friction tapes, or use the newer plastic tape alone.

Solderless connectors make splicing easier but cannot be used on exposed splices. There are good inside lighting fixtures and appliances, where they will be covered and there will be no handling to loosen them.

The connector is nothing more than a plastic nut with a threaded metal insert. Twist the wires together and insert them in the connector. Then give the connector a few turns and the job is done. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — During my last physical exam, my doctor found my urea nitrogen to be double the normal.

I had my kidneys X rayed and also had dye injected into my blood and this was also X rayed as it passed through my body.

My doctor says everything was O K. He didn't explain to me what urea nitrogen was. I'm worried about this and wondered if I'm going to have trouble in the future. I understand this a kidney malfunction. Please help.

Dear Reader — First, quit worrying Urea is the chemical compound left over after protein is metabolized. Individuals who eat a lot of meat or other foods high in protein form more urea than individuals eating a lower protein diet. Within broad ranges, urea is not harmful to the body.

The urea formed by the body is excreted in the urine. In this way, the kidney filters off the excess amounts.

Since urea contains nitrogen, the laboratory test to measure the amount of urea in the blood is done by measuring the nitrogen in the urea — hence, the term "urea nitrogen." If there is an increased amount of urea in the blood, left over from protein metabolism, the urea nitrogen measurement is increased.

NOW, IF THE kidneys are damaged and not functioning properly, they don't filter the blood adequately and excess urea accumulates in the blood. This possibility is why your doctor examined your kidneys so carefully. And, happily, he found out your kidneys work fine.

To filter the blood of urea efficiently, the kidney must be able to flush out a considerable amount of water, which is the amount of urine formed each day. If a person is not passing much urine, the urea can also build up in the bloodstream.

A common cause for increased amounts of urea nitrogen in healthy people is a diet rich in protein, the meat eaters are usually the ones, with a low intake of fluids or water. This is particularly true if the person works in the hot sun and loses a lot of water in sweat rather than through the formation of urine. A lot of blood tests are also done after a night of fasting, which adds to the likelihood of high urea nitrogen values I saw a lot of these in young, healthy pilots that merely reflected the eating, drinking and exercise habits of these men. The elevation in urea nitrogen within broad limits in such cases is entirely normal.

Your doctor was wise to test you carefully to rule out any important cause. He has done that and now you can relax. I might suggest, though, that you improve your water drinking habits, especially before your next examination.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

How do you know when to raise your partner's no-trump opening to four no-trump? It is a simple matter of counting points — the key number is 33 for a small slam.

If you hold just 14 balanced points opposite a no-trump the most your side can have is 32 so you just raise to game. With 17 the least you can have is 33 so you bid six no-trump

Thus the raise to four no-trump shows 15-16 high-card points. If you have just 15 you need a couple of 10 spots to give your hand some extra playing strength.

North has 15 high-card points plus three of those 10 spots. He raises to four no-trump South holds 17 points and decides to make the super scientific call of five no-trump. North carries on to the small slam and hopes for the best.

The best eventuates. It turns out that North's 10 of clubs is worth a trick. South knocks out the club ace and takes three clubs, three spades, two hearts and four diamonds for a total of 12.

This time the 10 of spades and hearts aren't needed The 10 of clubs did enough work for all three but you can see their potential value.

Know 'Language' Of Storms

EDITOR'S NOTE: With winter weather breathing down the necks of Midwesterners, Joseph Balanda, a geography student at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, wrote the following article to explain the exact meaning of weather terms we often hear.

Winter storms can occur as cold waves, ice or glaze storms, heavy snow storms, or blizzards. Frequently, the same storm changes form several times during its lifetime

The National Weather Service (formerly the U S Weather Bureau) through storm watches, warnings, special bulletins and routine forecasts identifies the type of severe winter weather expected in certain areas by key words

Freezing rain or freezing drizzle occurs when surface temperatures are below freezing The moisture falls in liquid form but freezes on impact, resulting in a coating of ice or glaze on all exposed objects Freezing rain or drizzle frequently occurs at temperatures near or slightly below freezing

The National Weather Service uses the terms ice storm, freezing rain, freezing drizzle to warn the public when a coating of ice is expected on the ground, trees, overhead wires or buildings The qualifying term "heavy" is used to indicate ice coatings which because of the extra weight of the ice, will cause a great deal of damage to trees and wires.

Sleet storms are sometimes incorrectly referred to as ice storms Sleet can be easily identified as frozen rain drops which bounce when hitting the ground or other objects Sleet does not stick to trees and wires, but can cause hazardous driving conditions

Snow comes in many forms, some of which are destructive

The National Weather Service issues heavy snow warnings to the public in areas where a substantial accumulation is expected The term heavy snow warning is generally used when four inches more of snow is expected in a 24-hour period

Snow flurries are defined as snow falling for short durations at intermittent periods Snowfall during the "flurries" may reduce visibility to an eighth of a mile or less Accumulations from snow flurries are generally small.

Snow squalls are brief, intense falls of snow for a short duration and are comparable to summer rain showers. They are frequently accompanied by gusty surface winds Snow accumulations from snow squalls are usually small

Blowing and drifting snow usually occur together and result from strong winds and falling snow or loose snow on the ground Blowing snow is snow lifted from the surface by the wind and blown so that visibility is greatly affected. The term blowing snow is only used in forecasts when there is a small amount of snow and there is no appreciable drifting

The term drifting snow is used in forecasts to indicate strong winds will blow falling snow or loose snow on the ground into significant drifts

A blizzard is the most dramatic and perilous of all winter storms Blizzards are characterized by low temperatures and strong winds bearing large amounts of snow. Snowfall is usually present during the early stages of a blizzard However, most of the snow accompanying a blizzard is in the form of fine, powdery particles of snow which are whipped from the surface, creating a blinding condition

Blizzard warnings are issued when winds with speeds of at least 35 miles an hour are accompanied by considerable falling or blowing snow, reducing visibility to less than 500 feet Temperatures of 20 degrees or lower are expected during this time

Severe blizzard warnings are issued when blizzards of extreme proportions are expected and indicate wind with speeds of at least 45 mph plus a great density of falling or blowing snow with visibility near zero and a temperature of 10 degrees or lower

A cold wave warning indicates an expected rapid fall in temperature within a 24-hour period which will require a substantially increased protection of agricultural, industrial, commercial and social activities

However, regardless of the month or the section of the country, a cold wave warning is a "red flag alert" to the public that during the forthcoming period, a change to very cold weather will require greater than normal protective measures

A watch might be issued for any of the types of hazardous winter conditions, such as a blizzard watch or cold wave watch, etc

The term watch is used when there are indications that hazardous weather might develop in or move into the area A warning is issued when there is a high degree of certainty that the hazardous weather will develop in or move into the area. A watch can be issued a longer time in advance of a storm than can a warning and serves to alert people to a potential threat.

Marine's 'Toys For Tots' Plan To Begin Soon

The U S Marine Corps this year will help provide needy boys and girls with toys through their "Toys for Tots" program

Marines will soon be collecting toys for distribution to recognized welfare agencies in this area Collection points will be at Kentucky Fried Chicken stores.

At each store will be a box in which contributors can leave new or used toys in good condition Marines will sort and distribute them

The toy program was started in 1948 by three Marine Corps Reserve officers in Los Angeles

Since 1953 more than 200 Marine Corps Reserve ground and air units in nearly as many communities throughout America have participated. From 1953 to 1963 these units collected more than three million toys each year More than 38 million toys have been collected and nearly 20 million children have benefited from the program

There is nothing like a Den Mother.

The work isn't always easy, but it is always rewarding. America's manpower begins with BOYPOWER, and nothing builds BOYPOWER like the Scouts. Will you help?

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Report Schaumburg Realty Sales

Cook County recorder Sidney R. Olsen in the autumn Schaumburg township real estate transfer report listed the sales of 12 properties in Hanover Park, one in Roselle and 146 in Schaumburg and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are:

Plan Home Study Area

A student, career woman, housewife, executive, salesman or bluecollar worker will need a study at home.

The student in many families has first priority. In some families, more than one study is essential.

A logical place for a student's study is his room. To make it something more than a bedroom, thoughtful parents will enlist the youngster's ideas so together they can come up with an environment that will make the child comfortable and happy to be there.

Drab walls may be brighted by paint, but the study area itself should be distinguished by paneled walls, suggests Norma Brown, homemaking consultant to Masonite Corp.

"Simply setting aside an eight-foot wall in this way makes the area 'special.' The cost is minimal, especially if Dad does the work -- perhaps $25 for the materials," she said.

Miss Brown suggests that a suitable desk with drawers or two filing cabinets with a hardboard-topped working surface be provided, together with adequate lighting, comfortable straight back chair, typewriter, and bookshelves.

If the bedroom is too small for a desk, then a study can be set up in a basement corner, attic, porch or utility room.

Simply take a corner of such larger space and enclose it for privacy and quiet, using partition walls covered by prefinished hardboard paneling that strikes the fancy of the student or other person needing a study.

For more suggestions on moderninzing a home with a study or improving other areas, send a postcard to the Masonite Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690, for a free brochure, Living Ideas for Your World at Home.

Nuts-And-Bolts Training Boosts Sales Profession

The emphasis is on anticipation in the training classes sponsored by Northwest Suburban real estate firms.

Whether it's knowing the location of schools nearby a home up for sale, overcoming a buyer's objections to the location or price of a house or learning to deal with the questions of homeowners thinking of putting the home in the market. the realty merchants are putting their know-how on the line each time they deal with a client. Veteran salesmen are sharing their expertise in the field with new recruits in a variety of classes sponsored by area realty firms as those conducted by Richard Rutledge. executive vice president of the Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., real estate firm. Q&T has offices in the north and northwest suburbs.

Preparing the fledgling sales person pays off in professionalism according to Rutledge. He also sees intensive training as a solution to the personnel turnover problem. "The turnover rate in our business is unfortunately high," he said. "Many people are leaving the business." The company has cut the turnover rate among its sales force by attracting self-motivated people. giving them adequate training and providing the back-up support of office personnel and services according to Rutledge.

"We train our new sales people in three basic areas." said Rutledge. "This means knowledge of the business, the ability to put this knowledge to work and in self-motivation." Although he believes that motivation more than any other factor determines a person's success in real estate sales, Rutledge sees basic training sessions as a necessity.

All real estate salesmen get training needed to obtain a state license and additional information from local real estate boards or multiple listing services. Rutledge sees other levels in a continuing program of education for the salesman, however. This includes practical training courses in listing in selling by his own company; the Realtors Institute of Illinois programs; and a series of courses offered through the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers.

Rutledge recently completed a sales training course consisting of 14 sessions at the company's Deerfield office. Films are used in addition to lectures and class discussions.

"Avoid getting bogged down in the mechanics of the business," he advises the new sales people. "Learn to use the specialized knowledge of lending institutions, title companies, attorneys and others in related fields."

"Don't assume you're effective if you're busy," Rutledge said. Keeping accurate records, organizing time, setting down written goals are all "musts" for a salesman he said.

The nuts and bolts of the real estate profession is also taught at classes sponsored by the Gallery of Homes Northwest company in Elk Grove Village, said principal Bill Nieman. The firm also has an Arlington Heights office. Nieman concentrates on basics as showing property, preparing a property for a sale in his classes.

Financing is another area in which a salesman needs training to meet the needs of home buyers according to Nieman. He is president of the MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service.

John Markay, a principal of the Gladstone Realty firm with offices in Elk Grove Village and Des Plaines, said his company has a five phase training program for potential sales personnel.

"We are dealing with people who are just coming into the field and having all the frustrations of changing their job," said Markay. "In phase one we do extensive testing and screening. If we think that person can be successful in the real estate field we put them into a 25-hour class teaching them the real estate law and practices. Those persons successfully completing the course and who pass the state license exam then begin phase two. This is a 90-hour program of listing and sales in background in addition to practical experience in the field.

Phase three sales trainees are assigned to work with senior salesmen in their first listings and sales. Workshop sessions are used in phase four to acquaint the sales person with potential sales situations.

A three-day workshop, planned as phase five of this training course, is offered by an outside firm.

"Within 30 days we take this person into a new field," said Markay. "We have given him material geared to the real estate field, but it is a people business and his attitude is the most important factor."

Bob Kole, head of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. with six/area offices said he offers a 66-hour training program for potential sales personnel. Participation in the course includes no obligation on the part of the student to become a salesman or vice versa, but Kole does recruit staff members from the classes. Last week 72 persons in his beginner class successfully passed the state license examination.

"We also have more advanced classes for sales people on Saturdays," said Kole. "We cover the psychology of the sale, the emotions involved. We anticipate the anxieties and the problems which can come up in a sales situation, and we teach them how to answer objections. The important thing is not for the salesman to flaunt his education, but to do a good job."

Kleeman Gains Institute Post

Jack W. Kleeman has been named executive vice president of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers (NIREB). The institute is the largest affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with a membership of 18,000.

Kleeman will assume his new duties on Dec. 6. He served as executive vice president of the Chicago Real Estate Board since 1965. He served on the CREB staff from 1957-1962 and as editor of Chicagoland's Real Estate Advertiser, a trade paper, for the three years prior to returning to the board.

Holder of designation as a Chartered Association Executive, awarded by the American Society of Association Executives to a small number of its members, Kleeman earned a B. S. degree with high honors in journalism from the University of Illinois in 1955. He served as an Army anti-aircraft artillery officer in the Chicago-Gary Defense following graduation and joined the CREB upon his release from active service in 1957.

He lives with his wife LaVergne and their three children in the Hunting Ridge section of Palatine.

Install System To Melt Snow

Did shoveling snow make you a member of the aching back brigade last winter? Did you have trouble getting your car out of the garage? Did you slip on a few icy walks?

If you answer yes to any of the above questions, then an automatic snow melting system may be for you. According to the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council, automatic snow melting systems are gaining in popularity in the colder regions of the country.

A snow melting system involves laying tubing in the concrete or asphalt of driveways and sidewalks. The tubing contains an anti-freeze solution which is heated by the same boiler which heats the house. The solution is circulated through the tubing, warming the concrete and melting the snow and ice on contact. The system is controlled by a thermostat or switch and operates only when snow is falling. It will last the life of the house.

Since it operates off the home heating boiler, automatic snow melting is less expensive to install in homes heated by hydronic (modern hot water) or steam systems, the council adds. However, it can be installed in any home by adding a small hot water heating boiler.

Elmgren Promoted By Panasonic

Robert A. Elmgren of 775 S. Middelton St., Palatine, has been appointed assistant general manager of Panasonic's Chicago region. It was announced by Raymond A. Gates, group vice president, consumer electronics group, of Matsushita Electric Corp. of America which distributes Panasonic products nationally.

Robert A. Elmgren

Elmgren came to Panasonic as regional manager in April, 1971, from General Electric Co., where he was district manager of GE's electric sales operations in the midwest.

In his new post, Elmgren will assist managing 14 Midwestern representatives with a total sales organization of nearly 60 people.

Quality Marble And Granite Co. Reports Sales

Quality Marble and Granite Co., a division of Cook Industries, Inc. has announced several appointments, according to Rene Maassen, president and general manager.

H. S. "Ski" Kwiatkowski, formerly manager of the Chicago Branch (in Elk Grove Village) and most recently sales coordinator for the Eastern Division, was appointed Eastern Divisional manager. He will assume responsibility for QMG's operations in Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago (Elk Grove), Dallas and Denver.

Marshall Blumenthal, presently manager of the Chicago (Elk Grove) Branch, was appointed director of purchasing Eastern Division and will handle and coordinate all the purchasing for the Eastern Division Branches.

Several other announcements were made at the recent Eastern Division sales meeting held in Elk Grove.

Maassen reported that sales for the nine months ended Sept. 30 were 40 per cent over the same period last year. Profits for this division experienced comparable increases and with construction activities throughout the country running at a record pace, prospects for the balance of 1971 and 1972 are very favorable, he said.

Several other changes and additions were announced in line with the planned program of expansion. Two new branches will be opened in the near future loacted in the Washington D.C. and southside Chicago area. These will be under the supervision of H. S. (Ski) Kwiatkowski.

The Oakland operation moved to San Leandro, Calif., Larger facilities were also recently occupied in Denver, and in Dallas.

Each warehouse carries a backup stock of tile and marble products including accessories and adhesives. The parent firm, Cook Industries, Inc., is a diversified firm. Cook, through its subsidiary E. L. Bruce is in the building materials field.

Allis-Chalmers Corp. Names Ray Howland

Appointment of Ray E. Howland as manager, dealer business services, Allis-Chalmers Corp. Material Handling Division, has been announced by Joseph H. Maloney, general manager.

Ray E. Howland

Howland is responsible for providing direction to the division's dealer organization, advertising and sales promotion activities, and for sales and service training programs.

A resident of Palatine, Howland is a 1958 graduate in mechanical engineering of the University of Illinois. He joined Allis-Chalmers in 1969 with responsibilities for dealer business techniques. Previously he was a division operations manager for Bausch-Lomb, Inc., Chicago.

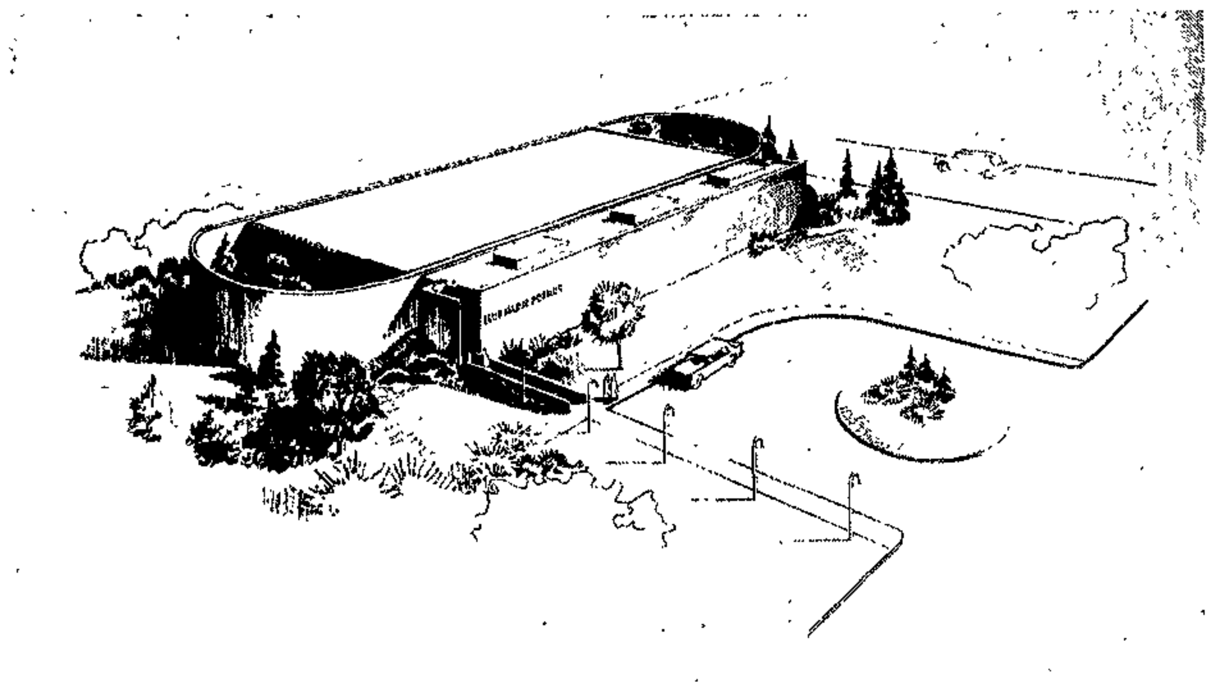
Simplicity Creates A New Environment



VIRTUALLY UNBROKEN brick walls with a minimum of windows are part of the simplicity in the new Hoffman Rosner Corp. headquarters building. Construction is underway on the new facility, slated for completion next spring. The new building in Hoffman Estates was designed by Richsteadt-Narcisi, architects and Hoffman Rosner architects.

Construction is underway on the new corporate headquarters building for the Hoffman Rosner Corp. in Hoffman Estates.

The new 17,000 square foot structure will adjoin the Suburban Bank of Hoffman Estates in the Golf-Rose Shopping Center. The center is on Roselle Road between Higgins and Golf Roads. Jack Hoffman, chairman of the firm said completion of the new building is set for late spring of 1972, the company's 25th anniversary year.

The municipality of Hoffman Estates was originally planned and developed by the Hoffman Rosner Corp. The company built 5,000 houses in the community between 1955 and 1970.

The new corporate headquarters building will house the general administrative staff; marketing and production management; corporate and mortgage financing departments; accounting and data processing operations; and legal, architectural and engineering staffs.

Hoffman Rosner Corp., a publicly held company (OTC), currently has four completely planned unit developments with 12,000 housing units planned or under construction in the Chicago area. They include Westlake in Bloomingdale; Indian Oaks in Bolingbrook; Frankfort Square near Frankfort; and Foxcroft in Aurora.

The firm has a staff of 130.

Hoffman said the firm chose to remain in Hoffman Estates not only because of its location relative to current operations but because it is becoming a major focal point of the metropolitan business activity. "An outstanding system of highways, proximity to O'Hare Field, and excellent commercial and business services make this rapidly growing area, and Hoffman Estates in particular, an outstanding location for our headquarters," he said.

The new building was designed by Eichstaedt/Narcisi, architects, Roselle, in collaboration with Hoffman Rosner staff architects. It was designed for 100 per cent expansion. Its shape and layout were created to permit a virtual mirror-image duplication.

The brick structure is shaped as an oval. However, where the rectangular portion begins to curve into half round ends there will be interior ground to roof bronzed glass walls which will have a view to enclosed, landscaped courtyards. In effect, the building is a rectangle with glass end walls that look onto courtyards which are enclosed by half-circle brick walls. The sidewalls are practically windowless, according to the architect.

"By using virtually unbroken brick walls with a minimum of windows we will virtually cancel out the exterior. At the same time we will be artificially creating an exterior environment which is esthetically pleasing and beneficial to employes," said Hoffman.

The second floor and roof will span the 50-foot width of the building to permit an infinite variety of column free partitioning as the changing nature of the firm's operations may require.

Floor and roof structures bear on all masonry exterior walls of smooth, hard-fired face brick inside and out. This adds to the continuity of the architecture.

Full use of floor space is enhanced by removing the parts of mechanical elements like heating, and air conditioning equipment and pumps into a mechanical service spine along one side of the building. The exterior mechanical core is designed to serve future expansion.

At the same time, distribution parts of the mechanical systems like ducts and electrical conduit will be exposed between concrete T-Beams.

"In contrast with its general surroundings this structure's stark simplicity makes it appear almost abstract, and highly dramatic," Hoffman said.

Area Realtor Is Panelist

Ralph A. Martin of Des Plaines served as a panelist in a recent roundtable session entitled ideas that work in advertising and public relations in Miami Beach, Fla. The presentation was sponsored by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers (NIREB) in conjunction with the 64th Annual Convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB).

Ralph A. Martin

A graduate of Indiana University, Martin is vice president, sales manager and secretary of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors. He is also secretary of the Lee Des Plaines Corp. and past director and treasurer of the Northwest Suburban Real Estate Investment Corp.

Martin has served as president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and the Northwest Suburban Multiple Listing Service. He was a governor of the National Multi-List Service and a recipient of that organization's Realtor of the Year Award in 1969 and 1970. Serving frequently as a speaker for NIREB, Martin also publishes numerous articles on real estate marketing and sales techniques.

NIREB, with a membership of 17,000 brokers and sales associates throughout the United States,is the largest educational affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and awards the designations C.C.I.M. and C.R.B. to proven professionals in the fields of commercial-investment and residential real estate.

New Florist Shop Is Open

Floral arrangements of fresh or dried flowers materials are the specialty at the new Frank of Arlington florist shop in Arlington Heights.

Owners of the business are Frank Uczen of Mount Prospect and Frank and Joan Mleko of Arlington Heights. The Frank of Arlington store is located at 724 E. Kensington.

Uczen, who has worked in a local florist shop for several years before opening the new store, said the natural look is popular this year in floral arrangement. "The natural country look is especially important for weddings," he said. "We leave the stems on the flowers for added depth in a bouquet."

Natural materials as flowers and pine cones can be used in arrangements, Uczen said. Some arrangements can featured both fresh and dried materials.

Wreaths, swags and wall arrangements are also featured at the shop. A selection of gifts including candles and vases is available.

Million Dollar Sales Reported

Two Arlington Realty sales associates have recently reached the $1 million mark for residential real estate sales in 1971.

Lillian Marshall

Nylene Swaby

Lillian Marshall and Nylene Swaby both achieved the goal. It was Mrs. Swaby's second year to reach the million dollar mark, but for Mrs. Marshall it was a first. The women became the third and fourth sales associates to qualify for Arlington Realty's Million Dollar Club. Evelyn Hines and Lorraine Larsen reached the million dollar mark earlier this year.

Arlington Realty also reported record sales for the month and year. Residential sales for October were up 92 per cent over 1970. For the first 10 months of 1971 sales amounted to $13,204,000 which is an increase of 65 per cent over last year when 10 month's sales amounted to $8,028,400.

Arlington Realty has two offices in Arlington Heights and one in Palatine. They are members of MAP Multiple Listing Service and Homerica, a home-finding referral service.

Anderson Promoted At Container Corp.

Container Corporation of America has announced the appointment of Dean C. Anderson of Palatine, to sales manager of its Carol Stream Shipping Container plant. Anderson most recently was manager of corporate accounts for the Southwestern Container Division, headquartered in Fort Worth. He had previously served in this same capacity at the Carol Stream plant.

A graduate of Huron College, S.D., Anderson also studied law at the University of South Dakota before joining Container Corp. as a sales trainee in 1954.

SCHAUMBURG MOVEMBER IS HERE!

The Leave-your-money-in-the-bank Apartment

More and more Americans are discovering the advantages of apartment living. No down payment to wipe out your savings. (Been to Europe yet?) No 30-year interest build-up. No maintenance headaches. No re-selling trauma. Of course, an apartment makes sense only if the price is like this . . .

One-bedroom suites:

$180-$207

Have we anticipated your budget?
Two-bedrooms, 1½ baths, $225-$247
Three-bedrooms, 1½ baths, $262-$268

Full-size kitchen with General Electric refrigerator, range and oven, dishwasher, disposer.

Air conditioning, individually controlled.

Your choice of carpeting at no extra charge.

Balcony (2 and 3-bedroom suites) with 69 acres of fresh air to breathe.

Soundproof, fireproof construction — eight inches of concrete in walls and floors.

Big closets and cupboards.

Complete security, inside and out. Safe streets and walkways.

Close to shopping centers, commuter trains, schools, I-90, golf and other recreation. Special bus to Woodfield Mall (only 10 minutes).

Community clubhouse at edge of small lake. Indoor swimming pool. Billiard room. Party and meeting rooms. Sauna baths.

Optional indoor parking.

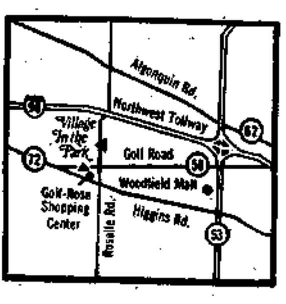
Village In the Park

A friendly community for Very Important People — like you!



Get away to it all!

Far from noise and traffic, but surrounded by freedom! Route 53 interchange on Northwest Tollway (I-90) is 2½ miles away. Look for our colorful tree, ¼-mile west of Roselle Rd. on north side of Golf Rd. Or enter off Roselle, north of Golf. Model suites and display center open daily, 1 to 8.

Gladstone Sells Airport Package

The air age and a good memory are responsible for a $1,000,000 transaction closed by Jerry Sigman, manager of Gladstone Realty's Industrial Division in Elk Grove Village.

About three years ago, Gladstone handled the deal that brought Sackett/Chicago, metal fabricators, to a 3,500-square foot building in Elk Grove. Sackett's executive offices and main plant are located at 1685 Elston Ave. in Chicago.

At that time, Jerry Sigman learned of the role air travel plays in the actual day-to-day business of Sackett. Although they do manufacture their own equipment, much of their metal fabrication is done to custom order. Flying designers and engineers to prospective and active clients is an integral and continual part of the service offered by the firm.

When Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Air Park opened for development, Jerry Sigman remembered the part air travel plays in the business life of Sackett. The Centex-Schaumburg airport, formerly the Roselle airport, was purchased by the developrs of the park and, in turn, deeded to Schaumburg. Gladstone Realty approached Sackett with the idea of consolidating their executive and manufacturing plant in the Park where all the facilities important to their functions were available. It was the airport that attracted Sackett and finally closed the deal.

Gladstone arranged a 15 year lease for Sackett for $622,000. After this arrangement was made, a syndicated limited partnership was formed supplying $360,000.

The 25,000 square foot building now under construction, is the largest actually in work in the park and will be ready for operation in January. At that time, Sackett will make this new installation its executive plant.

Gladstone Realty's Industrial Division at 200 E. Higgins Road in Elk Grove Village also participated in two recent transactions at the Medill Industrial Center South and Medill Industrial Center North.

Gladstone Realty, founded in 1954 by John Markay and Vincent Bolger, has three offices in the Chicago area: Elk Grove Village, Franklin Park and Des Plaines.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS

FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

The advantages of the "Multiple" Real Estate sales system

The "multiple" Real Estate sales system has been in operation throughout the country for several years. It is accepted as one of the most effective methods for assuring maximum sales coverage in a given geographical area and operates on the simple principle of many individual companies cooperating in a professional, ethical effort to offer a broad scope of customer service.

The MAP Multiple Listing Service for example, was organized to offer a cooperative sales ad service system here in the Northwest Chicago suburbs, serving the communities of Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park and Roselle, with a total of 64 participating Real Estate offices and over 400 professional Real Estate sales people.

When you list your home with any participating cooperating MAP Multiple Listing Companies, your home automatically gets the attention of the entire MAP membership who ethically and efficiently use all their individual sales efforts to sell the home. You get the personalized supervision from the Real Estate company you list with PLUS the day-to-day sales effort and dedication of the 64 participating MAP offices.

There are many additional advantages when listing with a MAP office such as total market coverage, mass advertising and nationwide referral system, which will be reviewed in future issues.

Buying or selling . . . there are many advantages when you place your home and your confidence in the hands of a local MAP Multiple Listing Service Real Estate Company.

ONTARIO SQUARE
apartments in Hanover Park

Beautiful Living ... ... Happy People

Far from the city's noise ... you enjoy the seasonal changes free of the responsibilities they involve. Delightful neighbors share your enjoyment of the varied recreation, and your spacious apartment is a home to which you'll proudly welcome guests.

These air conditioned studio one and two bedroom apartments are designed with maximum wall space to give you versatility in room arrangement. Bedrooms are deliberately isolated for privacy and quiet. Efficient, open-plan kitchen includes stove, refrigerator and disposal as well as fine wood cabinets with ample counter surfaces. Heat, gas and water included in your rent. Custom Furnishings Plan available.

You'll find the quiet of the country right at home. Outdoor grills for barbecuing, watching the children romp on sturdy playground equipment. You'll enjoy everything more on the beautifully maintained grounds at Ontario Square.

ONTARIO SQUARE
apartments in Hanover Park

Ontario Square is the newest Vavrus complex located in Hanover Park. 1½ blocks from the Milwaukee Road RR. New studio, one and two bedroom apartments, some with one and one-half baths. Wall to wall shag carpeting and color co-ordinated kitchens.

Prices Start At $125

You pay less for more ... more atmosphere ... more recreation ... more leisure time ... more living space ... more of the good things of life! Ontario Square is easy to reach. Take Route 59 and turn east on Lake Street (Route 20) to Ontarioville Road and turn right.

FAIRWAY GREEN

Young moderns prefer it because . . .

It's within driving distance of their offices.

They like the finished look of sodded lawns, paved streets, and walks

They like clean electric living in appliances, heat, and air-conditioning.

Wall-to-wall carpeting covers every floor.

AND . . . the trees weren't just planted yesterday (most of them are older than they are)!! Come out and see why YOU will prefer living here.

With higher paying U.S. Savings Bonds.

Before I joined the Payroll Savings Plan all I could save was string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Henry Marks 35th Year At Illinois Bell

Donald E. Henry, 9928 N. Crawford Ave., Skokie, celebrated his 35th service anniversary with Illinois Bell recently.

He joined the company as a mechanic's helper in Evanston. Subsequently, he held various positions including station installer, switchboard installer and repairman, teletype repairman and staff assignments. In 1955 he was promoted to building service foreman, a position he held in Waukegan, Evanston and Skokie, and for the past three years, in Arlington Heights.

Henry's wife, Inez, is also a telephone company employee, a service order clerk in the Evanston Plant Department. They attend the First Presbyterian Church in Evanston and are members of the Gateway Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America, a civic and social organization of telephone employes with a member of 350,000.

Henry spends his spare time making Hi-Fi and stereo tape recordings.

Economy In Taiwan Remains Strong

by APRIL PRATT

TAIPEI — When President Chiang Kai-shek came to Taiwan in 1949 he brought with him about two million people, primarily Nationalist Chinese government officials and soldiers. Today these people are still called "mainlanders" and there is a strong distinction between them and the island's 12 million natives.

The mainlanders, together with Chiang, have run the government and state-owned enterprises for more than 20 years. Most of these men are in their 60s or 70s today and their world view has not been tempered by the passage of time.

One of them is Paul Lee, a professor at Taiwan Normal School, who came to the island in 1946. Despite the United Nations ouster of the Nationalists and President Nixon's planned visit to mainland China, he still is hanging onto the diehard optimism that has marked Chiang's followers since they lost the civil war.

"Even the Chinese on the mainland respect Chiang Kai-shek," Lee says. "They don't like Mao."

LIKE LEE, most of the Nationalists' leaders publicly argue their current time of troubles is a passing phase. This smacks of whistling in the dark but Chiang's government does have one tangible thing going for it: a sound economy.

American aid totaling $1.5 billion, coupled with effective use of that aid, has given Taiwan one of the soundest economies in Asia, with average take-home pay the third highest for the continent. Even here, however, the Nationalists are finding cause for concern. Though production levels are still rising, foreign investment dropped nearly 40 per cent during the first six months of this year and some local businessmen are transferring their capital out of the country, too.

The government contends that this year's growth rate will still hit 10 per cent but what businessmen are worried about is next year. They're worried Peking will try to isolate Taiwan economically by cutting off its sources of capital and raw materials.

Even Japan, after the United States Taiwan's second leading trade partner, is showing signs of drifting away.

As if this general malaise weren't enough, the Nationalists are confronted with a newly active student population that is challenging the doctrinaire anti-Communist beliefs that rule here.

But despite external pressures, the generation gap and the long-standing conflict between the native-born Taiwanese and the Nationalist Chinese, most observers do not expect any drastic changes in the short run.

AS FOR THE long run, many of the determined Nationalists admit privately that one day the island will probably become part of the Peking People's Republic. They envision a gradual transition over 10 to 20 years as the old Nationalists leaders fall by the wayside and contact between the mainland and the island increases, with Taiwan eventually ending up as a province of mainland China with some special status.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

TIME HAS NOT tempered the Chiangs and the aging generation that fled from the mainland with them. But younger elements on Taiwan, even within the Nationalist government, see changes coming.

Safety Contest Deadline Is Nearing

Illinois high school seniors were reminded today that little more than a month remains for them to submit entries in the 1971 traffic safety essay contest sponsored by the Illinois Editors' Traffic Safety Seminar.

Lionel Kramer, Seminar secretary and public relations director of the Chicago Motor Club-AAA, pointed out that time is running out for high school seniors to submit their entries before the Dec. 31 deadline in order to compete for one of the ten $500 scholarship grants being made available to contest winners — five boys and five girls — by the Chicago Motor Club.

Kramer said there is state wide interest in the contest among high school students, as indicated by the hundreds of requests received so far for entry blanks.

Paul Coffman, Seminar president and publisher of the Star-Sentinel Newspapers, Melrose Park, paid tribute to the Chicago Motor Club and its president, Gerald W. Cavanagh, for making the scholarship grants available. He called the club's contribution a "far-sighted and intelligent approach to accident prevention because it encourages young drivers to become good citizens of the highways." Theme of this year's essay is "My Program For Improving My Community's Teenage Traffic Safety Record."

To be eligible for one of the Chicago Motor Club grants, Coffman said the following contest rules must be observed.

—The contest is open to all Illinois high school seniors in public, parochial or private schools.

—The top 10 awards — $500 Chicago Motor Club scholarship grants — will be divided equally among boy and girl entrants.

—Entry blanks or facsimile must accompany all entries (entry blanks are available at schools, Chicago Motor Club branch office or by mail from Seminar Headquarters, 66 E South Water St., Chicago, Illinois 60601).

—Essay must be received at Seminar Headquarters postmarked no later than Dec. 31, 1971.

—Seminar Scholarship Committee will screen entries and forward each of those qualifying to entrant's local newspaper with the suggestion that it be published in whole or in part. Publication of an essay qualifies the entrant for final judging.

—Tearsheets of published essays must be returned to Seminar headquarters no later than March 15, 1972, for final judging by a panel of University of Illinois educators.

—Scholarship awards will be presented by the Chicago Motor Club at the Seminar Honors Luncheon, Friday, May 12, 1972, at Henrici's Motor Inn, Rockford.

Ship Mary Rose: Hope Of King Henry

by ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—When King Henry VIII was not courting a new wife he concentrated on his plan for a navy that would rule the seas and one of the great ships that flew his flag and his hopes was the Mary Rose.

In all its high-pooped glory it was launched in 1510 as a formidable addition to the British fleet. In 1536 it was rebuilt into a dreadnaught-for its-time-of 700 tons with 92 guns and a crew of 415 sailors, soldiers and gunners.

While sailing off Portsmouth, England, to fight the French the Mary Rose capsized and sank on July 19, 1545 with the loss of all but 40 of its crew. As time went by the mud of the bottom covered the wreck of one of the finest wooden warships of its era.

THERE THE MARY ROSE would have lain forever except for the comparatively new science of marine archaeology. Undismayed by official indifference a group of amateur underwater archaeologists have formed "The Mary Rose Association" to salvage as much as possible of what they consider to be the most important known wreck in northwest Europe.

They have financed themselves until now because they believe the Mary Rose, from guns and timbers already salvaged, to have been of a revolutionary design that marked the final transition from long boats to complete warships with batteries of guns.

She is thus the direct ancestor of the wooden-walled ships in which daring sea captains from Sir Francis Drake to Admiral Nelson helped Britannia rule the waves. But despite the historic place of the Mary Rose in Britain's sea tradition the archaeologists have been chronically short of funds and equipment.

NOW THE Mary Rose committee is hoping that by making public its research it will receive some of the material and money it needs for its 1972 program on the site — a mile offshore and eight feet under the mud.

Among other discoveries, radiographers found that a cannon dredged from the wreckage was welded together 350 years before the discovery of the oxyacetylene method. Alexander McKee, a leading military historian and director of the expedition, described the finding as "fantastic."

The amateur archaeologists have not worked alone. A brewery donated some money for electronic equipment. The Portsmouth Fire Department lent some pumps. A number of other firms donated services But much more is needed.

Council Slates Kearney Speech

Daniel P. Kearney, director of the Illinois Housing Development Authority, will be guest speaker at a special meeting of the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago on Wednesday, Dec. 1. Edward Zale, ACMC president, made the announcement.

Election of officers for the coming year will also take place at the meeting which will be held at the Furniture Club in the Furniture Mart, Chicago. A social hour will be at 6 p.m.; dinner will start at 7 p m.

Kearney's topic, new concnepts in real estate finance, will include a discussion of the history, nature and organizational structure of the authority, the basic features of the Mortgage Loan Program and the Authority's processing procedures. Explanatory materials will be provided as well so that the major part of the presentation can be devoted to answering members' questions.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling Winnie Monahan at the Apartment Council office, 782-8657.

MoAmCo Board Member

Chicago banker Robert P. Abate of Knollwood Court, Palatine, has been elected to the board of Mobile Americana Corp. (MoAmCo), Minneapolis, Minn., according to an announcement by its president, F. Paul Hargarten.

Abate, 42, is a group vice president of the American National Bank and Trust Co., of Chicago, where he is in charge of all retail banking activities.

Robert P. Abate

Abate is chairman of American National's Marketing Development Committee and a member of its Loan, Long Range Planning and Operating Policy Committees. He is president of two of the bank's subsidiaries, the American National Educational Corp. and the American National Safe Deposit Corp.

Before joining American National in 1961 as head of instalment lending, Abate served for 11 years with General Finance Corp. He established and supervised General Finance branch offices in several states

Active in civic affairs, Abate is a member of the Chicago Crime Commission, the board of the Chicago Better Business Bureau and the U. S. Office of Education's advisory committee on financial aid to education. He is immediate past president of the Instalment Bankers Division of the Illinois Bankers Assn

Palatine Bank Appoints Pair

Palatine National Bank's board of directors recently elected Greta Higgins of Hoffman Estates and Terence Lenio of Lake Zurich assistant cashiers.

Terence Lenio

Greta Higgins

Mrs. Higgins' and Lenio's assignments are in the bank's loan department.

Mrs. Higgins joined Palatine National Bank in April of this year. She was named pro-cashier of the bank in August.

A member of the American Institute of Banking, she had fourteen years of banking experience with the National Bank of Aledo in western Illinois before coming to Palatine National Bank.

Lenio, previously assistant operations officer at the Bank of Rolling Meadows, has a bachelors degree from Brigham Young University and a masters degree from Michigan State University. He served with the Army's 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam from 1968 to 1970.

What Is Thanksgiving?

Thanksgiving is loved-ones
And friends all around —
Thanksgiving is goodness
And joys that abound —
Thanksgiving is thanks
For the gifts we've been given —
Thanksgiving is prayers
For this land that we live in.

MAY THANKSGIVING BE HAPPY FOR YOU AND THOSE YOU LOVE.

U. S. NAVAL AIR Station at Glenview had its runways rosurfaced.

Reconstruction Of Two Glenview Runways Over

The reconstruction of the two runways at Naval Air Station (NAS), Glenview, underway since last April, was completed on Nov. 6.

Unlike the shorter east-west runway, the 8000 foot north-south runway, was not completely resurfaced. The 800 foot mid-section was recovered with asphalt and 4500 of runway was sealcoated. The worst sections were completely rebuilt with concrete.

A blast pad at each end of the runway was included in the $378,000 reconstruction lot. This provides pilots a 150x300 foot area in which to complete pre-flight checks of their aircraft.

The 5000 foot east-west runway was completely resurfaced and lengthened slightly at each end at an approximate cost of $442,000.

Palsy March Leaders Named

United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Chicago has announced the names of local women who will be leaders of the "53-Minute March on Cerebral Palsy" on Sunday, Jan. 16, 1972.

The march is the agency's annual campaign for funds to support its programs of direct service for children and adults crippled by cerebral palsy and their families.

Serving as area chairmen are: Mrs. Harold Freedman, 10 W. Brookwood Drive, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Jack Lord, 10009 N. Meadow Lane, Des Plaines; Mrs. Don Pollitz, 526 Thorndale, Elk Grove Village; Mrs. William Gresher, 1735 Evergreen, Hanover Park; Mrs. Thomas P. McCurdy, 211 Harvard Lane, Hoffman Estates; Mrs. Nicholos Herman, 1950 Tweed Road, Palatine; Mrs. John M. Alogna, 344 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect; Mrs. Alan Boschan, 1050 Plate Drive, Palatine; Mrs. Philip Klein, 2400 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Anton Oster, 1011 Warwick Lane, Schaumburg; and Mrs. Charles Waterworth, 409 Streamwood Blvd., Streamwood.

In addition, the agency carries on professional and public educational programs and supports research in both prevention and new treatment methods. Programs, in the main, are supported by funds raised on the march and a goal of $500,000 has been set for this year.

Cerebral Palsy is the number one crippler of children and there is no known cure. There are more than 24,000 children and adults with this crippling condition — caused by damage to the motor centers of the brain — in Cook, Lake, DuPage and Kane Counties.

THANKSGIVING

. . . in the word lives the essence of the day. We give thanks . . . for blessings large and small, bestowed on one and all. And because we are thankful, we gladly give of our energy and our efforts, our aims and ambitions, on behalf of all, that everyone may be blessed, and be thankful. On this Thanksgiving Day, we look back across the years and forward to the future with thanks for the plenitude that we have been privileged to enjoy, and with the steadfast resolve that in the years ahead we will do our part to bring forth more achievements, more good things for all. To our many friends, best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving.

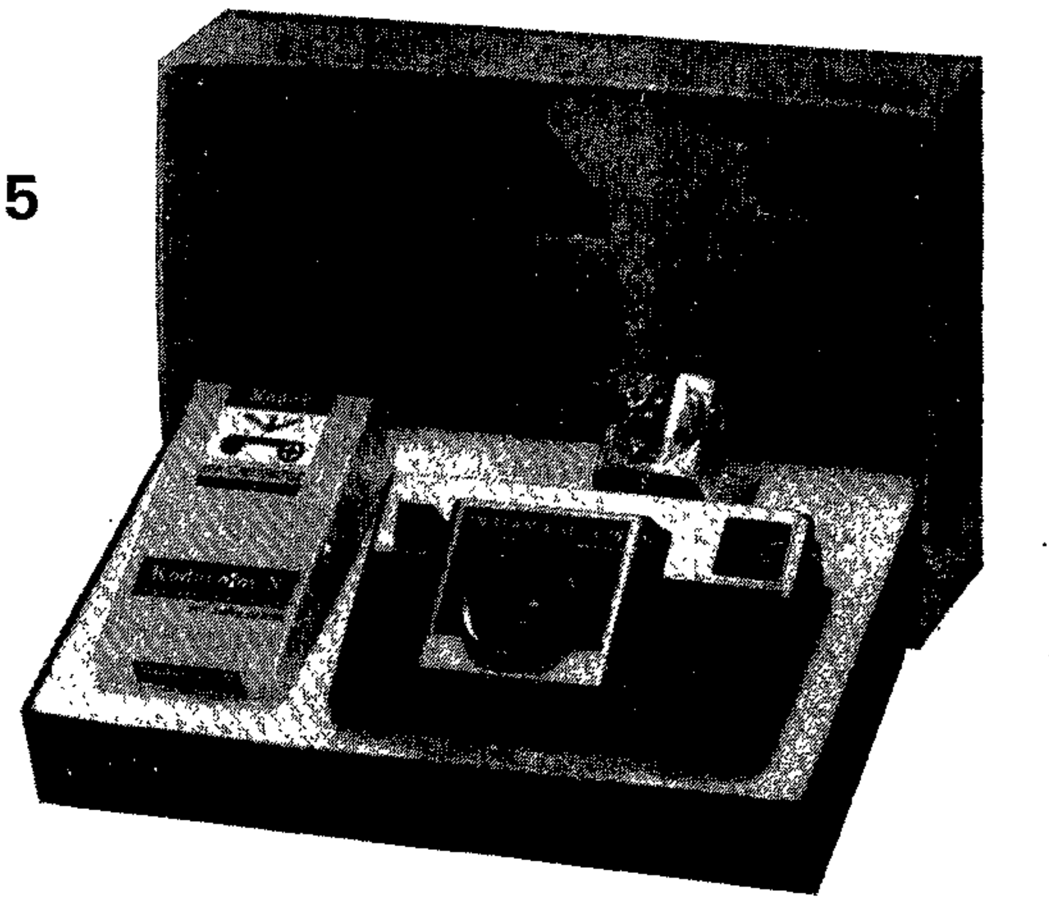
Pictures to take. Pictures to focus. Pictures to watch. Prices to please!

Kodak Instamatic X-15 Camera set 14.88

Make the move to better pictures with the new X cameras from Kodak. Take flash pictures without batteries, no missed shots. Set includes Kodak Instamatic X-15 camera with drop-in film loading, bigger and brighter viewfinder, cartridge of color film and new Magicube. Be ready for the holidays.



The gift that saves you money. Polaroid's Big Shot.

You used to have to spend more to get Polaroid color photography. The Big Shot is the least expensive color camera Polaroid's ever offered until now. It's strictly for color portraits. The kind you get in studios (the picture's almost all face). Focusing is simple. When two images become one, shoot. Never worry about the lighting. It's the same indoors and out. A flashcube behind a big diffusion panel gives soft portrait lighting every shot. Built-in timer helps you get beautiful color portraits in one minute.

Social Security and You

Q — I HAVE A 20-year-old daughter who is studying to be a beautician. If I retire, can she get monthly benefits from social security on my earnings record?

A — If you receive monthly social security benefits, your daughter can also receive benefits until she reaches age 22 if she is a full-time student at a State-approved school and remains single.

Q — WHEN I FIRST applied for my social security card, I used my nickname. Now that I've started working full time, I use my proper came. Does it make any difference that my nickname is on my card?

A — Yes. To ensure that your earnings record is accurate and up to date, you should call or visit any social security office and have your name corrected.

Q — I AM CONFINED to a hospital. Since I can't come to the social security office to apply for monthly disability benefits, what other arrangements can I make?

A — Call or write any social security office. It is quite likely that the necessary forms can be completed over the phone and mailed to you for your signature. Or, a representative from the office will visit you at the hospital and assist you in filling out the necessary forms.

Veterans' News

Q — I AM a veteran of World War II who has just reached his 65th birthday. Am I entitled to a VA pension?

A — You may be eligible provided your income from all sources does not exceed $2,300 a year if you are single, or $3,500 a year if you have dependents.

Q — CAN AN eligible veteran buy a used mobile home?

A — Yes, provided the used mobile home is the security for a loan previously made or guaranteed by VA, or for a loan guaranteed, insured or made by another Federal Agency. However, present VA regulations provide only for loans on new mobile homes.

Q — IS THE educational allowance I receive under the G.I. Bill taxable?

A — No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider this benefit taxable income.

Q — DOES THE $12,500 or 60 per cent VA loan guaranty limit the amount I can pay for a home?

A — No. You can pay as much, or borrow as much as your ability to pay. However, VA will limit its guaranty to the amount you specified.

Q — I HAVE a loan on my GI insurance policy. May I repay it through deductions from my VA compensation?

A — Yes. Get a VA Form 29-288 from the nearest VA office, complete it, and mail it to the office to which you pay your insurance premiums.

Q — I HAVE a certificate of eligibility to attend graduate school. What is considered full time for VA benefits?

A — The VA generally will accept whatever the school considers full time graduate work. Suggest you check with the registrar of the school you plan to attend.

Q — AM I eligible for benefits under the current GI Bill if I served in the regular Army from 1930 to 1935?

A — No. The current GI Bill provides GI loans, education and other benefits for eligible veterans who served after January 31, 1955.

NSLS Library Service Is Up 22 Per Cent

The North Suburban Library System reports its library services have increased 22 per cent during the past year.

Public libraries in this area which use the service are in: Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

The system consists of an inter-library loan service, a magazine and periodical reprint service, audio visual service, reference service, and a reciprocal borrowing program.

The North Suburban Library System, which has 31 members in Cook, Lake and Kane counties, is headquartered at 5814 Dempster, Morton Grove.

Jazz Band Concert At Harper Dec. 16

Vocalist Nadine Marcheschi of Arlington Heights will perform with the Harper College Jazz Band at 12:15 p.m. Dec. 16 in the college center.

Assistant Professor Bob Tillotson will direct the 18-member band.

There is no admission charge for the informal concert which is open to the public. William Rainey Harper College is located at Algonquin and Roselle Roads, Palatine.

The program will include "Puget Sound" by Bruce Hall, "Waltz of the Prophets" by Baron-Niehaus and "McArthur Park" by Jim Webb. "Reflections" by Don Schamber will provide an opportunity for improvisation by several instruments.

Is It Fraud? Call 527-5000

A warning on bogus telephone requests for charitable donations, annually stepped up during the holiday season, has been issued by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

Scott urged citizens solicited for donations to check first with his Charity Hotline by dialing 527-5000. The line is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Scott said Illinois law requires organizations and individuals engaged in fundraising to register with his office.

"We are constantly reviewing their activities, financial affairs and administration to assure that intended recipients of contributed funds will benefit to the fullest," Scott said.

4 Banks To Sell License Plates

Motor vehicle license plates will go on sale Wednesday, at four banks in the Northwest suburbs, according to Illinois Secretary of State John W. Lewis.

Banks offering the service include the Bank & Trust Co. of Arlington Heights; the First National Bank of Des Plaines, the First Bank & Trust Co. of Palatine; and the Wheeling Trust and Savings. They are among 115 banks throughout the state which will sell license plates over the counter.

Lewis said banks will accept only renewal applications for passenger cars. Applications must be accompanied by the 1971 identification card or the certificate of title if the card has been lost.

Banks are allowed to charge a fee of $1 for the service, said Lewis. He said the charge is allowed to offset the cost of $6,800 for a validating machine each bank much purchase to perform the service.

License plates will also be available at nine banks throughout Chicago, including the O'Hare International Bank of Chicago at O'Hare International Airport.

A.A. Meeting Set At Area Hospital

Two regular open Alcoholics Anonymous meetings were recently instituted at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. The meetings are held Saturdays from 8:30 until 10 p.m. in Stritch Hall and Monday evenings between 6:30 and 8 p.m. in the dining room. Both meeting rooms are located on the ground floor of the main hospital building, 800 W. Biesterfield Rd.

Open meetings are those that anyone may attend. They are distinguished from regular closed AA meetings, where only members attend.

Open meetings allow interested persons to attend, but not to participate in the meetings. The audience sits in theater fashion to listen to programs that are informative and educational, highlighting the background and purpose of Alcoholics Anonymous and how the organization helps problem drinkers. The first session, held Saturday, Nov. 13, drew approximately 100 people.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — All three commercial television networks have their headquarters near each other in New York, and a casual observer of video might conclude that their shows share a closeness of taste as well.

From the point of view that all three networks are doggedly pro-establishment and highly conservative in their entertainment outlook, this conclusion is partly true. But a careful observer of the home screen knows, on the basis of this season's programming alone, that there are marked differences between the networks.

ABC-TV, the smallest of the networks, has, for instance, probably the most determinedly contemporary feel in its series. In a sense, this was almost required of ABC-TV because, with fewer and less devoted affiliate stations, it could not get the broad national audience — and ratings — available to its competitors in the past. So it aimed where it could be most competitive — at big town viewers, whom it could reach — and thereby helped lead the quest for the now-desirable urban audience, which is considered fairly well-to-do, fairly young and influential.

EVEN ABC-TV's failures, like the Shirley MacLaine show and Anthony Quinn's "The Man and the City," tried to be quite contemporary in their basic tone. And a relatively "now" flavor runs through such entries as "Room 222," "Movie of the Week," "The Odd Couple," "Love, American Style," "The Mod Squad," "The Courtship of Eddie's Father." "The Partridge Family" and even the droll Western "Alias Smith and Jones."

Over at NBC-TV, meanwhile, executives seem to aim at the broadest base of viewer tastes, within traditional commercial boundaries. On the one hand, there are with-it series like "Laugh-In" and the Flip Wilson show, and on the other there are distinctly less contemporary entries such as the Walt Disney Show, the Jimmy Stewart comedy, "Bonanza," "The Good Life," "Ironside," Dean Martin's Variety Program and "The D.A." I am not speaking of the content in these shows so much as the treatment of it: The goal is to reach a varied audience.

FROM WHAT I have seen thus far this season, CBS-TV's formula is basically what it has always been — hard action and broad comedy. The only really different from the past is that the network has cut out its rural-oriented series in an attempt to get the same urban audience ABC-TV and NBC-TV also find desirable. Whereas NBC-TV seems generally restrained on violent action, my own expericene is that CBS-TV has exploited violence in its prime time series quite a bit. I am thinking of shows like "Gunsmoke," "Hawaii Five-O," "Cannon," "Mannix," "O'Hara, United States Treasury," "Mission: Impossible" and "Cade's County."

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Does there exist in all the world of entertainment a worse phenomenon than the telecasts of parades?

The color cameras, like electronic spectators, gawk at a variety of floats, bands and equestrians while a pair of hosts — male and female — exclaim over the beauty of what you obviously can see for yourself.

There is one haven from the static presentation of these shows and he is Bob Barker, the handsome host of "Truth or Consequences."

Today finds Barker playing master of ceremonies of the "Thanksgiving Day Jubilee" which includes parades in New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Toronto.

THE DIFFERENCE between Barker and the others is at once clear. He doesn't settle for reading from the script, repeating endlessly the number of flowers on each float or gushing over the beauty of the entries.

Barker talks to the men who make the floats, the girls who ride them, the driver, the planners and officials.

"This is my third year of broadcasting parades," Barker explained. "You learn a great deal the first time around.

"The first thing to remember is not to watch the parade itself. You watch the television monitor so you can explain to the audience what they are seeing, not something that isn't on camera.

"Also being on the spot allows you to catch the atmosphere of the parade and to look ahead in case the parade stops to let the audience know what will be coming up next.

"A good thing to remember is not to talk too much.

"Let the viewer digest what you say without overwhelming him with statistics and facts."

Barker visits the floats two or three times while they are under construction. Thus he is prepared with small but interesting details that either cannot be seen by viewers or those elements of a float that might appear baffling.

Example: "Did you know there are men who make a living by going from parade to parade in various cities doing nothing but designing and building floats.

"When one of these specialists has a prize-winning float it's like earning—so many points in a grand prix race for him."

Barker made a solemn promise this year he would not go through the lengthy explanation that each flower is held in a separate little glass or plastic vial filled with water to keep it fresh.

"I'll let my partner Gail Fisher do that," he said.

Britain's TV Media Under Fire

by JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's new media — particularly television — are coming under fire for allegedly biased reporting of violence in Northern Ireland.

Some members of parliament have even demanded censorship of news coverage while the crisis lasts.

The government has rejected any such suggestion. Nevertheless, Home Secretary Reginald Maulding has expressed the "concern" of some Conservative party lawmakers to the heads of Britain's two TV networks and has urged voluntary "restraint."

The controversy resembles in many respects that in the United States some years ago about Vietnam War reporting.

It stems from the scenes of violence brought almost nightly on TV screens into British homes since the dispatch of troops to Ulster in 1969.

Particular criticisms has been leveled at what is described as "hostile" or "aggressive" interviewing of troop commanders.

Indignation also has been expressed that British TV screened a lengthy interview with the brother of Joe Cahill, a leader of the illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Julian Critchley, secretary of the Conservative party's parliamentary broadcast committee, said editors of TV networks "should be extremely reluctant to use film of instant inverviews and they should think more carefully of the hurt given by the boadcasting of extremist views."

Critchley criticized as "quite unfair," the "tough questioning of a confused and harassed army major" immediately after a shooting incident in which a Belfast woman was killed and another wounded.

President Issues Thanksgiving Proclamation

By The President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

One of the splendid events which shape man's destiny occurred when a small band of people, believing in the essential sanctity of their own being, went in search of a land in which their individuality might be the highest national value, before any arbitrary limitation to duty placed upon some men by the whim or design of others.

They went in search of a land where they might live out their own commitment to their own ideal of human freedom. In the purpose of their search, the human spirit found its ultimate definition, and in the product of their search, its ultimate expression. They found the land they sought, and it was a difficult land, but it was rich. With their sacrifices they brought forth its riches, and laid the foundation for a new nation.

But more than that, they revealed a new possibility for the expression of man's spirit. In the sure unfolding of that possibility man has begun to experience a world in which he may do justice, love mercy and walk humbly with his God forever.

For what those early settlers established, we give thanks in a way which began with them. In their first years on the hard cold edge of man's bright golden dream, they were tried and their faith was tested. But when their bodies failed, their faith did not.

The stark simple words on a sarcophagus in a little village on the seacost of Massachusetts tell the story well: "This monument marks the first burying-ground in Plymouth of the passengers of the Mayflower. Here, under cover of darkness, the fast dwindling company laid their dead; leveling the earth above them lest the Indians should learn how many were the graves,"

Yet, because mankind was not created merely to survive, in the face of all hardship and suffering, these men and women — and those of the other early settlements — prevailed. And the settlers gathered to give thanks for God's bounty, for the blessings of life itself, and for the freedom which they so cherished that no hardship could quench it. And now their heritage is ours.

What they dared to imagine for this land came to pass.

What they planted here prospered.

And for our heritage — a land rich with the bountiful blessings of God, and the freedom to enjoy those rich blessings — we give thanks to God almighty in this time, and for all time.

Now, therefore, I, Richard Nixon, President of the United States of America, in accordance with the wish of the Congress as expressed in Section 6103 of Title 5 of the United States Code, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 25, 1971, as a day of national Thanksgiving. I call upon all Americans to share this day, to give thanks in homes and in places of worship for the many blessings our people enjoy, to welcome the elderly and less fortunate as special participants in this day's festivities and observances, thereby truly showing our gratitude to God by expressing and reflecting his love.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this fifth day of November, in the year of Our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-one, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundrend ninety-sixth.

Richard Nixon

PTA Notes

BINGO CAME to Buffalo Grove but attendance the first night was so poor that the fire department wondered whether it would continue the games. Only half of the 350 seats were filled.

LEGAL ACTION over the Wheeling flood control system was discussed but village board members decided to delay action until they receive a report from an engineering firm. The park district has complained that a basin in a park has become an eyesore.

A BOND ISSUE of School Dist. 96 was sold at an interest rate of about 4.42 per cent, 1¼ percentage points below the expected interest rate. The lower rate will mean a smaller than anticipated tax increase. The $835,000 in bonds will be used to buy and improve school sites and facilities

A WILD AUTO chase sent a Wheeling policeman speeding after a motorist at speeds over 100 miles an hour. The 21-mile chase ended at a roadblock on the Edens Expressway. Police shot at the driver after, they said, he attempted to run one of them down.

District Offers Adult Ski Course

A "Learn to Ski" course is again being offered to High School Dist. 211 adult residents in the district's Continuing Education Program.

Registration for the December five-week class, which includes two lessons on the slopes, is now open. The first class will begin Dec. 2, at William Fremd High School, 1000 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine, at 8 p.m.

Residents can register now at the Continuing Education office, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine, or call 359-3300.

Bruce Thompson, senior ski instructor at Gander Mountain Ski School, will teach the class. A $25 tuition fee, payable at registration, includes all equipment, skis, boots and poles, and one tow ticket, as well as two lessons on the slopes.

The course consists of instruction and basic skiing, equipment, safety, conditioning, a movie, and a brief quiz.

WANT AD GETS VET ATTENDANTS FOR "SUPER AMBULANCE"

Critically ill or injured residents of Kansas will have a better chance of arriving at the hospital alive now that Dr. Richard Brose has his new specially-designed mobile emergency unit which combines the best of what can be done in an emergency room with what can be done in an ambulance. The team chosen to operate the unit were all found by Want Ads asking for ex-Vietnam corpsmen.

Ester Kulp Is There

When Teens Need A Friend

WHEN SHE COUNSELS area teenagers who seek her help on such health problems as venereal disease and pregnancy, nurse Esther Kulp of Cook County Health Department dons casual clothes. She finds that makes the kids more comfortable than the usual starched white uniform of a nurse.

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Troubled teens in the northwest suburbs have a friend they call Esther.

Esther wears blue jeans and her long dark hair swings at her shoulders. She likes kids, and judging by the response she receives from teens asking for help with unwanted or feared pregnancies and venereal disease, kids in this area like her. More than that, they trust her.

"They tell me, I am glad you are here. I had no else to go to!"

What these kids didn't know at first is that Esther Kulp, 24, is a nurse who works for the north district of Cook County Public Health Department.

Miss Kulp earned the trust of high schoolers this past summer when she worked out of The Bridge in Palatine. A 10-week pilot program to reach and help kids with special health problems first was sparked by Mrs. Addie Renninger, health educator for the public health department. Mrs. Renninger contacted the Palatine Youth Commission and worked closely with Emerson Thomas, late director of The Bridge, to set up the trial program. Because of her special interest, skills and appeal Esther Kulp joined the effort.

TO CUT DOWN on "professional aura" and to make kids more comfortable, Esther works out of uniform. The young nurse, who holds a bachelor of science in nursing from North Park College in Chicago, spent three and a half weeks on the streets or "wherever kids hang out" to gain their confidence before she told them she was a nurse. The kids themselves spread the word that she was reliable, Esther said. Soon she was helping and counseling "confused and scared" suburban youngsters with sex related and other health problems.

Esther's first contact approached her in the company of two girl friends to "try her out," she recalled with a smile. The pregnant girl was 17. Since last June, Miss Kulp has talked to 40 or more girls between 17 and 23, with the average age 15 to 17. About one-third of them proved to be pregnant.

"Confidential" is the name of the game when you offer to help teenagers. Esther never contacts parents unless teens request her to do so. When a frightened girl comes to her (or her boy friend telephones for information), the first step is to determine if the girl is pregnant. Anxiety and other emotional factors often delay the menstrual cycle, she explained. The girl is referred to a physician or a clinic — both of which help in confidence — to determine the pregnancy.

ONCE A GIRL tests pregnant, Esther adheres to health department philosophy. "I talk to the girl about what she wants to do, and point out alternatives she may choose." These alternatives are getting married, obtaining a legal abortion under age 18, with parental consent, giving up the baby for adoption, or keeping the baby. In this area, most girls are choosing legal abortion with the help of their parents, Esther reports.

Sometimes a pregnancy is complicated by venereal disease. Help for those suspecting VD is readily available by contacting Esther at either The Bridge in Palatine, 359-7490 or The Place for People in Des Plaines, 297-4384. Or a call may be made to north district office in Des Plaines for Rita Bakewell at 827-5188.

Appointments will be made in the community the patient chooses . . . with no questions asked, assures Miss Bakewell, nursing supervisor at that office.

AT THIS TIME about 25 area physicians are cooperating with the county health department in diagnosis and treatment of VD. Stressing the department's determination to protect the patient's privacy, Rita says all who help go to great lengths to maintain confidentiality. This protection extends to minors and is upheld by Illinois law which reads in part: "The consent of the parent, parents, or legal guardian of such minor will not be necessary to authorize medical care related to diagnosis and treatment of such disease." Nor must the physician inform the patient's parents, according to the law.

Cook County Health Department advocates more VD educational information for teenagers . . . and favors instigation of an educational program as an elective course at high school level, according to Miss Bakewell.

NURSE ESTHER KULP is helping area teens to work out their various health problems. She never tells them what she thinks they should do, but they discuss possible consequences of their behavior. Most come to her for birth control information. Esther refers them to cooperating physicians or clinics.

Two such clinics are Planned Parenthood's Teen Scene and Evanston Health Department Clinic. Both operate under the Illinois statute which authorizes medical doctors to supervise and control birth control services to certain minors. This includes one who is married, or who is a parent, or who is pregnant or who has the consent of his parent or legal guardian. It also includes any to whom failure to provide such services would create a serious health hazard or who is referred for such services by a physician, clergyman or a Planned Parenthood agency. "The clinics use their own judgment," said Esther.

Ombudswoman For Sick

She's On The Patient's Side

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —To Anne Alexis Corte, former nurse, the patient is the most important person in the hospital. If necessary, she will go right to the director's door to see that the attitude prevails among the total staff.

Miss Corte represents a new trend on the national hospital scene — an ombudswoman, the liaison between patient and all those involved in caring for him or her, the person who sees that a complaint or request does not get bogged down in some departmental red tape. She's the direct line to the top.

It is not an easy job for the striking auburn-haired Miss Corte (prounced cortay). She works at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, one of the largest medical complexes in the nation last year, the hospital's in and out-patient load totaled nearly 245,000.

SHE ESTIMATES that last year she saw some 1,500 of these personally and concedes that's only touching the surface — "obviously not getting to all the problems."

But the direct line idea is expanding. Miss Corte said in an interview that some 80 hospitals have named patient representatives and that a newly-formed organization, the Association of Patient Service Representatives (she is the secretary), has petitioned the American Hospital Association for affiliation.

"When in doubt you take the patient's side," said Miss Corte. "It may be something as simple as a patient complaining there was no orange juice on her breakfast tray. Maybe she didn't want orange juice at all. Maybe she wanted attention."

OR IT MAY BE more complicated, since New York is a teaching hospital and "sometimes the patient feels like a guinea pig with so many doctors around." In such a case, she listens to the patient's complaints, goes to the floor's resident doctor and asks him to explain to the patient why other doctors also are around.

It may be a problem with bills. Or pills. "Many doctors now tell the patient what pills he's on and why," said Miss Corte. "The patient who wants to know should be informed."

Miss Corte, who's from the South Jersey resort town of Margate, came into her job as ombudswoman because of a back injury suffered while lifting a patient. Some monitoring equipment toppled onto her.

It ended the three and one-half year career she'd spent as R.N. at New York-Cornell. But while she was recovering — "in a strange hospital" — she began to see acutely why patients left with little self-identification except a wristband with their name tag and number on it, would have fears and anxieties.

DURING CONVALESCENCE, she talked one day with Dr. David Thompson, New York Hospital director, about "the problems patients face when they are hospitalized." Why not a patient representative? Why not, Thompson said, and appointed her with full responsibility for reporting directly to him.

She concedes that some patients can be difficult, trying for doctors, nurses, aides and all. "But the problem is they're sick," she said, emphasizing again the patient first.

"Surely," she continued, "the staff is human too and also may have pressures. There is no excuse for rudeness, say . . .

"The staff should be geared to the patient. The onus falls on the professional to adjust."

Toys Are Big Business

No Elves In Santa's Workshop

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When mom and dad shell out the cold cash for Christmas toys they are well-aware that the real Santa's workshop is not populated by charming little elves but by engineers, industrial designers and market researchers.

These are the professionals responsible for giving birth to the toys that find their way under the nation's Christmas trees every year.

The toy business is big business — $3 6 billion a year at retail — and very few toys reach the market by accident.

Erwin Benkoe, an authority on the toy market and a senior vice president of Ideal Toy Corp., points out that inspiration for today's toys comes largely from three sources — free lance professional inventors, internal industrial designers and company product planners.

"INVENTORS WITH proven track records make presentations regularly," Benkoe explained. "Often they come in with just a germ of an idea or a product in the earliest formative state which triggers the imagination.

"At the same time, each of our divisions — toys, games and dolls — has a staff of creative people whose job is to spot trends and come up with ideas for new playthings. They throw away hundreds of ideas for each one that eventually makes it." This is the case in most big toy companies.

"Product planners approach the situation from the other end. They spot a void in the market and try to develop a product to fill the hole," Benkoe explained.

These decisions are made at their five-story factory in Hollis on Long Island. However, some of the most fascinating experimentation takes place in a small secluded and unidentified building at the end of a dead end street several blocks from the plant. That's headquarters for the advanced engineering department which works on mechanical concepts — not products.

AN EXAMPLE of how this process works is Class A Racing — car sets without batteries, slots or wires.

In the fall, 1969, the company's planners decided to enter the car racing field with "a new and better product," Benkoe said.

"A team made up of an engineer, market researcher and product manager developed a list of negatives for the category and decided our cars and tracks shouldn't need electricity, batteries or slots, should permit passing but stay on the track easily to avoid frustrating younger children and should give participants an opportunity to compete with each other by being physically involved in the race."

The advanced engineering department then developed a new drive mechanism which provided a great deal of energy in a small space utilizing a simple windup technique.

"THE INDUSTRIAL design department designed the cars, pit stops and track and the manufacturing department translated all the ideas into something that could be tooled and manufactured," he continued.

The model shop then produced the prototypes to be presented to the company's marketing management group. "Throughout the entire process," he added, "there were repeated conferences among management and research and development and cost accounting executives.

"The final, refined concept is the result of these last meetings. After starting in early fall 1969, the project went to advanced engineering in November, the final product went for initial production in June, 1970, and was presented to the trades in February, 1971, for delivery to the nation's toy stores this fall."

SHAKER MAKERS, which permit a child to create cute little people, birds and animals, started with an outside inventor.

"He brought in the formula for the powder which became Magic Mix," Benkoe recalled.

"Our laboratories and outside labs worked on the formula to make sure it was 100 per cent safe. After an independent lab certified that it was completely non-toxic, it was submitted to the Food and Drug Administration which gave its approval.

"Industrial designers, under the direction of the product manager, worked on developing the product. It was decided the mixer shoud look like something easily recognizable — a shaker."

Most of the meetings were concerned with the subjects to be made. Scores of children were brought into the factory to play with hundreds of different kinds of figures. A videotape camera, hidden behind a one-way glass, recorded their reactions.

"INANIMATE OBJECTS rated poorest of all tested," Benkoe reported. "The model shop worked up the final figures and designers developed the casting molds. Then it was presented to marketing management."

All this still is a preliminary to the extensive manufacturing, advertising, distribution and sales efforts which bring the toys to the nation's toy counters.

So a lot goes into toymaking before Santa on Christmas Eve gaily calls, "On Dancer, on Prancer, Donner and Blitzen."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

AFTER MONTHS and months of research and development, a toy such as Shaker Makers is on the nation's toy counters. This toy creates cute little people, birds and animals with a special powder and water in two-piece molds.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

A lot of people who grew herbs a little too successfully this summer are on my back.

"What can we do with all these herbs," they want to know. Seems they have enough for the common market.

HERBAL FACIAL SAUNA NO. 1

1 tsp. dried sweet basil
1 tsp. ground fennel seeds
1 tsp. dried peppermint leaves
1 tsp. dried rosemary
1 tsp. gin (90 proof)

Before starting, cleanse your face thoroughly to remove surface grime and makeup. Place gin and herbs in pot and add two quarts of rapidly boiling water. Turn heat off. Don't burn yourself — test steam first, then make a tent over your head and the pot with a Turkish towel. Steam for five minutes. Pat dry. Finish by closing pores with splashes of cool water. Better still, finish with a mask like the following:

OATMEAL REFRESHER-CLEANSER

1 tbsp. ground oatmeal
¾ tsp. dried mint
2 pinches dried rosemary

Combine ingredients and add enough hot water to make a spreadable paste Smooth on gently. Remove when paste is dry. Rinse well with cool water. Follow with a brisk skin tonic.

Lots of beauty queens and movie stars use take-offs on the following for their hair.

EXTRA SHINE RINSE ((for blondes)

2 tbsp. camomile
2 cups waters

Steep camomile in fast-boiling water for 10 minutes. Allow to cool. Strain through a nylon stocking. (Use the liquid as a final rinse after your usual shampoo.)

EXTRA SHINE RINSE (for brunettes)

2 tsp. dried rosemary
2 cups water

Proceed as above for blonde rinse.

Marie Antoinette took a daily herbal bath. You can too.

TONING VINEGAR-HERB BATH

2 tbsp. dried thyme
2 tbsp. dried rosemary
2 tbsp. dried marjoram
2 tbsp. dried mint
2 cups cider vinegar

Combine vinegar with two cups of water and heat to near boiling. Remove from heat. Add herbs and allow to steep overnight. Strain liquid through double cheesecloth or nylon stocking. Keep in a tightly closed jar. Add to your bath water — one cup per sensuously exotic bath.

These and other fun do-it-yourself cosmetics are listed in Lauretta Briskin's "Beauty Recipes."

If by chance we caught a few readers who didn't grow herbs, but maybe want to try a vial of homemade cosmetics, herbs are available from:

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Charles Machcinski of Rye, N.Y., announce the engagement of their daughter Donna Victoria to Scott William Petersen, son of the Peter William Petersens of Mount Prospect. A January wedding is planned.

Miss Machcinski, a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, received her master's degree in speech pathology and audiology from Northwestern University. She is now a speech pathologist at Chicago-Read Mental Health Center for emotionally disturbed children.

Mr. Petersen is a graduate of Forest View High School and Augustana College. He will complete his studies next June at IIT Chicago-Kent College of Law.

Barbara, a graduate of Arlington High School, is a junior at the University of Illinois, Champaign. She ,is majoring in medical technology and is affiliated with Pi Beta Phi Sorority. Her fiance is a senior at the University of Illinois majoring in speech education. He is affiliated with Delta Upsilon.

Miss Christine Regina Arnesen's engagement to James Riley Eitel, son of the Hubert M. Eitels of Dallas, Texas, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Arnesen, 3800 Fairfax Ave., Palatine. A Feb. 6, 1972 wedding is planned.

Christine is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. She is a registered nurse at Cook County Hospital, Chicago. Her fiance is a graduate of Duke University, Durham, N.C., and will graduate in June with an M.D. from Northwestern University School of Medicine. He is presently an extern at Cook County Hospital.

Caryn Marie Carlson's engagement to William H. Stewart, son of the William H. Stewarts, 2231 Scott St., Des Plaines, is announced by her parents, the Robert J. Carlsons, 602 WE. Cedar Lane, Mount Prospect. A May 13 wedding has been set.

Caryn graduated from John Hersey High School in 1970 and attended Harper College. Her fiance was graduated from Maine West High School in 1970. Both are employed by STP Corp.

Christine Sokolski Weds Marine In West Coast Rites

A military ceremony Oct. 23 at Alameda, Calif., united Christine B. Sokolski of Arlington Heights and Capt. John P. Glasgow of the U. S. Marine Corps. The bride's parents, the Joseph Sokolskis of 1720 N. Kaspar, attended, as did the groom's father, John Glasgow of New York.

After a simple ceremony there was a reception at a friend's home. The newlyweds honeymooned at Lake Tahoe, Calif., before Capt. Glasgow left for a 7-month cruise in the West Pacific aboard the USS Coral Sea.

In February, Christine will meet him in Hong Kong to spend a week together. They expect to be re-united next June, and the bridegroom will begin work on a master's in international relations. He is a graduate of Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y.

Christine will continue working for Baxter Laboratories in Deerfield until his return. She is a graduate of Arlington versity and currently lives in Buffalo Grove.

Diane Singer, Don Brach II Wed Oct. 23 At St. Mark's

Diane Singer and Donald J. Brach II are Mount Prospect newlyweds getting settled at the Berkshire Trace Apartments in Buffalo Grove since their Oct. 23 nuptials.

They exchanged vows and rings in a five o'clock candlelight service in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Later a reception honored the couple, at which 215 guests were served a buffet supper by Montclare Caterers.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Singer, 11 N. Edward St., and Donald is the son of Mr. and Mr. D. Brach, 315 N. Prospect Manor.

The couple honeymooned for two weeks in Florida.

AS SHE WASgiven in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style gown of white satin adorned with Venise lace and with it a Camelot bonnet of lace daisies studded with pearls. Her veil was two-tiered, and she carried a white orchid surrounded with white daisies.

She chose a childhood friend, Karen Guse of Chicago, as maid of honor. Karen wore a yellow peasant style gown embroidered with braid and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

The couple's sisters, Glory Singer and Julie Brach, were bridesmaids along with Gail Eilbracht and Sharon Farquhar, both of Mount Prospect, and Anne

The girls wore rainbow shades of the same styled gown as Karen's and carried daisies to match.

ESCORTING KAREN was Craig Anderson of Arlington Heights who served as best man. Ushers for the wedding ceremony were Donald Singer and James Brach, brothers of the newlyweds; Jeff Edwards and James Woodcock o fArlington Heights, and Gordon Dybdahl of Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Singer wore blue velvet and taffeta and Mrs. Brach appeared in pale green embroidered chiffon for the festivities. Each had a white orchid corsage.

Diane and Donald are graduates of Prospect High School. She works for the Norton Co. in Des Plaines and he is a landscaper in the local area.

Susan Morris Gives Up Job, Gets Married

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Smith

When Susan Morris of Mount Prospect went to work for Quaker Oats in Chicago, she didn't anticipate a romance with the personnel manager of the company's chemicals division. But romance did develop, and she became the bride of Eddie Carl Smith of Western Springs on Oct. 23 in St. Simon's Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights.

Before she took on her title as Mrs. Smith she gave up her job at Quaker Oats.

It was a simple ceremony with Susan's sister, Mrs. Mark Smedley of Indianapolis, as matron of honor and the groom's brother, Ted Smith, Fox River Grove, serving as best man.

Susan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Morris, 107 S. CanDota, Mount Prospect. Eddie's mother is Mrs. Herman A. Smith of Danville who was here for the wedding, along with the groom's 87-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Carl B. McCord of Danville.

THE BRIDE CHOSE a white brocade suit for her wedding day. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Smedley's ensemble was green crepe, and her flowers were purple orchids.

After the 12:30 p.m .nuptials there was a luncheon reception at Glenview Country House. The newlyweds are living at 4140 Forest Ave., Western Springs.

Susan was graduated from Prospect High School in '65 and from the University of Illinois in '69.

Her husband is a graduate of the University of Illinois, had two years at John Marshall Law School and is currently working on a master's in business administration at the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Huffine

Bridal CoupleMet At Harper

A bridal party attired in two-toned purple and lilac attended Nancy May Senger as she became Michael Paul Huffine's bride in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Palatine. The couple met while students at Harper College.

Nancy's parents are the Robert P. Sengers, 80 S. Poteet Road, Palatine; Michael's are the Paul V. Huffines, Buffalo Grove. She attended Fremd High School, and he went to Wheeling High.

Sarah Jarzemski, her cousin from LaCrosse, Wis., was maid of honor, and Christine Stanczak and Barbara Cutler, Palatine, were bridesmaids for the October rites. Michael Darling, Buffalo Grove, was best man while Tom Wingxtrom, Harold Wiese and Robert Senger, Nancy's brother, ushered. Sandy Mullins, 5, the groom's cousin, was flower girl, and Daniel Senger, 9, Nancy's brother, was ring bearer.

After a honeymoon at Lake of the Ozarks, the newlyweds live in Palatine where Nancy works for Zayre's. Michael is an Illinois Bell Telephone employee.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: The shortening of men's shirt sleeves has been sufficiently covered and thought I'd add my bit on how to replace the elastic in men's shorts. Using a razor blade or something similar, cut the threads which hold the original elastic to the cloth. You can buy a package of the proper width elastic at almost any variety or dry-goods store. Measure waistline with tape measure. For a snug fit, the elastic should be slightly shorter than the waist measure. It's a good idea to try it on to see how it feels. Pin the elastic to the inside of the shorts, stretching it to fit the cloth. Pin at last every five or six inches. Sew the elastic on with a fairly long stitch on the sewing machine, stretching it to fit the cloth. Then sew bottom edge of the elastic in the same manner. You may want to make two or three other lines of stitches on the narrow, lengthwise area of the elastic. If the original elastic is only on the sides of the garment, follow the same procedure, just using less elastic. Hope this helps anyone to rejuvenate a pair of shorts. — Florence M. Whitcomb.

Dear Dorothy: Your recent instructions on treating iron pots recommended pure soap. I have some lovely iron pots but the food prepared in them always had a distasteful flavor. Inasmuch as I make my own soap, I treated all of my iron skillets, pots and corn-stick pans to the soap treatment as you recommended. Finally, we enjoy the food prepared in the iron pans. Thank you. — Mrs. T. C. Chisolm.

Dear Dorothy: Notice people constantly ask what to do with laundry that has been washed and dried — including a colored crayon. If it's an all white laundry load they can get rid of the entire stain with two packages of color remover. It worked perfectly for me the only time the incident happened here. — Marthe Doguereau.

Debs, Dads Rehearse For Cotillion

Rehearsals for northwest suburban debs and their fathers have begun in preparation for Cotillion VI, to be held Wednesday, Dec. 29, at the Drake Hotel. The annual ball benefits Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

For the young ladies, rehearsing includes learning such accomplishments as a six-count curtsey; for their fathers, it means hearing Mrs. Charles Parvin, coordinator, often say, "Bow lower, please."

Debs presently attending rehearsals include Patti Schummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schummer; Susan Lubeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lubeck; and Maureen Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Miller; all of Mount Prospect. Also Martha Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz of Des Plaines; Mary Chris Semrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Semrow of Park Ridge; and Pam Justen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Justen of Glenview.

Any young women interested in joining Cotillion VI, or their parents, may contact Mrs. Richard Georgeon at 392-7310, or Mrs. James Dowd at 824-9484.

It's Fashion

by United Press International

Spring clothes are "for a lady all the way" is the way Travilla sees his collection for Paul Parnes. The designer used softening effects throughout the collection. These included bowed white organza blouses, white collar and cuffs on long black crepe dinner suits and the all-out femaleness of ruffled black chiffon evening dresses.

Many American designers are dashing to dots for spring, showing all sizes of white dots on dark backgrounds usually. These are especially popular in blouses with large, floppy bows at the necks. Many times the jacket of the suits are lined in the same print as that featured in the blouse.

Before you head for the stores with your Christmas list, verify all the sizes of clothes you intend to buy for others.

Don't go by last year's sizes for relatives or others who don't live at your domicile. Aunt Minnie may have gone up a size, and Uncle John may have gone down a size. And the children on your list? They can be from one to two sizes larger in everything from pants to mittens.

Mrs. J. Peter Chaplin

A Canadian Touch For Fruit Cake

by LOIS SEILER

Shortly after Thanksgiving (and often before) a good cook's fancy turns to thoughts of Christmas baking.

Mrs. J. Peter Chaplin of Mount Prospect usually starts thinking about it back in October because the fruit cake she makes can be prepared months ahead and improves with age. However, it's not too late to prepare her recipe now and have it nicely mellowed by the holidays.

To English-speaking Canadians such as the Chaplin family, fruit cake is an integral part of their Christmas tradition.

"We have a saying," Virginia Chaplin explained, "that for every piece of fruit cake eaten during the holiday season, a measure of good luck will come your way during the New Year."

It is also the custom in Canada to use fruit cake for many types of festive occasions — weddings, baptisms and other holidays. If Virginia has any cake left over after Christmas, she serves it during the year. Once she kept one in the refrigerator for a whole year and remarked that it tasted better than ever!

Holding a degree in science with honors in food science from McGill University, Virginia and her husband, Peter, are natives of Montreal, Quebec.

The move to Mount Prospect was their first away from their home town, family and friends. But they have adjusted easily, and credit this to the friendliness of Americans.

Virginia quickly became involved in activities — volunteering her services to the Westbrook and Lincoln School libraries and serving on the board of the Westbrook PTA.

She is also a member of the Garden-Club, belongs to a circle at the Community Presbyterian Church and participates in a neighborhood book club. And the Chaplin children, Michael, 13, and Cynthia, 9, are enthusiastic participants in Scouting activities.

Virginia expressed her admiration for the industry of American women involved in charitable and civic work. "They waste little time talking but are busy getting on with it," she said.

Virginia "gets on" with her holiday baking early "for the sake of mellowed goodies and the dispositon of the cook."

THE RECIPE SHE USES for Dark Christmas Cake was originally published in the "Montreal Star" many years ago. It is a dark fruit cake in the grand tradition — very fruity with just enough batter to hold it all together.

"It is important to bake the cake slowly to keep it moist, and it also must be wrapped tightly when stored away," Virginia emphasized.

On some cakes she uses a pineapple glaze; on others she spreads an almond paste over the top and covers it with a thin layer of butter cream icing. She usually decorates the cakes with candied fruit to resemble holly or poinsettias.

One recipe makes five pounds of fruit cake; upon occasion Virginia has made as much as 35 pounds of the cake for Christmas gifts and her own use in holiday entertaining. she recommends the glazed cake as best for mailing, but prefers the flavor of the iced cake for home use.

Another goodie she has found to be highly successful as a gift is shortbread. Virginia uses a recipe published in a cookbook which was authored by a friend.

Easy to prepare, six dozen shortbreads can be made in one fell swoop. Although the pan size called for is 10 by 14 inches, Virginia has found that two aluminum pans from packaged brown and serve rolls do nicely, as the pan size and depth are very important.

"When properly baked, the shortbread is evenly browned throughout," she explained.

Rich and delicious, the shortbread is an appealing addition to a cookie assortment.

Although the Chaplins traditionally have plum pudding for their Christmas dessert, Virginia also likes to serve a mincemeat pie some time during the holidays.

Because her family likes mincemeat but finds it very rich, Virginia modifies the flavor with apples. Using a simple method which she devised herself, Virginia spoons mincement into a crust and spreads canned pie-sliced apples over the top.

"This is a true ten-minute pie," she laughingly explained, "Especially if you use a pastry mix." She serves it with a creamy hard sauce which melts over the hot pie, making an elegant yet easy dessert.

It is a certainty that Americans will enjoy adding Virginia's excellent Canadian recipes to their holiday baking endeavors.

Dark Christmas Cake

¼ pound candied orange peel, diced
¼ pound candied lemon peel, diced
¼ pound candied pineapple, chopped
¼ pound citron, chopped
¼ pound red glaced cherries, halved
¼ pound green glaced cherries, halved
¼ pound walnuts, coarsely chopped
¼ pound pecans, coursely chopped
½ pound dark seedless raisins
¼ cup flour to dredge fruit and nuts
1 cup shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup honey
5 eggs, well-beaten
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ cup orange juice

Prepare pans — either three loaf pans or one 8-inch square pan and one loaf pan or one 8-inch ring mold (1½-quart size) and one loaf pan 4 by 8-inches.

Grease pans and smoothly line with heavy brown or white paper. Thoroughly grease top layer of paper which will be next to the batter. Cut paper in strips lengthwise and crosswise to fit bottom and sides of pan, extending ½-inch above edge of pan. Do not line ring molds or odd-shapped pans but grease thoroughly and lower oven temperature by 25 degrees.

In a large bowl, combine fruit and nuts. Dredge in ¼ cup flour, tossing so that mixture is well-coated.

Cream together shortening and sugar. Blend in honey; add eggs and beat thoroughly with an electric mixer.

Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and spices. Add to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice. Mix thoroughly by hand and pour batter over floured fruit and nuts. Mix by hand to blend ingredients thoroughly.

Fill prepared pans about ¾ full with mixture. Bake in a pre-heated slow oven, 250 degrees, two to three hours, depending on size of pans. (Reduce heat to 225 degrees for ring molds.)

Keep a shallow pan of water on bottom of oven during baking period. Check water in pan periodically so it doesn't evaporate too fast. If the surface of the cake seems to be getting too brown, cover top of cakes with a layer of heavy brown paper.

Bakes cakes, once removed from oven, should be allowed to stand in pans at least an hour to cool. The invert on cake rack and remove paper. Makes 5 pounds fruit cake.

When thoroughly cool, if desired, brush cakes with hot corn syrup or pineapple glaze. Decorate with candied cherries, blanched almonds or candies. Allow glaze to dry thoroughly before wrapping cake in heavy waxed paper and aluminum foil. Store in tightly-covered container in a cool place, the longer the better.

Pineapple Glaze

¼ cup unsweetened pineapple juice
½ cup corn syrup

Combine ingredients in a saucepan and bring quickly to a rolling boil. Remove from heat and immediately brush over fruit cakes with pastry brush. When fist glaze has set, re-heat saucepan of glaze to a rolling boil and brush on second coat of glaze. (Always re-heat glaze to rolling boil before using.) This quantity of glaze is sufficient to give a double coat to five pounds of fruit cake.

Iced Cakes

Store cakes without glaze when using almond paste and butter cream icing. A few hours before serving, spread almond paste (at room temperature) on top of cake to a depth of ¼ to ½ inch. Ice top of almond paste with a thin layer of butter cream icing. Decorate top of icing with candied fruit to resemble holly or poinsettias. When stored in a tightly covered tin, the iced cake will keep well in he refrigerator for several weeks.

Lisa's Shortbread

1 cup soft butter
¾ cup well-packed light brown sugar
2½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour

Beat butter at medium speed of electric mixer until is it creamy. Gradually add brown sugar, beating constantly. At low speed, beat in flour. Then mix and knead with your hands until the dough doesn't crack when you fold it over and all is blended well, about ten minutes.

Press and pat mixture evenly over bottom of ungreased pan that measures 14 inches in length, 10 inches in width and 5/8 inch in depth. Or two aluminum foil pans from brown and serve rolls that measure 8 inches in length, 6 inches in width and 5/8 inches in depth may be used. Pan size is very important in this recipe — especially the depth.

Using a floured fork, prick entire surface of mixture, going completely through to bottom of pan. Bake in a preheated 300 degree oven for about 45 minutes or until golden brown. When correctly baked, this shortbread should be evenly browned throughout.

Using a sharp knife, immediately cut shortbread into thirds on the length and then into about 24 strips on the width for the large pan or 16 strips for the smaller pans. Allow shortbread to cool thoroughly in pan on wire rack. Remove from pan, place in a tin box and cover tightly. These shortbread will keep for weeks in the refrigerator. Makes about 6 dozen pieces.

Mincemeat Apple Pie

Pastry mix for 9-inch pie
1 1-pound 2-ounce jar Crosse and Blackwell Mincemeat with rum and brandy
1 20-ounce can Comstock Pie-Sliced Applies, well-drained
½ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons shortening or butter

Prepare pastry mix and line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Into it put the mincemea and spread he apples over mincemeat. Over the top of this, sprinkle the sugar and flour. Dot with shortening.

Cover with top layer of pastry. Prick crust or cut out a silhouette of holly and berries. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake an additional 45 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Hard Sauce

1/3 cup butter
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1/3 teaspoon lemon juice
2/3 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter and add sugar gradually, creaming constantly. Add flavorings and chill. Mold with a knife into the shape of a mound. Decorate with red and green candied cherries to resemble holly. Serve very cold with a spoon. Hard sauce will melt over hot pie.

DARK CHRISTMAS CAKE is an integal part of Mrs. Peter Chaplin's holiday tradition. Her fruit cake recipe comes from her native home, Montreal, Quebec.

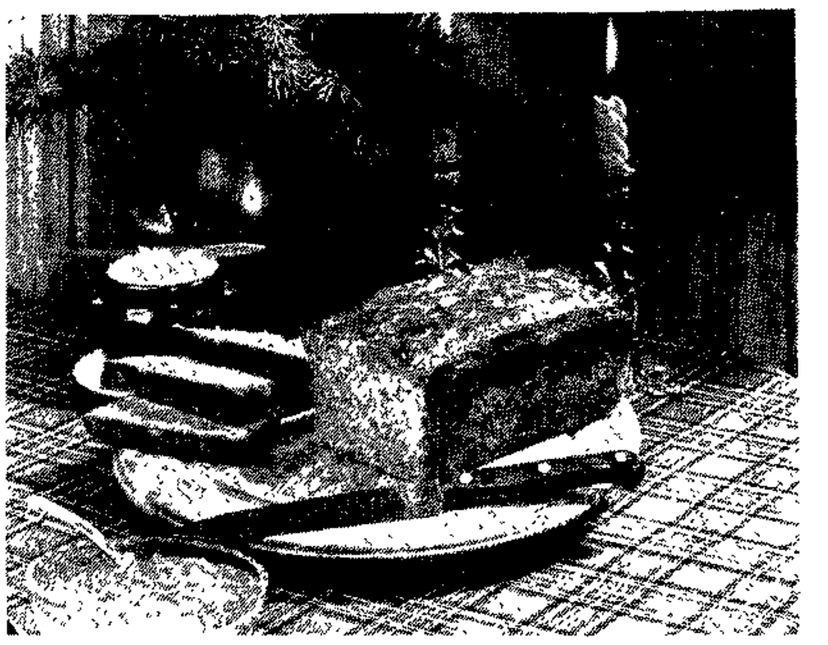
Apple Sauce Fruit Cake Rings A Flavorful Bell

Traditional fruit cake for the holidays takes on a new note with canned apple sauce as the flavor innovator and the cake baked to resemble ringing bells.

Plan to make the cake well ahead of the rush-and-hurry days this holiday season. Store it, well wrapped, in a cake container with lid — or, in the refrigerator. While it stands, the gentle-sweet flavor of apple will permeate the cake through and through, mellowing its texture and melding the flavors of the candied fruits, raisins and walnuts deliciously. From time to time, if you like, spike the cake with a little apple juice and a bit of rum or rum extract.

Just before serving, frost the cake sparingly and try your talent at decorating it. You can use the ready-to-spread canned frosting. It always goes on so smoothly and firms without hardening. Then there are tubes of decorator gels and colored frosting so you can handily follow the outlines marking the bells in a truly professional way.



Apple Sauce Fruit Cake

APPLE SAUCE FRUIT CAKE

¾ cup butter
¾ cup dark brown sugar
3 eggs
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups seedless raisins
1½ cups cut mixed candied fruit
¾ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups canned apple sauce
Frosting, decorator gels and cherries for garnish

Cream butter with sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Dredge raisins, candied fruit and walnuts in 1 cup of flour. Sift remaining 2 cups flour with baking soda, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and salt. Add alternately with apple sauce to creamed mixture. Add fruit and nut mixture. Mix thoroughly. Pour into well greased and floured bell-shaped aluminum mold to within 1/2 inch of top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 1½ hours or until cake tester inserted in center comes out dry. Remaining batter can be baked in loaf pan, individual metal molds or custard cups. Let cake stand in pan 10 to 15 minutes before removing. Cool on wire rack. Decorate with ready-to-use frosting, decorator gels and cherries, as illustrated. This cake can also be baked in 10-inch tube pan for 1¼ hours. or in 2 loaf pans (9 x 5 x 3-inches) for 1¼ hours.

Choco-Raisin Crunch Bars

Homemade candy bars filled with peanut butter cereal, raisins, marshmallows and chocolate make good time-out-from-play snacks. Serve with small glass of milk — just enough to cut hunger pangs, give energy but not spoil a child's mealtime appetite.

CHOCO-RAISIN CRUNCH BARS

4 cups crunchy, peanut butter cereal
1 cup raisins
2/3 cup light corn syrup
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
Dash salt
3 cups miniature marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 (6-oz. pkg.) (1 cup) semisweet chocolate pieces

Place peanut butter cereal and raisins in greased large bowl. Mix syrup, sugar and salt in a medium-sized saucepan; bring to a full boil. Stir in marshmallows. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla and chocolate pieces. Pour over cereal-raisin mixture, stirring until evenly coated. With greased hands, firmly press mixture into a greased 11x7-inch pan. Chill. Cut into bars. Makes 16 bars.

Kitchen Hints

Use baby oil to remove stains from the chrome trim on kitchen appliances. Just apply a small amount with a soft cloth. Then polish.

Put a thick rubber band around a jar lid to make it easier to turn.

Do not attempt to operate a microwave oven with the door open. Likewise, do not use the microwave feature if the door is damaged — that is, has a tear or gap in the closure seal, a broken hinge, bent or warped door.

If the range in your kitchen uses gas, turn off pilots when using spray oven cleaners.

Unlike other fruits which are picked because they look, feel or taste ripe, figs are allowed to fully ripen and semi-dry on the tree. Then after falling to the ground from their own weight, they are picked up and transported to dry yards for additional drying. This leaves no doubt as to the fullest extent of development for maximum nutrition, says the Dried Fig Advisory Board.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Mincemeat Takes A Holiday From Pie

In The Breakfast Way

This delightful recipe from the Diamond Walnut Kitchen puts a mincemeat-walnut-candied cherry filling into a hot bread to make a delicious treat for holiday breakfasts or for serving with afternoon or evening coffee breaks.

It calls for a hot roll mix — a light and lovely contrast to the rich filling. It's quick to fix as well, since much of the measuring is already done for you. When the dough has been rolled and the center spread with the filling, slits are cut in each side to form strips which are easily laced. Thus the name Walnut Mincemeat Lace.

WALNUT MINCEMEAT LACE

1 13¾-ounce package hot roll mix
1 egg
½ cup finely chopped California walnuts
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¼ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 cup prepared mincemeat
1/3 cup chopped California walnuts
¼ cup chopped candied cherries
Powdered sugar glaze
Candied cherries and California walnut halves

Prepare hot roll mix as directed on package using the egg. Mix in ½ cup finely chopped walnuts with the flour mixture. Cover and let rise 30 to 40 minutes until doubled. Meanwhile prepare filling: in small saucepan combine cornstarch and orange juice; heat, stirring until thickened. Stir in sugar, mincemeat, 1/3 cup chopped walnuts and ¼ cup cherries. Roll dough out on lightly floured surface to 14x10-inch rectangle. Carefully lift onto greased baking sheet. Spread filling down center third of dough. On each side of filling cut slits in dough as far in as the filling and about one inch apart. Fold strips at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side. After lacing last two strips tuck ends underneath. Cover and let rise about 30 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool, then frost with powdered sugar glaze and decorate with walnut pieces and candied cherries.

Eggnog In A Bread

'Tis the season for taking advantage of creamy rich eggnog. And good news! The dairies have taken all the work out of the season's favorite beverage. It comes in cartons all ready to be served as a refreshing holiday beverage or spruced up into a perky party punch. But that's not all. Eggnog can be used for festive holiday foods.

Take this elegant eggnog bread for example. It's a quick bread — not a yeast bread so it's mixed in minutes. What makes this bread even better is that it can be made ahead of time. Then no matter how hectic the holidays get, you're always sure of having an appropriate treat on hand to brighten any holiday table.

Here we see how Holiday Eggnog Bread turns a simple buffet supper into something special. It's served with slices of cheese: Swiss, Cheddar and Brick. A bright salad made with turkey and ham and topped with a smooth and saucy sour cream dressing is the easy-to-fix, easy-eatin' main dish. (What a tasty way to use those holiday leftovers)

HOLIDAY EGGNOG BREAD

3 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ cups dairy eggnog
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted
¾ cup chopped walnuts
¾ cup chopped candied fruit

In a large bowl sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Combine eggnog, egg and butter; add to dry ingredients and stir until blended. Stir in nuts and fruit; turn in a buttered 9x5x2¾-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 60-70 minutes. Turn out of pan onto wire rack to cool.

Preferred Wieners

UPI —All-beef frankfurters are preferred by Consumers Union and nutritionists because they provide more protein and less fat than the beef-pork blend.

Sodium nitrate, salt and spices are added to the basic meat and then the mixture is chopped in a bowl-shaped machine. The blades revolve around so fast that crushed ice must be added to keep the meat from overheating. The chopped meat is then stuffed into a specially processed casing which becomes the frankfurter's outer coat.

THE WINDS OF WAR
Herman Wouk

This new novel by one of the master storytellers of our time is by all odds his most significant novel — not excluding The Caine Mutiny. In it the author undertakes no less a task than the re-creation of the early years of World War II as a living experience for a large, diverse and colorful cast of characters who saw it at close range. A story of truly impressive proportions, totaling almost four hundred thousand words, it begins in Washington, D.C., early in 1939, moves to Berlin, then to Italy, Poland and Russia, and thence back to the United States and finally on to Pearl Harbor. The Winds of War is the product of years of painstaking research here and abroad as well as years of equally painstaking writing. It will continue to be read long after the formal histories of the period have been forgotten. $10.00

Atcher Declines To Run For Post Of Court Clerk

Mayor Robert O. Atcher late Tuesday revealed plans to decline a top level invitation to seek the GOP ballot position for Cook County Circuit Court Clerk.

"When I received a phone call from Joe Tecson, my good friend from Riverside, asking that I be a candidate for this office, I told him I would have to talk to some people — those that elected me to the job I hold here in Schaumburg," Atcher said.

Tecson is chairman of the GOP slatemakers committee now holding Chicago interviews for prospective candidates for state and county offices.

"Last April, some said I was not qualified to hold the office of mayor, but yet, the Republican State Central Committee considers me qualified for a responsible county office.

"WHEN THAT sinks into Mr. Totten (GOP Committeeman Donald L. Totten), I'll tell the slatemakers I appreciate their consideration and decline," asserted Atcher.

Totten said he was not aware of the invitation extended to Atcher until Tuesday, adding he would not be interested in sponsoring him.

Totten said he expected the reason for the invitation was that Atcher ran a good campaign last time.

Tecson backed up Totten.

"Totten, or any other committeeman, would have to sponsor a candidate. Absence of sponsorship of a committeeman would leave very little chance of being slated," he said. "That's his (Totten's) job."

"As chairman of the slatemaking committee it's my duty to call hundreds of people," he said, adding, the calls are made on the theory the more interest stimulated among individuals, the greater the chance of ending up with a top-notch candidate.

"With that background I called Bob Atcher, who is a fine person," Tecson said.

Atcher's reference to Totten concerned the controversy which has sprung up in the past year with the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST).

Differences of opinion occurred when Atcher's village party, Schaumburg United Citizens (SUP) refeused to accede to ROOST demands concerning candidates for the April municipal election.

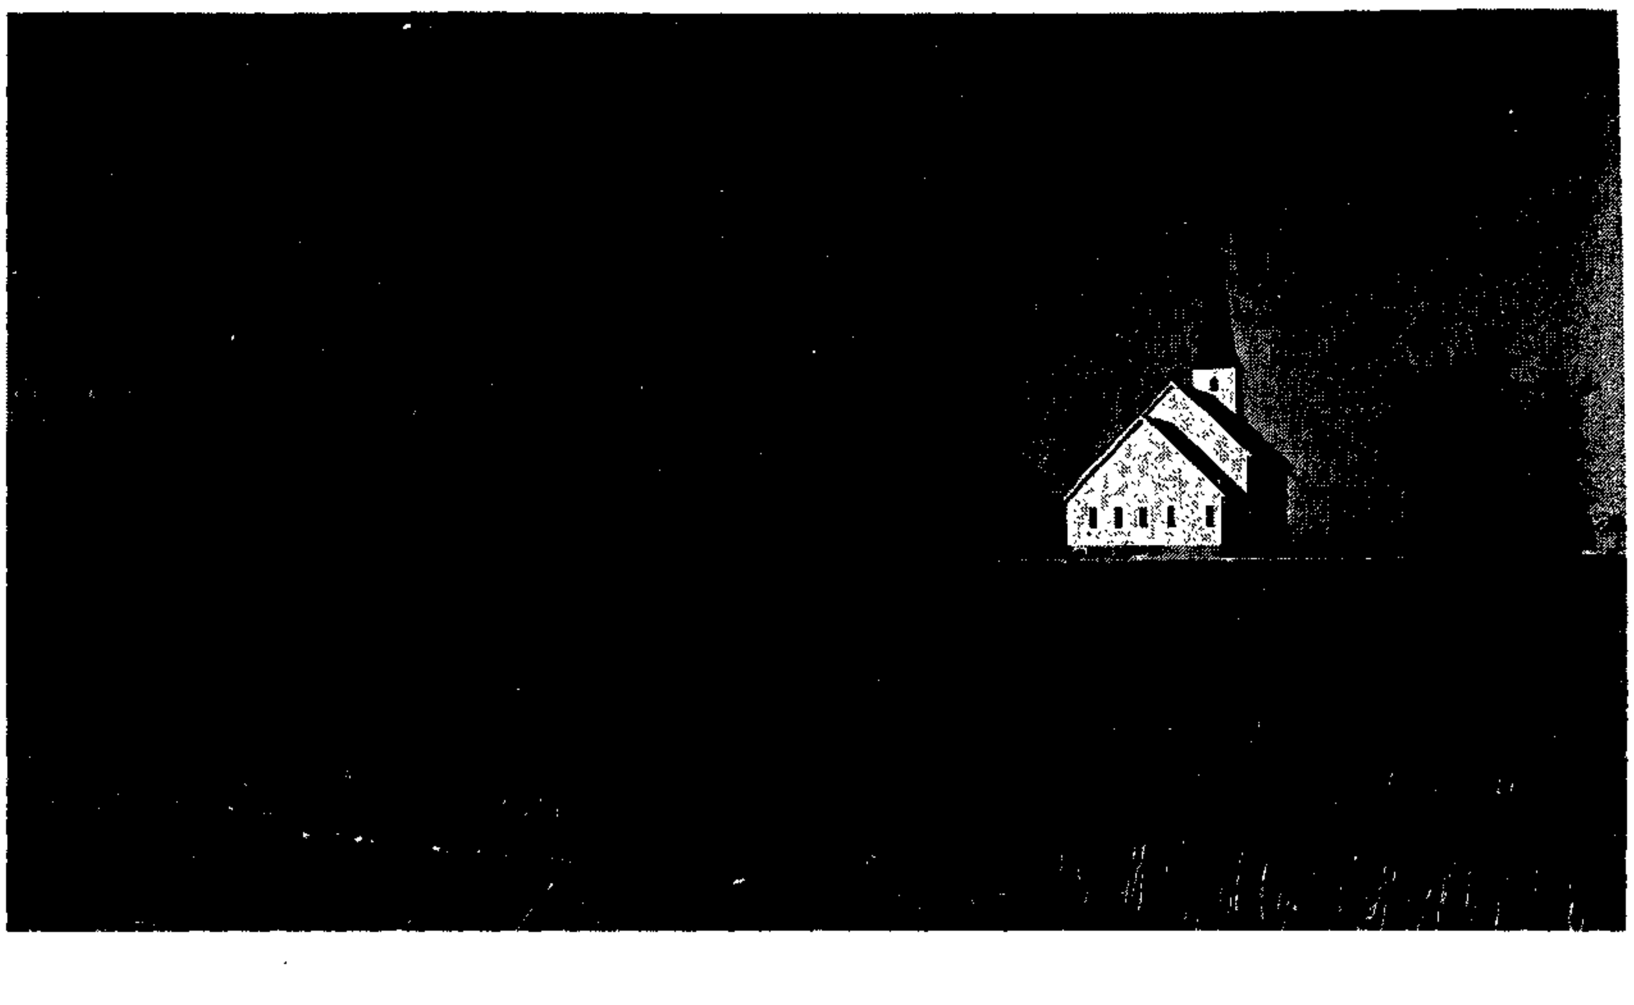
The controversy grew when Atcher announced formation of SUP as a permanent political entity in the village.

Several weeks after SUP's birth, the new group scheduled a picnic, co-incidentally, on the same day as the ROOST summer outing.

THE BATTLE RAGED when SUP disclosed plans to hold the President's Ball on the same night as the annual ROOST dinner dance, prompting Totten to call the village organization "a pimple on the the pachyderm's pelvis."

Atcher carried Schaumburg Township last year in his attempt to unseat Democrat Edward J. Barrett as Cook County Clerk.

Running against Sen. John Graham (R-Barrington), Atcher was an unsuccessful candidate for the Illinois Senate in 1967.



Massive Traffic Tie-Up At Worst Near Rte. 53-Meacham

by NANCY COWGER

Motorists had a unique opportunity to inspect the sights along Golf Road Tuesday night, as they were jammed inches apart, and waited for traffic to move.

The massive tie-up, at its worst between Rte. 53 and Meacham Road, apparently was caused by the first snow to accumulate in more than patches this season.

Some motorists were in the tangle for as long as two hours, running their engines with all but parking lights off to preserve batteries life. Others, who timed their arrivals at the jam properly, were through it in about 45 minutes.

Many drivers were not content to just sit it out. Those with passengers sent them out to scout. They all returned, passing the word to other drivers on the way, with nothing to report. There was no apparent reason for the jam-up.

THE MESS was supported as cars turned onto Golf, joining the crush, from Woodfield access roads. There appeared little danger of accidents, however. No one was moving.

The situation was both more and less difficult on Meacham Road at the bridge over the Northwest Tollroad. While cars were moving there, they were going slowly, and in an at-your-own-risk fash- and one vehicle at a time slid across, some going the length nearly broadside as they spun around on the ice.

Police trying to cope with the problems had little time to direct traffic or untangle jams like the one on Golf Road.

Schaumburg police handled seven accidents, all fender-benders, between 4 and 7 p.m. Only one was on Golf, near Barrington Road. Three were on Meacham, at Higgins, Lexington and Algonquin roads. One was in Woodfield, another at Braintree and Hartmann and the last at Roselle Road and Library Lane.

POLICE IN Hoffman Estates had only three accidents in the same time period, although they received complaints about several of those in Schaumburg. State Police had calls to investigate three accidents on Rte. 53, but only one of those was in Schaumburg. None of the accidents resulted in injuries. said.police Street department crews in both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg were called out early during the storm to salt iced areas. Bode Road, a county road in Hoffman Estates, was especially hazardous, according to several reports received by village police, so village crews salted it. Cook County is to be billed for time and material.

Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK

A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds,. to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Award $224,205 Firehouse Contract

Through a negotiated reduction saving Schaumburg $46,000, Slezak Construction Co., Chicago, was awarded the $224,205 contract for the Woodfield Fire Station on Tuesday.

Lowest of six sealed bids received last week, original Slezak costs were $270,000 for the 8,700-sq. ft. Meacham Road firehouse. The four-bay station will serve as department headquarters.

In a Saturday meeting with architects and police and fire committee members, the contractor's representatives agreed to attempt paring down costs in line with revised specifications.

Elimination of glazed brick interior wall tile, redesign of a generator system and several other major revisions have sliced square foot costs to slightly under $26.

The proposed building was considered 7,000-sq. ft. when bids were received, but, according to Chief Lloyd Abrahamson, careful re-measuring indicates 8,700 sq. ft. including an exterior training tower.

At that time trustees and Mayor Robert O. Atcher expressed shock at $42 to $46 per square foot costs based on the incorrect calculation.

Other bids ranged as high as $100,000 over village projected estimates of about $225,000. All, including the original Slezak bid, were rejected in formal action prior to the contract award.

Legality of this action was confirmed by Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, provided the revised Slezak bid was approved by two-thirds majority of the village board.

The building will be located on a one-acre site donated by J. Emil Anderson and Sons, developers. The Anderson firm was also second lowest bidder on the project.

Originally, a site immediately west of one entrance to Woodfield Mall was proposed and after lengthy delay, the title was released to the village.

Several weeks later, the developer proposed a site swap offering an acre closer to Ill. Rte. 58 which will provide better service to high risk industrial and multiple family development in the northern part of Schaumburg.

The village agreed but stipulated that title to the first parcel would be retained until the deed to the substitute arrived.

Title to the second parcel arrived a little more than 24-hours before last week's bid opening.

Building plans permitted construction on either site and trustees planned to go ahead on the original acre if a deed was not forthcoming by the time of contract award.

The building will be slab construction limited to one-floor but a mezzanine for storage will be included, Abrahamson

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a board of inquiry to study the deadlocked Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike, the first step in a series of actions that could lead to a court-ordered 80-day return to work.

The Price Commission has approved a 4.5 per cent average price increase for Chrysler Corp. cars and trucks, but lopped 0.8 per cent off the company's request. It was the sixth increase approved and the first to be cut back. Chrysler had asked for a 5.9 per cent increase.

* * *

State Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said President Nixon's multi-billion dollar package of tax cuts might not be revived in Congress if Nixon vetoes it. Republican congressional leaders have said Nixon is considering a veto if the bill reaches his desk with a Democratic-sponsored amendment to finance presidential campaigns through a $1 tax check-off system.

The World

Pakistani officials reported heavy fighting in border areas on three sides of East Pakistan, but said Indian troops were pushed back and government troops recaptured a border outpost and two other areas, killing 200 Indians in one clash and killing and wounding 300 in another.

Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin pledged the Soviet Union to surpass in four years the current economic might of the United States, a nation he described as the "sick man" of the capitalist world.

The State

Barnabas F. Sears asked the Illinois Supreme Court to block a lower court hearing into his conduct before the Cook County grand jury that indicted State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 other law officers in the Black Panther case.

Governor Ogilvie signed legislation which divides the state's 59 legislative districts into three groups for the purpose of electing senators to alternating two and four-year terms.

Governor Ogilvie opened his campaign for reelection by promising that he will not "raise taxes for any purpose."

The Chicago Board of Education will receive about $5.5 million in federal funds which could keep Chicago public schools open for an extra 12 days. They were to have been closed for the Christmas-New Year vacation, Rep. Roman Puchinski, D-Ill., said.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

Most of the nation is expected to have pleasant Thanksgiving weather.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	42	31
Buffalo	29	21
Denver	37	21
Los Angeles	70	50
Miami Beach	77	75
New Orleans	66	51
New York	36	26
Phoenix	70	42
San Francisco	58	48

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

'Indians' At MacArthur School Observe Thanksgiving

by JERRY THOMAS

The Apache Indian stood tall before the hushed youngsters seated around him. Bowed as if in grace, he said, "thank you for this food," as he spread his hands over the fruit, vegetables and meat.

The scene was not a bountiful Thanksgiving table laden with a feast but the gymnasium of the Douglas MacArthur School in Hoffman Estates.

It was the second graders idea; collecting canned goods for American Indians, their way of observing the Thanksgiving holiday.

Ralph Ochoa, an Apache; and Goerge La Ronge, a Chippawa; representing the American Indian Center in Chicago looked over the long row of boxes and said the food would be doled out to last many days.

"WE WILL not use all the food the children gave for a Thanksgiving dinner but it will bring full bellies and color to our children's cheeks through the winter months and into the Christmas holidays," said Ochoa.

Ochoa told the children time has changed the world and the once proud Indian. He spoke of life on the reservation and compared Indian Schools to MacArthur School.

"A one-room dirt-floored enclosure where students share one book and never see a crayon or know what a movie film is, that's what most Indian children know as school days," said Ochoa.

"They can no longer live as they did but are not able to live as the white man does because of a lack of education and money," said Ochoa.

"ON THE reservation Indians are allowed to hunt and fish without license, but my mother lived in Arizona and there were no lakes to fish or game to hunt in the desert," Ochoa said.

Often when the "reservation Indian" leaves to become a "city Indian" he finds himself starving and unable to work because he is not educated, Ochoa said.

"For some, the transition into the white man's world is easy and they become members of the community and most of the time no longer Indians," he said.

The children asked the Apache about life on the reservations but found it hard to believe the bearded dark-eyed man in a sport shirt and slacks was a "real Indian."

"WHAT DOES a real Indian look like?" asked one child and seemed puzzled when Ochoa said "you're looking at one right now!"

"I'm an Indian too," said one little girl proudly as she explained her mother was a "Sioux," and several boys who are members of Y-Indian Guides told Ochoa their Indian names.

The students were surprised to learn some Indians still live in teepees and adobe houses. The trading post has been relaced by a general store but otherwise life is much the same as it was in the old days, said Ochoa.

"We share poverty or wealth as we always have and your Thanksgiving gift to our people will help us so much," said Ochoa.

THE SECOND grade teachers, Rita Jo Klabe, Charlene Green, Sue Lalleman, Marian Lemberger and Gail Poisson, organized a line of eager second grade boys to move the groceries for the waiting van.

"Happy Thanksgiving," called one little girl as the van pulled away. "Do you think you will ever be first class citizens?" she asked.

"We are now; but of 1924 not 1971," said La Ronge as he pulled away from the school yard.

Public Pressure Blocks Lancer Street Decision

Again this week, public pressure prevented Schaumburg officials from accepting the professional opinion of Village Engr. Joe Zgonina concerning acceptance of streets in units one through five of Lancer Park.

Zgonina has requested acceptance of the areas on several occasions during the past three months and testified they met village standards.

Each time, residents of the subdivision have openly protested and insist that flooding problems, cracked curbing and other inadequacies exist.

Tuesday, Joseph Doyle, of Laurette Court, told trustees that asphalt dams installed this fall have not prevented flood water from running up on lawns.

Doyle said he and other neighbors have had water on their doorsteps at least four or five times in the past three years.

HE ASKED the board to defer acceptance of the streets until improvements have been fully tested by a heavy rain.

The resident contends that the builder has been aware of problems but has made no effort to correct the situation until after his request for village acceptance.

Doyle's position was further enforced by Ed Olson, another Lancer Park homeowner, who commended the builder for the improvements made but suggested that "the whole job is not done yet."

Olson said that back-up water on Crandall Lane often enters a private garage because it cannot escape to a nearby branch of Salt Creek.

He noted that a trench dug to assist in correcting flooding has now overflowed and suggested that a holding pond had been created in the area.

OLSON REMINDED trustees that during a September meeting, prompted by serious flooding problems, it had been stressed that units would not be accepted until all problems were solved.

At that time the builder had agreed to remove construction equipment from Fennell Lane in the subdivision.

As of Tuesday morning, the area was still not entirely cleared, Olson said. He also detailed a number of other situations in which concrete plugged sewers, broken curbs and other problems exist.

Both Zgonina and Al Bircher, of Lancer Corp., denied that a holding pond was created but said that the residents refer to an area which almost always holds water.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher and trustees pointed out to Doyle and Olson that even if accepted, the village will hold a $55,000 escrow account for the next 18-months which is considered more than adequate to cover necessary repairs.

In addition, bonds covering Weathersfield Way and other subdivision units north of that area are not being released at this time.

THEY ALSO pointed out that perhaps residents would be in a better position to have corrections taken care of after village acceptance.

Thefts, Burglaries Reported

Burglaries, thefts and property damages with losses totalling $1,422 were reported to Schaumburg police early this week.

The theft of $300 in tires, wheels and wheel covers, and $300 in damage to the cars from which they were taken, were reported shortly after noon Tuesday by personnel at Woodfield Ford, Inc. 815 E. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

Burglaries were reported Tuesday in the home of Raymond Hagstrom, of Roselle Road north of Wise Road, and the garage of Robert Reed, 300 Cloverdale Ln.

Hagstrom told police a television, camera and .12-gauge shotgun, with a total value of $350, were taken from his home sometime between 6 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Entry was gained by pushing in the rear door of the house.

While there was no sign of forcible entry at Reed's garage, he told police a tool box and tools with a value of $250 were taken.

A purse snatching occurred at Woodfield Shopping Center at about 7:30 p.m. Monday, when two youths grabbed a purse with $97 in it from Pamela Wishney, of 310 Hillside Dr., Streamwood.

Donald Kestler, a carpenter, told police Monday a ladder and 25 pounds of nails were stolen from a store under construction at Woodfield. He valued them at $25.

Damage to a vacant home at 1400 Chatham Ln. was valued at $100 by T. I. Home Transfer Service of Chicago, the owner. Windows were broken and a bird bath in the rear yard was damaged.

Cub Scout Pack 394 Slates Food Drive

Cub Scout Pack 394 of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will begin working to brighten the Christmas season for the area's less fortunate families with a neighborhood food drive on Dec. 4.

The drive was announced by Cub Master Terence Wehreim. He said the food, along with a Christmas tree decorated with handmade ornaments will be given to needy families.

The Cub Souts will be donating their gifts in cooperation with the Schaumburg Women's Club's project "Baskets for the Needy."

said.

He had prepared rough sketches of what he felt the building should contain and made several other recommendations concerning extras such as the glazed brick wall tile.

These suggestions were made without knowledge of costs, some of which were definitely prohibitive, the chief said.

Actual building plans, from which specifications were drawn were prepared by Arthur M. Heda and Associates, a Chicago architectural firm.

The architects are subsidiaries of the Anderson firm chosen from among nine other companies interviewed by the police and fire committee last spring.

Although not confirmed, it is believed by sources close to the village board, that this architectural firm was chosen as part of the agreement for land donation.

Their fee will total 4.5 per cent of the total cost of construction and is considerably less than fees proposed by other architects interested in the project.

The Slezak contract provides for winter work in order to have the station operational as soon as possible.

Until that time, terms of a mutual aid pact signed with 16 other suburban communities assist in protecting the village.

Exemption Ruling To Be Felt Here

Because of a Chicago Circuit Court judge's ruling, most Schaumburg senior citizens paying real estate taxes next year will be out of luck by from $100 to $125

Judge Daniel Covelli last week issued an injunction barring homestead exemptions on 1972 real estate tax bills to be issued this spring. Covelli ruled the homestead provision, passed last spring by the Illinois General Assembly, is unconstitutional because it was approved under the former state constitution which was replaced by a new Illinois constitution in July. The provision applied to people 60 years of age or older.

Schaumburg Township Assessor Scott MacEachron yesterday estimated the reductions would have come to between $100 and $125 for most of the township's elderly property owners. The exemption is based on a $1,500 reduction in assessments.

MacEachron isn't sure how many Schaumburg residents are affected by the court ruling. He said about 100 senior citizens have come into the Schaumburg Township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd., to formally apply for the exemption.

"I suspect quite a few more are affected," the assessor said.

The legislators, apparently prepared for the court decision, included the exemption for senior citizens in 1973 under the new constitution. The 1973 tax bills will be based on 1972 assessments.

It is possible that the exemption could be barred in 1973 if, for instance, a disgruntled taxpayer should decide to test it.

MacEachron declined to comment on the possibility of this happening. He is awaiting a copy of Judge Covelli's ruling and, until he reads it, would rather not comment on its contents. Right now, he said, there is a "lack of information" concerning Covelli's action.

MacEachron said Schaumburg senior citizens desiring information on the matter are to contact the township offices. After he receives and understands the injunction's contents, MacEachron said he will be in touch with concerned residents and will explain the matter in detail.

Move Swim Pool: Board

If Emmerson Krug Jr. Moves his new swimming pool sidewise about two feet, he can keep it. That was the verdict delivered Tuesday night by the Schaumburg Village Board.

Two and a half months ago Klug had an elevated swimming pool put up on his property at 1227 W. Kingston Ln. The pool was set too close to his property line, in violation of village zoning ordinances, and also was installed without a building permit.

Appearing before the board, Krug said he had been under the impression the company which installed the pool had applied for a building permit. He had taken for granted that issuance of the permit indicated all other aspects of the installation were in conformity with village ordinances.

KRUG WAS TOLD it's the property owner's responsibility to assure that a building permit is taken out and displayed at the construction site. The board allowed Krug to keep his swimming pool providing he moves it to 4½ feet from his property-lines. He must also take out a building permit.

Acting on a recommendation by the village zoning board, the trustees allowed Krug a variance of six inches in the matter. Village zoning laws state all swimming pools must be a minimum of 5 feet from the property line. A new swimming pool ordinance is more stringent and requires all pools be 8 feet from the property-line.

The ordinance, however, just went into effect three weeks ago and wasn't applicable when the pool was originally installed. The village board consequently allowed the pool under the old ordinance.

Wines Topic Of Sorority Meeting

Wines and how they are best used is part of a program being held by the social committee of the Nu Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority Nov. 30 at 8 p.m.

Plan Little City Project

Indians are helping palefaces again, as they did before the first Thanksgiving.

But this time, the Indians also are palefaces, and the help is due for Christmas

The seven boys and six fathers of the Seneca Tribe of the Twinbrook YMCA Indian Guides are collecting gifts for older children living in Little City, Palatine, a community for handicapped youngsters.

The tribe itself is building a six-foot artificial Christmas tree to be placed in the Little City recreation hall. They are making ornaments for the tree from plywood. Joining the traditional shapes of bells, candles, trees and other Christmas ornaments will be teepees, totem poles and arrowheads.

Mothers and friends of the tribe members are baking 52 dozen Christmas cookies for the Little City children.

THE BOYS AND dads also are asking others in Schaumburg Township to join in their project Collection boxes have been set up in seven locations around the township. They are at the Jewel-Osco store in Hoffman Estates Plaza; Walgreen Drugs, Higgins Road; Snyder's Drugs, Golf Rose Plaza; Town Square Pharmacy, Town Square Plaza; the 7-Eleven Store, Golf Road; Lakeview School, 280 Lakeview Ln., Hoffman Estates and the Hermitage Trace rental office, Golf and Higgins roads.

The tribe checked with Little City officials to see what gifts are most needed. For boys, it was suggested the Senecas donate wallets, combs, hairbrushes and after-shave lotion. For girls, the request was for lipstick, nail polish, hairbrushes and mirrors. The center usually receives enough donations for small children, but the older ones are sometimes forgotten, the boys were told.

While the collection boxes will remain at all locations until Dec. 14, the boys and dads in the Senecas will make a special effort to get donations at the Jewel-Osco store. They will group at the stores Dec. 4 and 11 in costume, asking shoppers to help.

PERSONS WHO do make donations are asked not to wrap the gifts, but to leave them in the containers in which they were purchased, showing the gifts are new, and not castoffs.

Persons who wish to donate cash may do so, and the parents of Seneca members will purchase the recommended articles. Those who cannot leave gifts in the collection boxes also may request special pickup. Arrangements in either situation may be made by calling Mrs. Jess Augustine at 894-5543.

All donations are due by Dec. 14, when collection boxes will be emptied. The boys and their fathers will deliver the gifts Dec. 15.

Harza Proposes 3 Solutions To Basin Problems

Harza Engineering Company proposed three solutions to Wheeling's problems with a flood control basin, but Village Trustee Michael Valenza said he still thinks "This is going to go into litigation."

The trustee said that by the tone of a letter from Harza it was obvious the company had heard the village was considering a suit to solve the problems with the Heritage Park west basin without additional cost to the village.

Valenza said all of the solutions proposed by Harza "would cost lots of money."

The village board decided Monday not to act on the letter until after a Dec. 13 committee meeting with Harza representatives.

IN THE HARZA letter David Kleiner said the solutions to the problem are:

—To complete the flood control program by widening and dredging the Wheeling drainage ditch and building a new Jeffrey Avenue bridge without a center post to block the creek.

—To enlarge the basin for a lake area.

—To install a small pumping station to lower the water standing in the basin to the level for which it was designed.

Kleiner said that completing the total project would shorten the period in the spring when floods kill the grass around the basin. He said that solution would not eliminate completely the danger to the grass.

The Wheeling Park District has complained that the dry mud area between the water and grass makes the basin an eyesore.

KLEINER SAID that some killing of grass by high water "is inherent to the dual purpose of the facility; the retention pond is meant to retain storm water. When the water is retained the grass may be destroyed," he said.

In addition, "widening and deepening the Wheeling drainage ditch would also not correct the situation existing in summer when more grass is submerged than desired or acceptable," he said.

Excavating the lake area and eliminating the "mud flat" area which is subject to temporary flooding "would dispel objections to the inundation of the grass during dry periods," Kleiner said.

"But (it) would not improve the problem of high water levels in the basin in the spring when the ditch levels are generally higher," Kleiner said.

"The third solution would involve drawing the water level down by pumping. The installation would be small so it will not add significantly to the flooding problem downstream," he wrote.

THE PUMPING station could be designed to drain excess water from the basin within three days after a heavy storm. By using that alternative "except for short periods of time, the water level would be controlled within specific limits . . ." Kleiner said.

"Grass kill caused by flooding could only occur during the three-day period after heavy runoff" with the pumping station, he said.

Kleiner recommended the pumping station solution to the problem. It has been said the station would cost the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) approximately $70,000 and the village approximately $30,000.

Engineer Calls Flood Basin 98% Effective

Just how bad really is the problem with the Heritage Park West flood control basin in Wheeling?

In his report to the village board engineer D. E. Kleiner of Harza Engineering Co. told the village the problem is not so bad. The basin is currently 98 per cent effective, he said.

Kleiner said that water in the basin on Oct. 26 was standing only 2½ inches higher than planned.

In the spring he estimated the basin will be only 90 per cent effective because of the higher water levels, he said. That will mean the water will be standing a foot higher than anticipated, he said.

"Thus," he wrote in the report "as a storm water storage facility the basin is less effective than it will be when the entire village flood control project is completed."

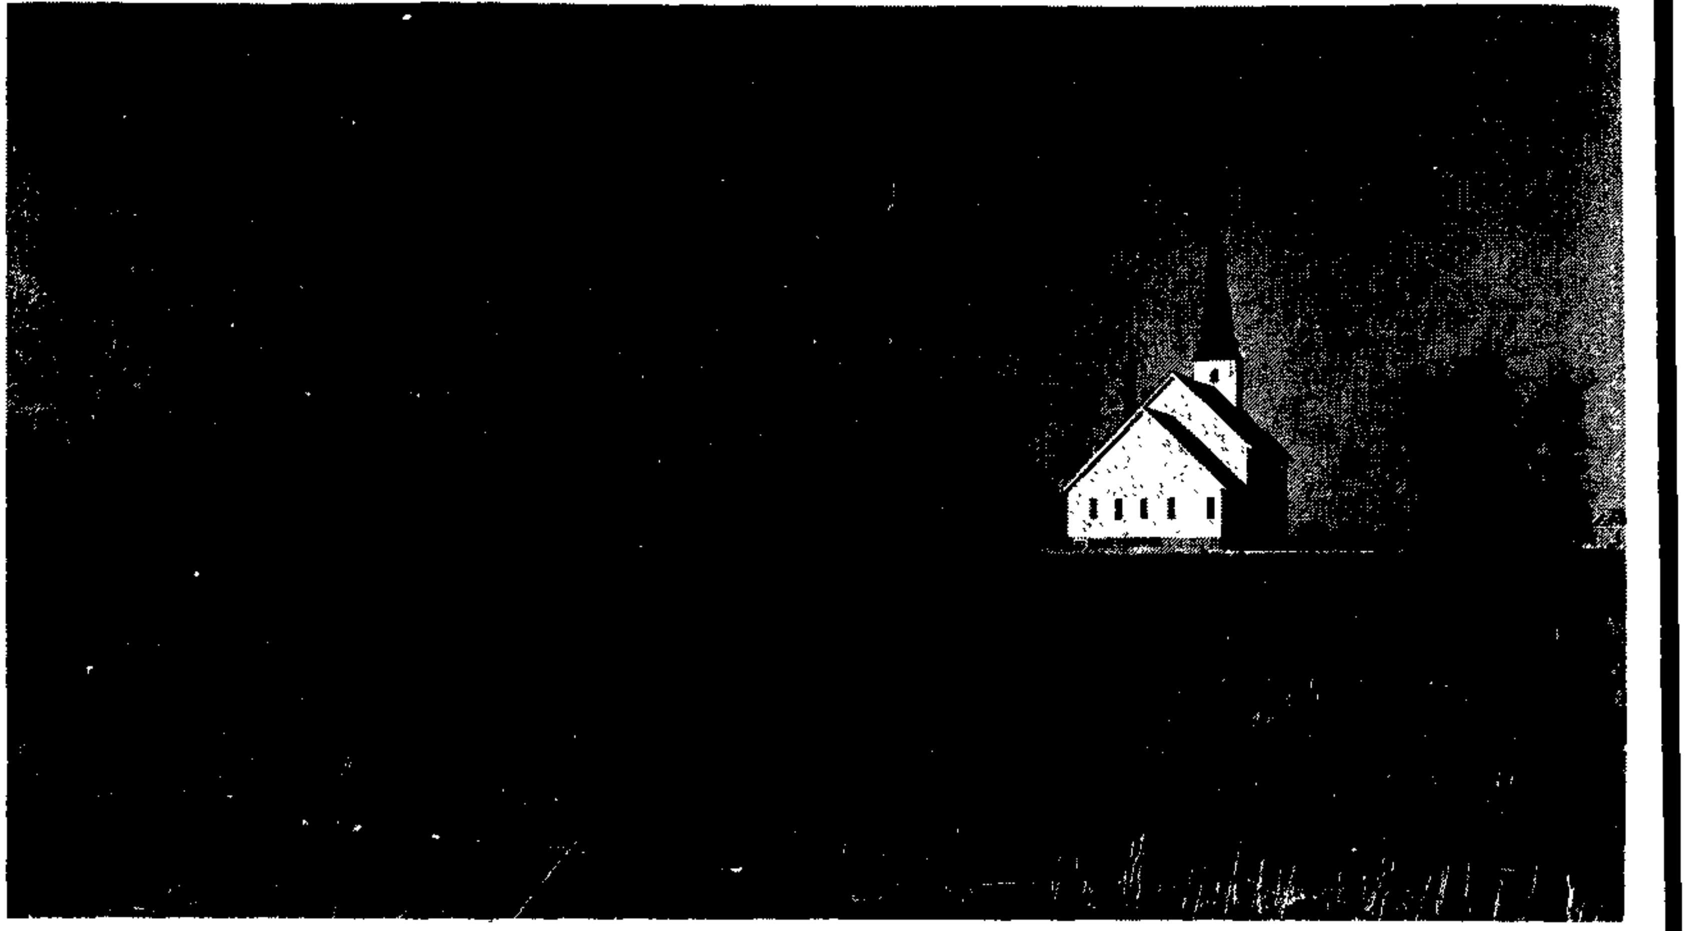
But Kleiner admitted that the higher water levels in spring have affected the use of the basin as a recreational facility by not allowing the grass to grow.

"And consequently the recreational and aesthetic value of the area are lessened," he said. In the summer the pond extends beyond the designed edge of the lake, he said, causing similar objections.

The causes of the problem, he said, include the fact that the flood control program has not been completed.

The high water levels in the creek keep the excess water in the basin, he said.

In periods of little rain a trickle of water from the creek continues to pass through the basin, he said. This keeps the level a few inches higher than it should be, Kleiner said.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK

A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Code Violations Noted At Carpenter Amvet Post

A list of building, fire and health code violations in the Phillip Carpenter Amvets Post building at 141 S. Milwaukee Ave. in Wheeling has kept the village from issuing business permits for the use of the building.

In addition, village officials have given the local organization deadlines of 30 and 60 days to complete work to bring the building up to required standards.

The violations include 18 building fire and building problems to be corrected in 30 days, another 19 building and fire code violations to be corrected in 60 days, and 24 health code violations, according to village administrative assistant Roger Stricker.

Stricker said that even though five people live in the upstairs portion of the building, the village cannot inspect that portion because it can only come into a building either when a business license is sought or at the request of the owner.

Major problems with the building, which the Amvets have been trying to see, include that a main support beam is cracked, and electrical and plumbing violations.

The village has been working to get the violations corrected since earlier this year, Stricker said. The deadlines give the village the option of taking the organization to court over the violations of village ordinances if the effort to correct the problems is not begun soon.

Village Director of Building and Zoning William Bieber told the village during a discussion of the building Monday, "we are looking for good intentions."

Wheeling Jail Rated Excellent

If you are going to end up in jail you could find worse than in the Wheeling Municipal building.

Village trustee Ronald Bruhn said this week that the village's lockup — two cells for men and one for women — rated excellent in all nine categories in a recent inspection by the Illinois Department of Corrections.

Bruhn read a comment by the inspector which said that Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher and his staff "are very professional and impress workers as being aware of the present situations in correction and detention facilities."

Candy Sale Slated

Members of Cub Scout Pack 47 will be selling candy door-to-door in the Wheeling area for the next two weeks. The sale begins tomorrow and ends Dec. 10.

The Chicago Board of Education will receive about $5.5 million in federal funds which could keep Chicago public schools open for an extra 12 days. They were to have been closed for the Christmas-New Year vacation, Rep. Roman Puchinski, D-Ill., said.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

Most of the nation is expected to have pleasant Thanksgiving weather.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	42	31
Buffalo	29	21
Denver	37	21
Los Angeles	70	50
Miami Beach	77	75
New Orleans	66	51
New York	36	26
Phoenix	70	42

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

What's Going On At School

Students in area schools have been participating in a variety of activities in recent days. Following are a few of them.

Special Thanksgiving programs highlighted the week in many schools, such as Joyce Kilmer School in Buffalo Grove. Kilmer first graders held an Indian powwow, with school administrators as their invited guests.

AT HENRY WADSWORTH Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove, second graders presented a Thanksgiving play, titled, "Let's Give Thanks." The students made their own costumes for the performance.

THIRD GRADERS at Eugene Field School in Wheeling held a turkey dinner at the school on the day before Thanksgiving. The dinner culminated a classroom lesson on life in colonial America. The turkey dinner was cooked by parents of the third graders. Special holiday music was provided by the music students in the school choir.

SEVEN STUDENTS at Eugene Field School in Wheeling were awarded tickets to the second concert of the 1971-72 season, sponsored by the Northwest Community Concert Association. Five of the tickets were provided by the Field PTA and two were donated by a Field teacher. The seven students receiving the tickets were Charlotte Mack, Jack Wood, Frank Wjada, Tammy Larson, Kevin Murphy, Donald Schwarz and Cheryl Mack.

FIFTH GRADER Eileen Anderson and sixth grader Kathy Garrett, students at Louisa May Alcott School in Buffalo Grove, were recently awarded tickets to a concert sponsored by the Northwest Community Concert Association. The students were chosen by the school staff on the basis of musical interest and school citizenship to receive the tickets.

SOCCER AND FOOTBALL intramural programs at Walt Whitman School in Wheeling concluded recently. In the boys' football contest, Pattison's Pros came in first with four wins and one tie. Second place was taken by Drewes's Devils. In the girls' soccer contest, a tie resulted between Stricker's Super Stars and Coleman's Crooks. Stricker's Super Snoopers came in second place.

FOURTH GRADE MUSIC students at Eugene Field School in Wheeling have made their own original instruments in a "creativity in music" classroom lesson. The students made a banjo, violin, accordian, flute, harp and other instruments from egg cartons, tacks, cardboard, wood, string and other common items.

VENTRILOQUIST Clifford Guest will be a special entertainer Tuesday at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling. Guest will perform at a special school assembly and will bring with him his dummy, Junior.

Aim: Good People On Commissions

"That's what we're aiming for, good people on commissions," Wheeling trustee Albert Lang said Monday in response to a letter from the Wheeling chapter of the Combined Counties Police Association.

The letter, signed by CCPA Chapter Pres. William Hoos asked for a "qualified nonpolitical" appointment to fill the vacancy on the commission which is responsible for hiring and firing policemen and firemen.

"We also hope to get a good man," Lang assurred the policemen.

The village board will hold interviews for the opening on that commission and for other commission vacancies next Monday.

Three new applicants whose names had not been listed along with the 15 other applicants for commission vacancies, include Marge Nelson who applied for the public relations or human relations commission, Hal Engle who applied for the environmental commission and Frank Bateman who applied for the public relations commission, Lang said.

The trustee said there are 18 applicants for seven vacancies which include one plan commission seat, one fire and police commission seat, three human relations commission seats, and two industrial commission seats. The board is not filling the environmental control commission yet because the enabling ordinance for that commission has not been passed, he said.

IN OTHER action Monday the board:

—directed the zoning board of appeals to hold public hearings on rezoning of property for an additional apartment building to be added to the Chalet Apartments project south of Hintz Road near Cornell Avenue.

—Opened competitive bids for new video recording equipment, automatic pistols and gunbelt sets for village policemen. (The board will award the contract to the company with the best bid at a later meeting).

—learned that the removal of dirt from the hill at Husky Park is going steadily and that the work will be completed soon.

—approved giving results of the two-year old village manager's survey of village residents to the village public relations commission for its use.

—directed the village attorney to begin preparing an ordinance allowing the use of plastic pipes in new developments either with the permission of the village engineer or a code variation granted by the village board.

The board also learned that the village has hired a new public works maintenance man with funds provided through a state program to help the unemployment situation, the Emergency Employment act of 1971. The new man, Steven Ranieri, a Vietnam veteran, was unemployed before he was selected for the Wheeling post, according to village administrative assistant Roger Stricker.

The board also said there may be some delay in enforcement of the new fire lane parking ban in local shopping centers because the village has to compile legal descriptions of the shopping centers before it can record the agreements. Under the agreements local police will ticket or tow away cars parked illegally in the fire lanes at the K Mart, Dunhurst Shopping Center or Wheeling Shopping Center.

THE BOARD ALSO enacted a new ordinance allowing use of barbed wire fences around public utilities such as village wells or electrical substations. Under the new law private companies may also use barbed wire to prevent vandalism with either the permisson of the director of building and zoning or a variation granted by the village board.

The board also awarded a contract for repairs to Well number five on McHenry Road to the Milaeger Well and Pump Co. of Milwaukee. The work will cost a base price of more than $3,000 with the village approving additional work once the pump is examined to determine what repairs it actually needs.

A final plat for subdividing property near Willis Avenue to allow construction of additional industrial buildings in the area also received board approval Monday.

A letter the village received from Mrs. James O. Mullins of 564 Audrey court, praised public works department maintenance men for the repairs to her parkway.

Theroux Wants To Be Tax 'Watchdog'

Wheeling Township Assessor Marshall Theroux told Wheeling village officials in a letter this week that he wants to perform "a local watchdog function" over tax assessments of all commercial, industrial and multiple-family property in the village.

In a letter thanking village officials for their cooperation in a recent effort to place the Whippletree village trailer park on the tax roles, Theroux said that checking on various new developments can assure legitimate assessments.

The village had sent him a list of all the new planned developments after Theroux revealed that the trailer park had managed to retain tax-free status for two years after it was sold by the Catholic church to a land trust.

In his letter Theroux said all but one of the new developments in the list the village sent him were already on the tax roles. The one development, Tahoe Village, is not listed because it is not under construction yet.

Theroux told the village that making sure the new developments are assessed legitimately "benefits all other taxpayers be equitable spreading the tax burden."

The assessor said that under an automatic procedure in Cook County offices most pieces of property should end up properly on the tax roles without special attention by the township assessor.

"But with 1.3 million parcels handled by the county, I will feel much more comfortable if we maintain a local 'watchdog' function and double check all commercial, industrial and multi-family zoning changes," the assessor wrote.

PART OF THE Buffalo Grove Jaycee's charm school for teenage girls in the village conducted this month was a fashion show at last Monday night's session.

Student Walkout Protests War

by KEN KOZAK

A group of Rolling Meadows High School students, estimated between 40 and 70, walked out of school Wednesday morning to take part in a moratorium against the war in Southeast Asia.

The students that hadn't returned to school by the end of the day ran the risk of suspension from school Monday morning, the first class day after the four-day Thanksgiving weekend, according to school principal Robert Hoese. All but about a half dozen had returned by Thursday afternoon, Hoese said.

The students walked out following the first period class, which ended at 9:40 a.m. Hoese said he saw the students leaving, followed by assistant principal Dick Schnell, who talked to some of the students outside the building.

ONE STUDENT said Schnell told them that if they didn't return to school by 11 a.m. they would be suspended. Hoese said Schnell told them they were leaving school without authorization and ran the risk of disciplinary action. Hoese said a number of students came back to school at that point, but the rest continued on toward the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex, where the moratorium was held.

Regarding disciplinary action, Hoese said those students who came back yesterday had to stay after school to make up the work they missed, plus some extra time. He said the extra time wasn't punishment detention.

"Any time you miss an hour with a teacher it takes more time to make up the work on your own," he said.

The students who didn't report back yesterday will be asked to come with their parents to conferences at the school between 9 a.m. and noon tomorrow, Hoese said.

He said the school would contact parents of the students.

THOSE THAT don't report Friday will be suspended Monday, and will have to report with their parents Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning before they will be readmitted to classes, he said.

The moratorium, organized by a politically oriented youth group called "Free," attracted about 40 people, all apparently students, to the sports complex. The gathering was uneventful and broke up in about 45 minutes.

Two Rolling Meadows police officers in an unmarked car observed the group from about 200 yards. The police left about 15 minutes after the moratorium began.

Hoese said he thought about 40 or 50 students walked out of classes, although he didn't count them. He said an official count was being made from the attendance lists for the second class period.

A student estimated that 70 freshmen, sophomores and juniors walked out.

Hoese said about half the students who walked out had returned by 11:30 a.m., but a student said she knew of only three that had gone back to school.

"I talked to a number of them who've come back," Hoese said, "and I told them we weren't against their moratorium. But I asked them why they didn't have it at 3 p.m. instead, or on Saturday or Sunday.

"THEY SAID they wouldn't get as much attention that way. I asked them how much attention they actually think they're going to get from President Nixon, and they agreed not much. I told them their complaint wasn't against the school and they agreed."

One student who walked out, however, said there were complaints against the school. Students say they've asked Hoese for a longer lunch period and a smoking area near the school.

Asked about these petitions, Hoese said, "As far as I'm concerned, they're dead. The same two or three kids are always coming up with petitions for an open campus, open study, longer lunch hours or a smoking area."

Hoese said he's never seen a petition with more than 30 signatures on it. There are 1,578 students at the school.

Hoese said the kids he's talked to so far "weren't bad to talk to. They thought this (the walkout) was the thing to do. They weren't rowdy, they didn't make any trouble."

He said the only disruption resulted when students who didn't walk out left their seats and classrooms to watch the others.

Police Capture Runaway Horse

Buffalo Grove Police helped capture a horse which escaped the Chevy Chase Country Club in Wheeling Saturday morning.

They spotted the horse which had a rope and a tire tied to its neck at Aptakisic Road and Ill. Rt. 83. The horseowner Ross Reed also helped with the capture.

Grove Days 'Cost' Revealed

The Buffalo Grove Village Board has received a final expense report for 1971 Buffalo Grove Days showing that the village has to contribute $1,456 to cover unpaid bills.

The report was presented to the trustees at last Monday's village board meeting by Robert Bogart and Norman Katz, Jaycee co-chairmen of the Buffalo Grove Days Committee.

The report showed that it cost $8,000 to stage the four-day Labor Day celebration. With other contributions the village's share of the bill comes to just under $1,500.

Bogart said that the $1,500 should not be considered a loss, but a "cost to the village" for Buffalo Grove Days.

To that he added, "I think it's (the $1,500) as well invested as anything you've got in your budget. It (Buffalo Grove Days) really brings the village together."

Bogart also pointed out that "in excess of 500 people" were involved in the project.

The Jaycees worked closely with the Buffalo Grove Days committee and offered to handle the event again next year.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong said he was "delighted" to accept the Jaycees offer to supervise the event next year.

Youth Found Dead In Car

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Township youth was found dead in a car parked in a garage in Long Grove Tuesday morning.

Lake County Sheriff's Police said that Wayne Dillavou of Hinsdale Road in Elk Grove Township, was apparently asphyxiated from carbon monoxide fumes.

Dillavou was found in a car in the garage of a friend's house at Rt. 2, Ill. Rte. 83, about 11:30, police said.

Local Speech Team Wins First Place

The Wheeling High School individual events speech team took first place in competition with 20 high schools in the Dist. 214 speech tournament last weekend in Wheeling. It was the first time Wheeling High placed first in an individual speech event.

The team won a first place trophy and a traveling trophy for compiling 186 points in the contest. Niles North High School was second with 134 points and DeKalb High School third with 124 points.

Six members of the Wheeling High individual events speech team won trophies in the contest.

Senior Liz Brol won a first place trophy in prose reading. Senior Mary Dieterich took second place in verse reading; sophomore Jan Egan, second place in dramatic interpretation; senior Lynn Yost, second place in humorous interpretation; and seniors Kathy Brennan and Bernie Schwartz, second place in duet acting.

The next tournament for the individual speech events team is Dec. 4 at Waukegan High School.

Board Weighs Water Detention Requirement

The Village of Buffalo Grove may require builders of all large developments to build water detention areas designed to prevent flooding during heavy rains.

The requirement is in the draft of an ordinance now being considered by the village board. Village Atty. Richard Raysa was instructed by the board Monday to put the draft, prepared by a village engineer, in final legal form.

The ordinance would require large developments to have on-site water detention areas large enough to keep the water runoff rate the same as the rate before construction.

In his draft of the ordinance, Arnold Seaberg, of the Hattis Associates, said the streams and storm sewers in the area do not have the capacity to "receive and convey the increased storm water runoff resulting from rapid urbanization occuring in the village and adjacent areas."

SEABERG SAID the ordinance is intended to "eliminate the excessive storm water runoff caused by the reduction or elimination of previous land surfaces through the construction of buildings, parking lots, streets, and other improvements to real estate," by providing water detention areas.

The ordinance is given teeth by a provision which states that "a building permit will not be issued unless the applicant provides on-site detention of storm water runoff or participates in the provision of a village approved regional detention facility."

The ordinance then lists the requirements for requiring an on-site dentention site and sets the water release rate for the facility.

Generally, the ordinance requires on-site detention for residental developments larger than five acres and for all non-residental developments over two acres.

According to Seaberg the ordinance is in "substantial conformance with the 'Mandatory Requirements of Storm Water Retention' as recently adopted by the Metropolitan Sanitary District."

He's A Relaxed Fireman

Bob Krause never wanted to be a fireman when he was a boy, but after three months on the job, he likes it better than the 13 years he spent behind a desk as a businessman.

Krause, a lieutenant, became the second full-time paid fireman with the Buffalo Grove Fire Department last September.

BOB KRAUSE

"It's more relaxing," Krause said as he sat in a chair in the fire station, petting "Smokey," the department's Dalmatian.

Krause said there is "less tension and aggravation" being a fireman than when he worked at a desk job with Rand McNally in Skokie.

He likes his new job because it gives him a chance to get out and around.

He also likes the relaxed atmosphere of the firehouse, but does admit things get tense when the department responds to a fire alarm.

"There are a lot of people out there to think about," he said.

Outside of answering fire and ambulance calls, things are pretty quiet at the station. Krause spends most of his time maintaining the fire fighting equipment. He also conducts tours for organizations like the Cub Scouts and Brownies.

"We average about one group a week," he said.

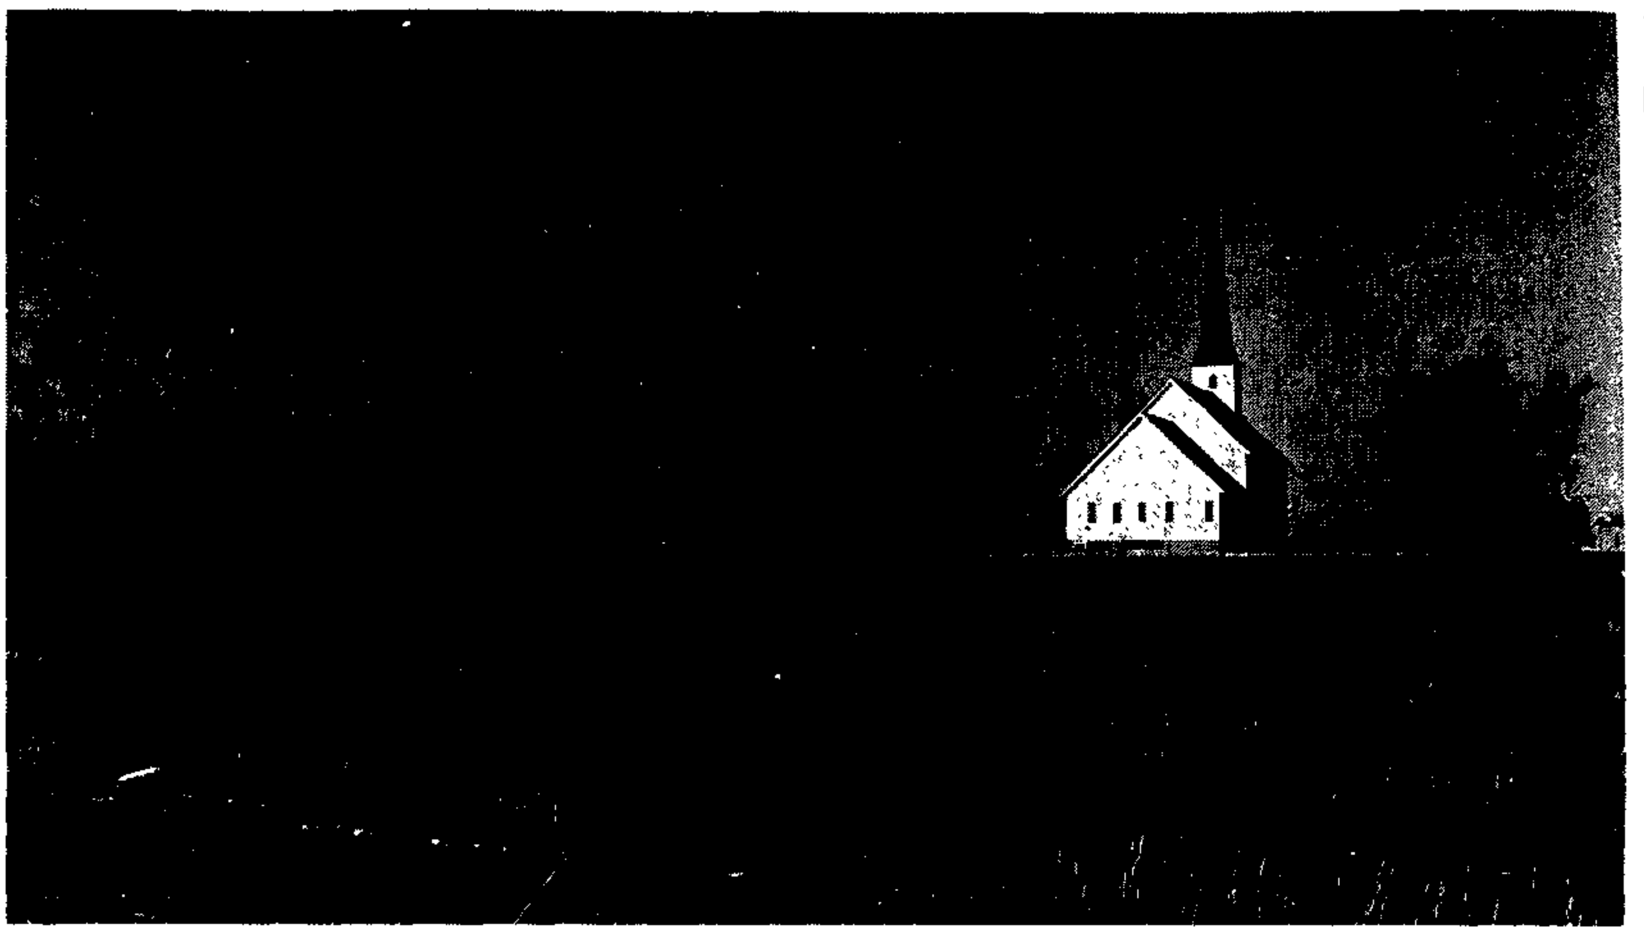
Krause works from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., the same hours as Fire Chief Wayne Winter. There are no men on duty at the station at night.

Krause, who has lived in the village nearly ten years, was one of the original members of the department when it was organized in 1964.

In his seven years with the department, Krause has received training in fire fighting through courses conducted by Cook County and the University of Illinois.

The department became operational in 1967 and used the Emmerich Park building as a fire station until the municipal building was finished in December, 1969.

"I just kind of grew up with the department," Krause mused.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK

A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Integration Ruling Effect Slight

State Supt. Michael Bakalis' order requiring integration in Illinois public schools should have little effect in Dist. 21, according to Supt. Kenneth Gill.

Gill said that very few students from minority groups live within the district's boundaries. Those that do are pretty evenly distributed throughout the district's 15 schools, he said.

All minority group students in the district attend the school whose boundary they are in, he added..

Gill said that he has not received a copy of the Bakalis guidelines, but that he doubts if they are "pertinent to us."

A few black students are enrolled in Dist. 21 schools Gill said.

"However, if we were asked to have an equal percentage of blacks at each of the schools, we wouldn't even have enough black students to send one to each of the 15 schools," he noted.

ABOUT 250-300 students of Mexican-American background are enrolled in Dist. 21 schools, Gill said. He said this is a very low percentage of the total enrollment, which is about 8,200 students.

These students do not reside in any one particular area of the district and therefore are not concentrated in one or two schools, but attend schools throughout Dist. 21.

A few students from American-Indian background are also enrolled in the district, Gill said.

A special program for children from families where the language spoken at home is not English is offered in Dist. 21 under Title I of the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The program is conducted at Nathaniel Hawthorne School in Wheeling this year for students attending that school. Last year the Title I program was offered at Walt Whitman School in Wheeling.

Gill said the program is not extensive and relatively few students are involved.

Gill said he does not feel that any school districts in the Northwest suburban area will be greatly affected by Bakalis' order.

"This is predominately a Caucasian area. It is kind of tragic that housing patterns are not more evenly distributed, but there's nothing we can do," he said.

Village Receives New Police Cars

The Buffalo Grove Police Department has received its fleet of four new 1972 Plymouth police cars.

Police Chief Harold Smith said the fleet cost $8,360 and will be put into operation in the beginning of December, when five new patrolmen join the force.

The Chicago Board of Education will receive about $5.5 million in federal funds which could keep Chicago public schools open for an extra 12 days. They were to have been closed for the Christmas-New Year vacation, Rep. Roman Puchinski, D-Ill., said.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

Most of the nation is expected to have pleasant Thanksgiving weather.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	42	31
Buffalo	29	21
Denver	37	21
Los Angeles	70	50
Miami Beach	77	75
New Orleans	66	51
New York	36	26
Phoenix	70	42
San Francisco	58	48

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

Court Hearings On Assessment Seen In 5 Weeks

Court hearings on the controversial West Colfax Street special assessment project are expected to start in about five weeks.

A special three-man commission formed to study the costs and financing of the $1.3 million road widening and sewer improvement project completed its report this week to be submitted to the court.

According to Kenneth Stonesifer, Palatine board of local improvements attorney, the hearings will take place before Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuty. He said a hearing date should be set for about five weeks following the filing of the commission report.

The commission, composed of Mayor Jack Moodie, Donald Diedrich and David George, recommended a breakdown of 70 per cent public benefit to 30 per cent special assessment of Colfax Street property owners to finance the project.

The 70-30 breakdown followed the recommondation of the Palatine Village Board made in June.

The three-man commission, appointed upon the recommendation of Moodie, checked out engineering reports, estimated costs for the project and the number of properties to be assessed.

OBJECTIONS OF property owners to the breakdown can be made at the hearing before Judge McGillicuty which will be held in Chicago's Civic Center. Based on testimony heard, the court would then make a decision on the spread of the assessment.

Notices of the hearing date will be sent to each of the 71 property owners along Colfax Street involved in the improvement project.

Representatives of the property owners had previously announced they would challenge a 70-30 breakdown at the court hearing. Several owners have said any assessment on the land would be illegal because they claim it would not improve their property to any great extent.

If the 70-30 breakdown is approved by the court, the 71 property owners would pay approximately $50 per front foot in special assessment.

Most of the assessees live or own property along the 4,758 foot stretch of Colfax between Smith and Quentin, which primarily contains light industrustrial development.

The project will involve the widening of Colfax from two to four lanes, the erection of 36 new street lights and the installation of storm sewers.

Village officials have said the project is necessary to accommodate heavier traffic anticipated along Colfax because of the new transportation center, U. S. post office, YMCA and Countryside apartments.

'Man In Red' To Arrive Saturday By Firetruck

Barely recovered from his Thanksgiving feast, Santa Claus will charge into Palatine Saturday via firetruck to officially open the Christmas season in town.

The "man in red" will arrive downtown at the municipal parking lot at Palatine Road and Brockway at 12:30 p.m. Saturday. His arrival will be heralded with the singing of Christmas carols by area Girl Scouts.

After passing out small gifts to children, he will head to the Palatine Plaza on Northwest Highway at 2 p.m. for a similar greeting. Santa's houses will be set up both downtown and at the Plaza for his stay in town.

Santa's location downtown will also be decorated with a 35-foot Christmas tree supplied by the village. Public works crews have been working during the week to get the tree up in time.

Besides the large tree, 20 other 10-foot trees will be installed downtown, at the Plaza and along Northwest Highway. These smaller trees will be put up by the Chamber of Commerce along with 60 poles of garlands and wreaths.

A SANTA'S mailbox will also be set up downtown by Palatine Jaycees for children to deposit their lists for gifts. This year, arrangements are also being made to set up a special Santa's phone for the more modern children who want to contact Santa directly.

The following dates have been set up for times when children can visit Santa. The first time represents hours for visits downtown and the second is at the Plaza:

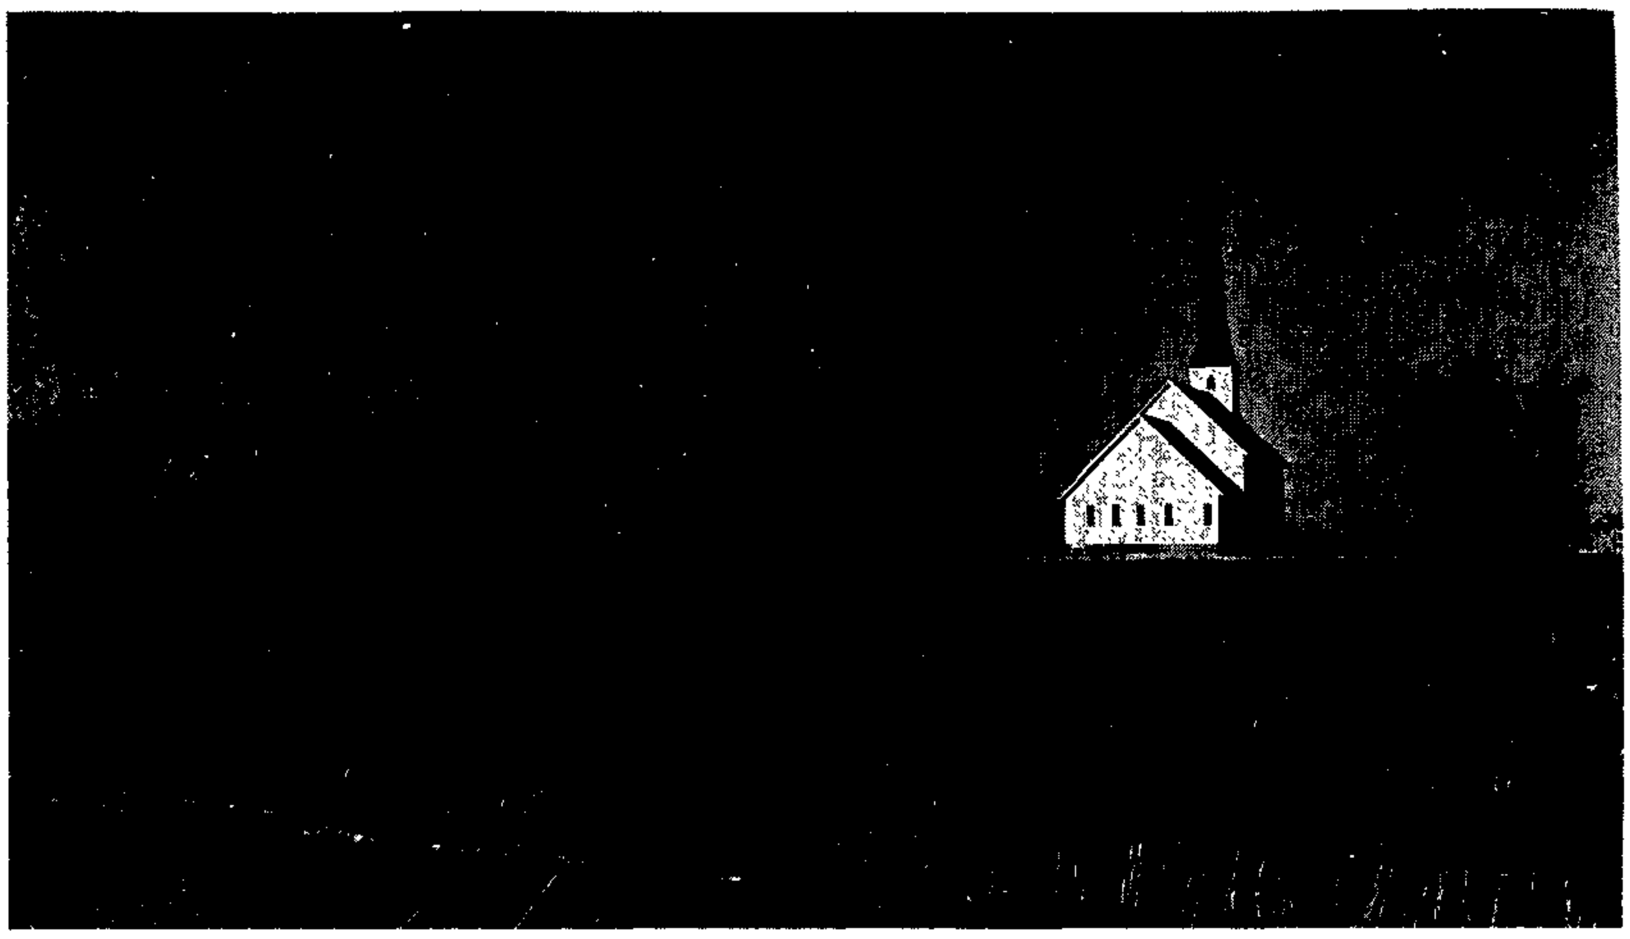
Dec. 4 — 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. downtown, noon to 2 p.m. at the Plaza;
Dec. 5 — 2 to 4 p.m. at the Plaza only;
Dec. 9 — 2 to 4 p.m. downtown, 6 to 8 p.m. at the Plaza;
Dec. 10 — 6 to 8 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Dec. 11 — 2 to 4 p.m. and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Dec. 12 — 2 to 4 p.m. at the Plaza only.
Dec. 16 — 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.
Dec. 17 — 6 to 8 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Dec. 18 — 2 to 4 p.m. and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Dec. 19 — 2 to 4 p.m. at the Plaza only.
Dec. 21 — 6 to 8 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Dec. 22 — 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.
Dec. 23 — 6 to 8 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Pastor From Crete To Conduct Service

The Rev. A. T. Kretzmann of Trinity Lutheran Church in Crete will conduct the divine worship service Sunday at Christ the King Evangelical Lutheran Church in Palatine.

In 1961, Mr. Kretzmann suspended fellowship with the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. In 1966, he and the Trinity congregation joined the fellowship of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod.

The local church is a mission congregation of the Wisconsin Synod. Worship services are held at 11 a.m. at the Palatine Savings and Loan Building, 100 W. Palatine Rd.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK
A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Campfire Girls Provide Food

Needy Can Give Thanks

Some 1,000 needy families in the Northwest suburban area may have themselves a happier Thanksgiving today because of the donations made by Palatine Campfire Girls.

A dozen large decorated boxes filled with canned goods and non-perishable food were presented Monday to a representative of the Northwest Opportunity Center for distribution on Thanksgiving to the area needy.

Almost 600 Campfire Girls, leaders and their parents jammed the gymnasium of Virginia Lake School Monday night for the presentation and for Thanksgiving skits, songs and Indian dancing. Thirty-one different Campfire Girl groups from Palatine participated in the program from all four levels of Horizon Club (high school), Discovery Club (junior high), Campfire Girls and Blue Birds.

Each girl presented her wrapped gift of food during a processional which were colected in several boxes. Gift certificates for purchase of meats and perishable items were also offered by each group from money donated by the girls.

FOLLOWING THE presentation, entertainment took over with the traditional candle lighting ceremony of the red, white and blue WOHELO candles, signifying work, health and love. Horizon Club members narrated the program, dressed in Indian ceremonial gowns.

Keeping to the Indian theme of Campfire girls, some groups performed Indian dances and others demonstrated the Campfire Law with Indian sign language and the drawing of Indian symbols on posters.

Each group also decorated the area with totem poles made of burlap covered cartons with Indian symbols and the names of their own group.

The Thanksgiving presentation was the first such activity area Campfire Girls have held. The food donation and presentation is one of the group's major service projects of the year, with about 300 girls from the 31 groups participating.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a board of inquiry to study the deadlocked Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike, the first step in a series of actions that could lead to a court-ordered 80-day return to work.

Library Career A Family Affair

by MARCIA KRAMER

Ida A. Bullen has come a long way from her 30-cent-an-hour job as a page in the University of Southwestern Louisiana library.

She was about 10 at the time and had just discovered libraries.

"The librarian in my high school was the type who would go around shushing people," Mrs. Bullen, now 47, recalled, "so I never liked the library much even though I enjoyed reading. But when I went to college and began working in the library to put myself through — we were still feeling the Depression in those days — I discovered what a good library is and what you can get out of it."

Even so, Mrs. Bullen didn't go into library work right away. She completed her degree in French, with a minor in Spanish, and taught high school in Welsh, La., for 3½ years. As a youngster, she had dreamed of becoming a schoolteacher.

BUT FROM THE time she went back to school in 1949 for a master's degree— somewhat unwillingly, she admits now, but her foster parents suggested it — her life has revolved around libraries.

The personal aspect of her life also is entwined in library work. It was in graduate school at Emory College in Atlanta where Miss Ida Andrus met Robert Bullen, a librarian from Vicksburg, Miss., and they were married within a year and a half.

From that point Mrs. Bullen says, her career has pretty much followed her husband's — from jobs in Atlanta to Starkville, Miss. to Charleston, W.Va., and back south to Marietta, Ga.

"There's nothing like dealing with really rural peole," Mrs. Bullen says. In working with a mobile book unit through two counties in Georgia "we could always stop and eat lunch with somebody or pick up a jar of peach preserves. I still have a dog I got from some rural people 19 years ago."

The Bullens and their two children settled in Palatine 2½ years ago when Mrs. Bullen's husband accepted a position as administrative services librarian for the North Suburban Library System, which is based in Morton Grove.

MRS. BULLEN BECAME director of the Palatine Public Library. She will leave that post next Wednesday to be general consulting and resources librarian in the DuPage library system in Wheaton.

Mrs. Bullen insists there's no jealousy between herself and her husband despite their being in the same profession.

"We're too busy and too tired for that kind of thing," she said. "Besides, my husband is too good at what he does." She chuckled. "He thinks I'm dumb. I'm not a threat to him."

Mrs. Bullen's record at the Palatine library hardly supports a characterization as dumb.

In her 2½ years here, the library has initiated art and 8 milimeter film lending services, as well as an adult film program and local artist exhibit each month.

Some of these ideas were included in a League of Women Voters study of the library shortly before Mrs. Bullen assumed directorship, and she maintains that more has to be done.

"I'M FIRMLY CONVINCED that Palatine needs some kind of bookmobile," she said. "I think we have to take the library to the people."

A cooperative bookmobile with other communities, such as Arlington Heights, is in the "talking stage," Mrs. Bullen added.

Setting up branch libraries in local schools also is being researched, and a lending program of paperback books printed in Spanish which would be based at the Santa Teresita Church, 35 W. Wood st., is on the verge of being initiated.

Other possibly worthwhile programs are hindered by the size of the Palatine library, Mrs. Bullen contends.

These include inviting guest lecturers, setting up adult education courses which would meet in and use the resources of the Palatine library and even offering a ceramics course.

But even that could be a minor improvement — designating one room for silence and allowing a reasonable amount of noise in the rest of the library — is not possible in the present building because of its size, Mrs. Bullen indicated.

Talking is permitted, she said, but it does disturb persons who prefer silence in the library — a "stereotyped image" that Mrs. Bullen feels should be eased to draw more people into the library.

"We don't want people to feel as though they're in a church," she explained.

Mrs. Bullen's reading, mostly fiction, is limited to from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. daily. She also keeps up with library administration journals, though admits she "long ago lost my touch with reference materials." She says she can't estimate the number of books she's read.

Mrs. Bullen has nothing but praise for her co-workers. "I think this is probably the finest library staff I have ever worked with," she said. "I mean it; I'm not just saying this because I'm leaving."

Mrs. Donna Grove, head of technical services and Mrs. Alma L. Mehn, children's librarian, will share Mrs. Bullen's duties until a new director is hired.

Mrs. Bullen says she took the DuPage job because it represents a challenge. The 21 libraries in that system "don't have as big a collection of materials as most Northwest suburban libraries," she remarked.

Incidentally, Mrs. Bullen indicated her salary will remain in the $15,000 range. That's about 25 times what she would have been earning in the University of Southwestern Louisiana library if she had been a full-time employe.

MRS. IDA A. BULLEN takes time out from her regular chores to read a story to a youngster in the Palatine Library. About half of the books checked out of the library are by children. This photo was taken shortly after Mrs. Bullen became director of the library. She'll be leaving next week.

Student Walkout Protests War

by KEN KOZAK

A group of Rolling Meadows High School students, estimated between 40 and 70, walked out of school Wednesday morning to take part in a moratorium against the war in Southeast Asia.

The students that hadn't returned to school by the end of the day ran the risk of suspension from school Monday morning, the first class day after the four-day Thanksgiving weekend, according to school principal Robert Hoese. All but about a half dozen had returned by Thursday afternoon, Hoese said.

The students walked out following the first period class, which ended at 9:40 a.m. Hoese said he saw the students leaving, followed by assistant principal Dick Schnell, who talked to some of the students outside the building.

ONE STUDENT said Schnell told them that if they didn't return to school by 11 a.m. they would be suspended. Hoese said Schnell told them they were leaving school without authorization and ran the risk of disciplinary action. Hoese said a number of students came back to school at that point, but the rest continued on toward the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex, where the moratorium was held.

Regarding disciplinary action, Hoese said those students who came back yesterday had to stay after school to make up the work they missed, plus some extra time. He said the extra time wasn't punishment detention.

"Any time you miss an hour with a teacher it takes more time to make up the work on your own," he said.

The students who didn't report back yesterday will be asked to come with their parents to conferences at the school between 9 a.m. and noon tomorrow, Hoese said.

He said the school would contact parents of the students.

THOSE THAT don't report Friday will be suspended Monday, and will have to report with their parents Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning before they will be readmitted to classes, he said.

The moratorium, organized by a politically oriented youth group called "Free," attracted about 40 people, all apparently students, to the sports complex. The gathering was uneventful and broke up in about 45 minutes.

Two Rolling Meadows police officers in an unmarked car observed the group from about 200 yards. The police left about 15 minutes after the moratorium began.

Hoese said he thought about 40 or 50 students walked out of classes, although he didn't count them. He said an official count was being made from the attendance lists for the second class period.

A student estimated that 70 freshmen, sophomores and juniors walked out.

Hoese said about half the students who walked out had returned by 11:30 a.m., but a student said she knew of only three that had gone back to school.

"I talked to a number of them who've come back," Hoese said, "and I told them we weren't against their moratorium. But I asked them why they didn't have it at 3 p.m. instead, or on Saturday or Sunday.

"THEY SAID they wouldn't get as much attention that way. I asked them how much attention they actually think they're going to get from President Nixon, and they agreed not much. I told them their complaint wasn't against the school and they agreed."

One student who walked out, however, said there were complaints against the school. Students say they've asked Hoese for a longer lunch period and a smoking area near the school.

Asked about these petitions, Hoese said, "As far as I'm concerned, they're dead. The same two or three kids are always coming up with petitions for an open campus, open study, longer lunch hours or a smoking area."

Hoese said he's never seen a petition with more than 30 signatures on it. There are 1,578 students at the school.

Hoese said the kids he's talked to so far "weren't bad to talk to. They thought this (the walkout) was the thing to do. They weren't rowdy, they didn't make any trouble."

REMAINING ACTIVE IN skating since her days as an 18-year-old player for the Chicago Roller Derby club, Mrs. Jeanette Knight has opened Knight's Palace, a roller rink on Palatine Road in Arlington Heights, and is a skating instructor for more than 200 girls from Dist. 214 high schools.

Have To Be A Stunt Woman

Former Roller Derby Star

by DOUG RAY

Four months of roller derby skating were enough for Mrs. Jeanette Knight.

She entered her first game at the Chicago Coliseum, got an elbow from the captain of the opposing women's team, sailed over the railing, cracked three ribs and never skated professionally again.

"In the early 50s it (roller derby) used to be rough and tough, believe me," she said "In the old days, the girls used to waylay for you," she testified.

Mrs. Knight, then Jean Esposito, was reared on the South Side of Chicago "were roller derby was really big." It was in the days of a 10-team league which performed to capacity crowds throughout the United States.

She tried out at 16, but was too young. "They said I had potential, but you had to be 18 years old to join."

After two years of practice and a three-month stint on the Chicago Roller Derby farm team, she joined the parent club.

"You have to be a stunt woman," said the brunette Mrs. Knight of the roller derby games, which are highlighted by frequent fighting and physical contact.

"Winning was the important thing, rather than the show," she said. "Roller derby was for real in those days."

Mrs. Knight received skating instruction as a teenager from Ma and Billy Bohas, pioneers of the Chicago Roller Derby. Billy was the captain and his mother was a standardbearer of the sport.

"They tried to teach me how to take the rail so I wouldn't get hurt," she laughed. "There is a special way to fall and a way not to fall."

After the rib injury, Mrs. Knight, now a mother of four children, said the Chicago team went on the road. "I went to college, lost interest and got married," she said.

However, she continued to skate whenever possible and she believes the "life of skating" propelled her into a roller skating business venture in Arlington Heights.

Three months ago, she opened Knights Palace, a roller rink at 1307 E. Palatine Rd. The location is "handy" as she lives across the street in the Ivy Hill subdivision.

The rink is open seven days a week with special skating programs for teenagers, couples and even housewives. And Dist. 214 high schools bus girl students to the rink as part of the schools' physical education programs.

The students pay $7.50 for a three-week program, and Mrs. Knight says "it's the best exercise you can get. I've lost 15 pounds since I started skating regularly and my muscles are toned now," she said.

"The students begin with the stages of learning, how to tie a shoe and what the toe stop is used for. Then there are classes on backward skating and couple skating," she said. A total of 213 high school girls are enrolled in the classes.

"We have supervision of the rink and a set of rules that have to be followed," she said. A dress code prohibits wearing blue jeans, short-shorts and T-shirts. The rules prohibit roughousing, vulgarity and liquor.

"We had a motorcycle gang who tried to get in here the other day," she said "They were dirty and smelled of liquor. I told them they would be a health hazard to the other people inside and if they would go home and wash their clothing, they could come in," she said.

"I have a nice, clean place and intend to keep it that way." And by the tone of her voice, the former pro-skater, who was toughened by the physically-demanding sport, means it.

77 Racing Days At Arlington Park

by KURT BAER

Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE) walked away from the Illinois Racing Board Wednesday with 77 days of racing next year at Arlington Park Race Track, 43 fewer days than it had requested

Opening day at Arlington Park will be May 31 with the horses running through Aug. 28. Last year there were 110 racing days at Arlington.

CTE also lost its bid to open the Illinois thoroughbred season next year at Arlington Park. The Sun-Times, Daily News charity meeting which kicks off the 1972 schedule on April 15 will be run at Hawthorne Race Track in Chicago

CTE Pres. Jack Loome had no comment yesterday on the board's decision.

As expected, the racing board transferred CTE's Washington Park dates to the Arlington track But it granted only 26 of the 60 dates CTE had requested in the Washington Park application

CTE'S ARLINGTON Jockey Club division was awarded 45 days out of the 60 it had requested. An additional six days running of the Chicago Tribune charities from July 22 to July 28 accounts for the total 77-day racing season.

In awarding days to the state's 21 racing associations, Racing Board Chmn. Alexander MacArthur said he would continue his investigation into association stockholder lists.

"During these hearings, we flushed out quite a few mother hens which had been squatting on some strange eggs," MacArthur said. "By strange eggs I mean not of the species."

MacArthur reminded the leaders of Illinois horse racing who were gathered in Chicago that although the law required the awarding of dates on or before Nov. 30, the board did not have to grant racing licenses until 30 days before the scheduled opening of a meeting.

Although the racing season at Arlington Park will be 33 days shorter than last year, CTE was actually awarded the same number of dates as in 1971.

The difference stems from 33 days which last year were granted to the Balmoral Jockey Club which held its meeting at Arlington Park. This year, the Balmoral Club will run those same 33 days at Sportsman's Park in Chicago

MacARTHUR SAID the principal criterion used in deciding the dates was the amount of revenue generated for the state at various tracks

Last week, Illinois Atty. General William J Scott announced plans to file suit against CTE for over $4 million in alleged back taxes.

The suit was filed because of CTE's practice in past years of totaling the wagering during its Arlington and Washington Park divisions as two separate meetings even though both were run back-to-back at Arlington Park.

By counting the betting separately, Scott charged CTE had avoided higher tax brackets which would have netted the state an additional $4 million.

Other thoroughbred associations in the Chicago area were awarded dates as follows:

Hawthorne Park, 39 days, April 15 to May 30; National Jockey Club Inc. 38 days at Sportsman's Park, Aug 29 to Oct. 11; Balmoral Jockey Club, 33 days at Sportsman's, Oct. 12 to Nov. 11.

State law allows for a maximum of 187 days of thoroughbred racing in the Chicago area.

MRS. JEANETTE KNIGHT was a member of the Chicago Roller Derby team during the "rough and tumble" days of professional skating. Her first injury on the rink proved to be her last as she retired after four months with the roller derby club.

Ecology Day Helpers Get Checks From City

Seven Rolling Meadows youth groups have received checks from the city council for their help on the city's Ecology Days

The checks were presented at the city council meeting Tuesday The money came from the sale to reclamation plants of recyclable waste collected on the Ecology Days.

All the groups received equal shares of $66.55 for their organizations, except two Boy Scout troops which split one share.

Youth Found Dead In Car

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Township youth was found dead in a car parked in a garage in Long Grove Tuesday morning.

Lake County Sheriff's Police said that Wayne Dillavou of Hinsdale Road in Elk Grove Township, was apparently asphyxiated from carbon monoxide fumes.

Dillavou was found in a car in the garage of a friend's house at Rt. 2, Ill. Rte. 83, about 11:30, police said.

Atcher Declines To Run For County Clerk Post

Mayor Robert O Atcher late Tuesday revealed plans to decline a top level invitation to seek the GOP ballot position for Cook County Circuit Court Clerk

"When I received a phone call from Joe Tecson, my good friend from Riverside, asking that I be a candidate for this office. I told him I would have to talk to some people — those that elected me to the job I hold here in Schaumburg," Atcher said.

Tecson is chairman of the GOP slatemakers committee now holding Chicago interviews for prospective candidates for state and county offices.

"Last April, some said I was not qualified to hold the office of mayor, but yet, the Republican State Central Committee considers me qualified for a responsible county office

"WHEN THAT sinks into Mr. Totten (GOP Committeeman Donald L. Totten), I'll tell the slatemakers I appreciate their consideration and decline," asserted Atcher

Totten said he was not aware of the invitation extended to Atcher until Tuesday, adding he would not be interested in sponsoring him.

Totten said he expected the reason for the invitation was that Atcher ran a good campaign last time.

Tecson backed up Totten

"Totten, or any other committeeman, would have to sponsor a candidate. Absence of sponsorship of a committeeman would leave very little chance of being slated," he said. "That's his (Totten's) job."

"As chairman of the slatemaking committee it's my duty to call hundreds of people," he said, adding, the calls are made on the theory the more interest stimulated among individuals, the greater the chance of ending up with a topnotch candidate.

"With that background I called Bob Atcher, who is a fine person," Tecson said.

Rolling Meadows Student Walkout Protests War

by KEN KOZAK

A group of Rolling Meadows High School students, estimated between 40 and 70, walked out of school Wednesday morning to take part in a moratorium against the war in Southeast Asia.

The students that hadn't returned to school by the end of the day ran the risk of suspension from school Monday morning, the first class day after the four-day Thanksgiving weekend, according to school principal Robert Hoese. All but about a half dozen had returned by Thursday afternoon, Hoese said.

The students walked out following the first period class, which ended at 9:40 a.m. Hoese said he saw the students leaving, followed by assistant principal Dick Schnell, who talked to some of the students outside the building.

ONE STUDENT said Schnell told them that if they didn't return to school by 11 a.m. they would be suspended. Hoese said Schnell told them they were leaving school without authorization and ran the risk of disciplinary action. Hoese said a number of students came back to school at that point, but the rest continued on toward the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex, where the moratorium was held.

Regarding disciplinary action, Hoese said those students who came back yesterday had to stay after school to make up the work they missed, plus some extra time. He said the extra time wasn't punishment detention.

"Any time you miss an hour with a teacher it takes more time to make up the work on your own," he said.

The students who didn't report back yesterday will be asked to come with their parents to conferences at the school between 9 a.m. and noon tomorrow, Hoese said.

He said the school would contact parents of the students.

THOSE THAT don't report Friday will be suspended Monday, and will have to report with their parents Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning before they will be readmitted to classes, he said.

The moratorium, organized by a politically oriented youth group called "Free," attracted about 40 people, all apparently students, to the sports complex. The gathering was uneventful and broke up in about 45 minutes.

Two Rolling Meadows police officers in an unmarked car observed the group from about 200 yards. The police left about 15 minutes after the moratorium began.

Hoese said he thought about 40 or 50 students walked out of classes, although he didn't count them. He said an official count was being made from the attendance lists for the second class period.

A student estimated that 70 freshmen, sophomores and juniors walked out.

Hoese said about half the students who walked out had returned by 11:30 a.m., but a student said she knew of only three that had gone back to school.

"I talked to a number of them who've come back," Hoese said, "and I told them we weren't against their moratorium. But I asked them why they didn't have it at 3 p.m. instead, or on Saturday or Sunday.

"THEY SAID they wouldn't get as much attention that way. I asked them how much attention they actually think they're going to get from President Nixon, and they agreed not much. I told them their complaint wasn't against the school and they agreed."

One student who walked out, however, said there were complaints against the school. Students say they've asked Hoese for a longer lunch period and a smoking area near the school.

Asked about these petitions, Hoese said, "As far as I'm concerned, they're dead. The same two or three kids are always coming up with petitions for an open campus, open study, longer lunch hours or a smoking area."

Hoese said he's never seen a petition with more than 30 signatures on it. There are 1,578 students at the school.

Hoese said the kids he's talked to so far "weren't bad to talk to. They thought this (the walkout) was the thing to do. They weren't rowdy, they didn't make any trouble."

He said the only disruption resulted when students who didn't walk out left their seats and classrooms to watch the others.

Registration Open For Ballet Classes

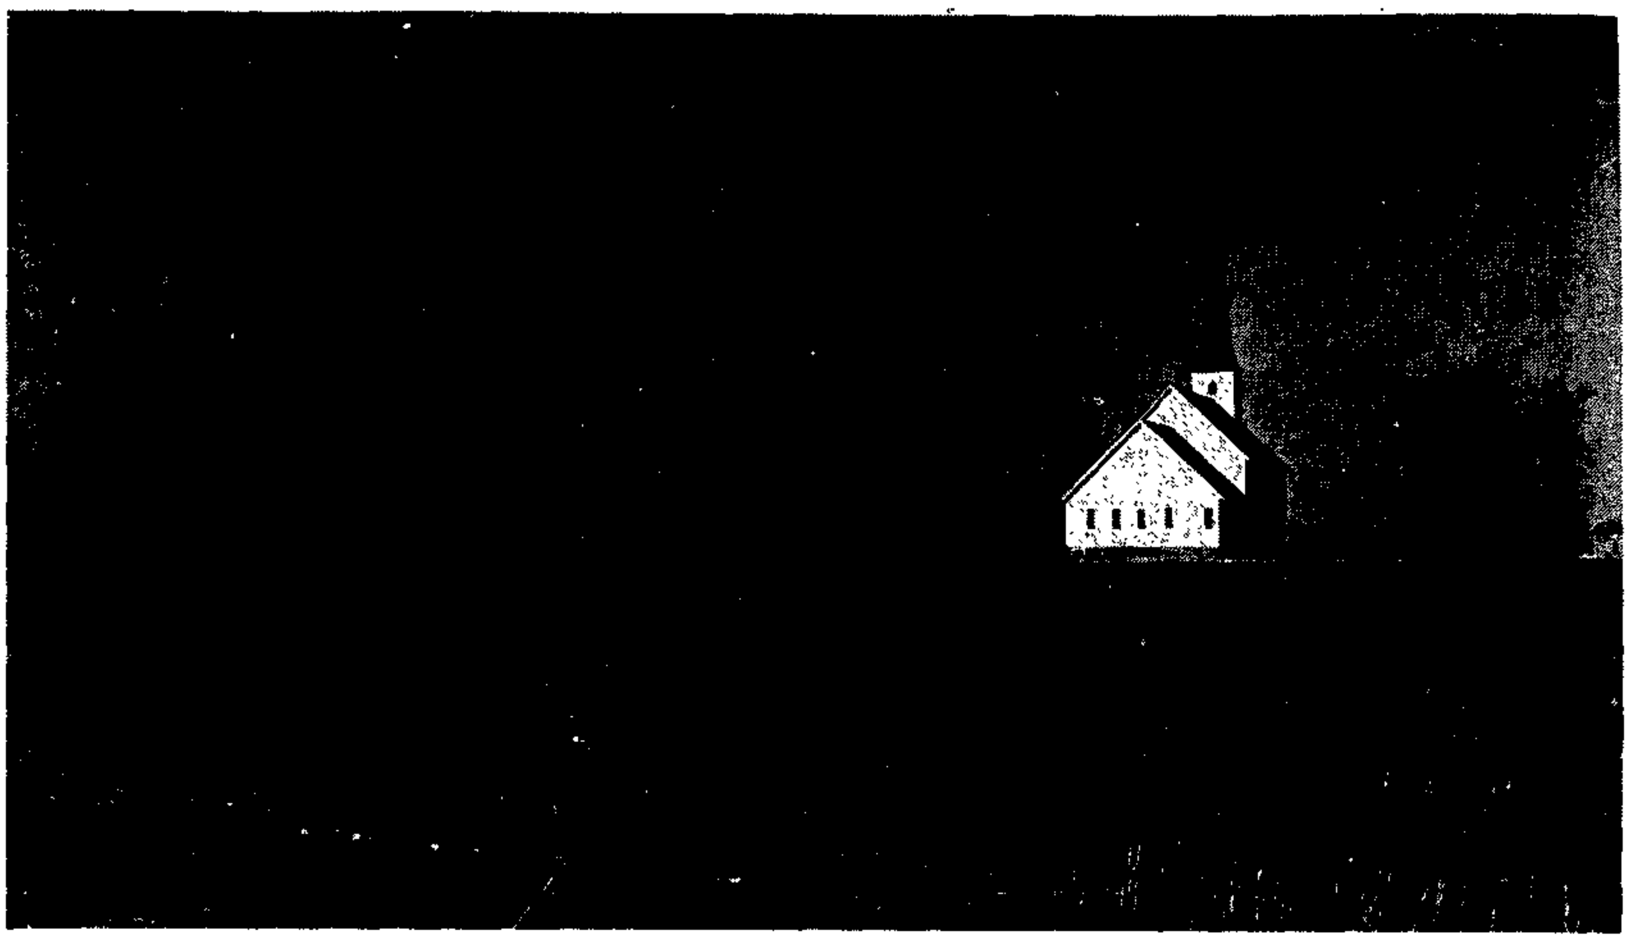
Registrations may now be made for the Rolling Meadows Park District ballet classes.

A class for preschoolers (three to five years old) will start on Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 4 p.m. The fee for this class is $4.

Two classes are being offered to girls in first grade and up. The beginner ballet class will start on Monday, Dec. 6 at 3:45 p.m. and the intermediate class will start the same day at 4:45 p.m. The fee for these classes is $5.

All of the ballet classes are an hour long and will be held at Kimball Hill School.

Registration may be made at the Park District Office, 1 Park Meadow Pl. For further information call 392-4384.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK
A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Program Will Battle Tipsy Driving

(Last of two parts.)

Since the beginning of this century, about the time the automobile was perfected, about 1,700,000 people have been killed in traffic accidents.

Last year, 56,000 were killed on the highways. Nearly half of the fatal accidents involved at least one driver who had been drinking. The toll in property damage, as well as lives, has been staggering.

But a repair job and increased insurance premiums are the least worries of someone convicted of drunken driving.

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case said that, on a national average, the cost in fines of a drunk driving arrest — with no injuries or accident involved — is about $1,000, including court costs and legal counsel.

Invariably, he said, a drunk driving conviction carries with it suspension or revocation of the driver's license, which to cost and conviction adds the inconvenience of being unable to drive legally.

Case said he feels a great deterrent to drunken driving will be the new Alcohol Traffice Safety Program, a federally funded project.

THE U. S. Department of Transportation National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has set up nine pilot programs throughout the country using new equipment and new programs aimed at reducing accidents caused by drunk driving.

The new program provides specially trained traffic units, working with local police departments, to concentrate on identifying and apprehending drunken drivers.

A newly developed TV camera allows the police to photograph, day or night, a suspected drunk driver. If the police stop the suspect, every move the driver makes when he gets out of the car is recorded on video tape.

If the police feel the driver should be taken to the police station, the filming continues all the way to headquarters and through a series of simple physical tests.

Case said the Rolling Meadows police department has video tape equipment and men trained to use it. And, he said such evidence has been ruled admissable in court.

OTHER PROGRAMS, Case said, are designed to prevent a recurrence of offenses among convicted drunk drivers.

In Phoenix and Philadelphia, convicted drunk drivers, in addition to paying a fine, must attend a series of four weekly classes. Class members must write accounts of their individual cases and discuss them in group sessions.

Since 1966, about 2,000 convicted in Phoenix have attended these classes. Less than a dozen have been arrested on a second drunk driving charge, the chief said.

The Chicago Board of Education will receive about $5.5 million in federal funds which could keep Chicago public schools open for an extra 12 days. They were to have been closed for the Christmas-New Year vacation, Rep. Roman Puchinski, D-Ill., said.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

Most of the nation is expected to have pleasant Thanksgiving weather.

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	42	31
Buffalo	29	21
Denver	37	21
Los Angeles	70	50
Miami Beach	77	75
New Orleans	66	51
New York	36	26
Phoenix	70	42
San Francisco	58	48

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

Postcards Can Be Deceiving

by JOANN VAN WYE

Picture postcards can be deceiving, as Roberto Pachon, an exchange student from Bogota, Colombia, has learned.

Prior to coming to the United States and the Chicago area in particular, Roberto had envisioned an America of tall buildings and blue skys.

But it wasn't the case, he soon discovered. While the tall buildings are definitely here, on most days the sky is anything but blue.

Roberto's expectations were based on postcards he had seen. Roberto explained his real family in Bogota had been the host family for an exchange student from Oak Park, and she had brought pictures of Chicago and told his family all about it.

Roberto says he still thinks Chicago is a nice city but kiddingly adds, "I thought it would be prettier — the postcards were blue."

Roberto's trip is being sponsored by Rotary International. He has been staying with the Lyndle L. Stone family of 3406 Plum Grove Rd. and attending Rolling Meadows High School since the beginning of November. He will be returning to Colombia at the end of December.

ASKED WHAT impressed him most about the United States, Roberto said, "the people."

"I like the people best. They are different than the people in South America. Of course, I like the people in South America too," Roberto quickly added. "The people are very different. Here they are very direct but in South America people don't talk as openly."

Roberto cited the fast pace of life here as another difference. "Everyone here is all the time running around. They have to be doing something every minute. Down there (Columbia), people take their time."

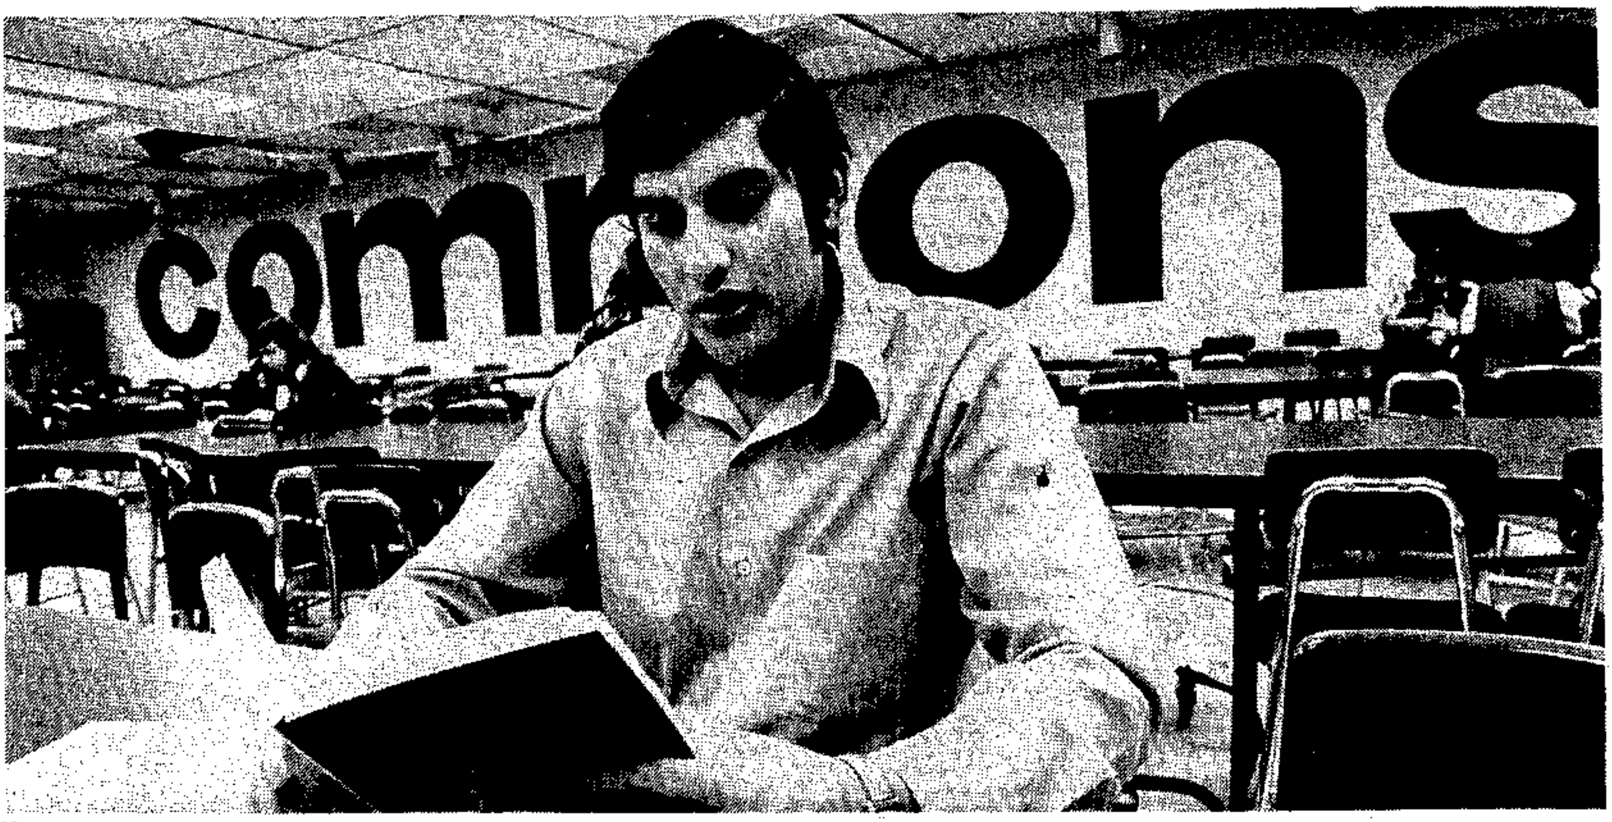
Asked which he preferred, Roberto said, "I guess I go for the slow life."

Questioned about what he thought of dating in the United States Roberto started laughing and said, "I bet you think we have chaperones." He explained dating without chaperones has gone on for the last 30 years in Colombia due to the influence of America. "I'd forget it (a date) before I would take the mother along," Roberto laughed.

THE EDUCATIONAL system has left Roberto with mixed emotions. His first comment is "the schools are beautiful, especially Rolling Meadows High School." As to subject content, Roberto said, "I think we learn a little bit more in South America. There you have to study." He also explained that in South America the students stay in the same class all day and the teachers go to the students rather than the students going to the teachers.

After returning to Bogota, Roberto plans to leave in July for Lucerne, Switzerland where he plans to attend school and major in hotel and restaurant management.

He chose hotel and restaurant management because he likes to meet and be around people. He will be required to learn five languages for his degree. Judging from the fact he knew no English when he arrived in the United States in January and now speaks it fluently, he should have no problem.



HAVING ARRIVED IN THE Chicago area in January without knowing any English, Roberto Pachon of Bogota, Colombia has progressed to the point where he now speaks and reads the language fluently and encounters few problems in his classes at Rolling Meadows High School.

Would you believe an intellectual football coach. Joe Paterno, has an insatiable intellectual curiosity. He can often be found roaming the Penn State campus to seek out a professor for a bull session on the humanities or chatting with a group of students on campus problems. Most college football coaches haven't had public disagreements with the President of the United States. Most coaches don't tell their players not to worry about winning or losing, but Joe Paterno isn't most coaches. Even if the football season is drawing to a close, all the football fans will enjoy reading 'Joe Paterno: Football My Way.'

"There will never be another Mauldin. The Pentagon will never let him happen again." Bill Mauldin is considered the best of all the war cartoonists. Born in 1921 at Mountain Park, N.M., Mauldin says of his early life he became a sign painter at 17 and was thrown in jail at 15. While riding a freight train, came to Chicago to study art and joined the army a year before Pearl Harbor.

GENERAL PATTON wanted to have him court-martialed, while other eminent generals in the field applauded him as a morale builder and gave him his own Jeep to travel about the front. Later he was assigned to Stars & Stripes and shortly thereafter won the Pulitzer Prize. 'The Brass Ring' told in his own words. For the reader who enjoys reading biography, this autobiography will be of special interest.

It hasn't been too many years ago our newscasts and evening newspapers were filled with items about one black politician, namely Adam Clayton Powell. If you want to know more about this fiery ex-minister's rise to fame, you'll want to read his autobiography. He tells his side of his expulsion from Congress and answers the charge of "absenteeism." 'The Forbidden Sky' by Endre Marton details the dramatic and much-debated history of the Hungarian Revolution, recalling the events which he and his wife, a fellow journalist witnessed. In August, 1956, Endre Marton walked out of a prison in Budapest. He had been tried for treason, a Hungarian citizen working for an American wire service. He was the only western correspondent in the country when the revolt began. Later in 1967 when they were again threatened with arrest, they left Hungary for the U.S. where Endre Marton is State Department Correspondent for the Associated Press.

Santa Will Get Top Billing At Shopping Center

Santa Claus, the celebrity of the season, will receive top billing at Rolling Meadows Shopping Center from this Friday until Dec. 23.

Santa will be at Santa's House in the shopping center mall daily. On Friday he'll be there from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Hours for the rest of his visit are: weekdays, noon to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

In addition to Santa Claus this weekend, the Mulqueens, puppets of television fame, will entertain during a toy fair at the shopping center.

Puppet shows are scheduled for Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 1 and 4 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m.

The toy fair will also include a game booth, previews of new toys and a puppet clinic.

OK $18,000 To Buy Five Squad Cars

The Rolling Meadows City Council has authorized speding $18,000 for the purchase of five new squad cars for the police department.

This is the first step in a plan to replace half the police fleet every year.

Ald. Thomas Scanlan said the city plans to buy Ford Galaxies, because the police department has experienced problems with the Pontiacs now in the fleet. The Fords each cost $400 less than the Pontiacs, Scanlan said.

Mayor Roland Meyer said some of the old squad cars would be given to other city departments and some would be auctioned.

Holiday Special Bus Service Is Offered Here

Mount Prospect residents will be getting something new for the Christmas season — a free "Holiday Shopping Special" bus service.

Officials of the village, Randhurst Corp. and the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce met twice yesterday in efforts to establish a route for the bus. They said they were contemplating a large circular loop route through the village and were scheduled to drive around some of the proposed routes.

The service will be aimed at helping Mount Prfospect residents get to stores during the daytime in the upcoming weeks before Christmas. Present plans call for the bus to operate seven days a week starting Dec. 1 and going through Jan. 8.

IT IS ESTIMATED THE service will cost between $3,000 and $4,000. The cost is being shared by the village (up to $2,000) and the Randhurst Corp. The project is being promoted by the Chamber of Commerce.

The bus will go through most parts of the village, including the newly annexed section. It will run to Randhurst, the downtown business section and the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Some trustees have expressed interest in having the bus routed down collector streets. However, length of the trip may become a factor, according to some officials. Harold Carlson, vice president of Randhurst Corp., estimated the trip route would take an hour to complete. But this does not include the newly annexed area.

In addition to giving store owners in Mount Prospect a boost in sales during the upcoming heavy shopping season, Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he considers the brief test run a good opportunity to judge how much Mount Prospect needs a bus service.

"It will give us some hard facts concerning bus use rather than relying on surveys," he said. Although the rides will be free, each user will have to leave his name and address with the bus driver.

"THIS WILL allow us to contact these people later with a survey," Teichert said. "After all, they will have actually ridden the bus."

The Chamber of Commerce recently completed a transportation study conducted last summer.

The survey, conducted in cooperation with Harper College, consisted of telephoning about 600 Mount Prospect households and questioning the residents as to their needs and desires for a bus service in the village.

Richard Hughes, chairman of the Chamber's transportation committee, said the survey led him to conclude a mass transit district was the most feasible means of handling the public transportation need in the Mount Prospect area.

Close Windsor Drive?

by KURT BAER

The Illinois Highway Department is currently working on what a spokesman there called a "joint agreement" with the village of Arlington Heights to close off Windsor Drive where it intersects with Rand Road and Thomas Avenue.

The action, if approved, could have the effect of isolating residents of Arlington Terrace subdivision on the east side of the village.

Henry Yamanaka, a design engineer for the state highway department, said the agreement to build a cul de sac at the southern end of Windsor Drive was part of a localized road improvement program worked out between the village and the state at the time the GEMCO discount department store was approved.

The planned development for GEMCO, now known as MEMCO, was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board May 17. The development will be built near the southeast corner of the Rand Road-Thomas Street intersection.

YAMANAKA SAID the joint agreement will be presented to the village board as a proposed resolution and ordinance probably sometime early next year.

"At the time (of the GEMCO decision) we said that if the state would construct the necessary turning bays, we would not oppose cul de sacing Windsor," said Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson.

The state wants to close off Windsor Drive at Rand Road in order to clear up what it regards as a very hazardous intersection. Windsor is now one-way north off Rand and is heavily travelled by residents of Arlington Terrace and Berkley Square subdivisions.

"Before we could agree to cul de sacing Windsor we would have to take into account other highway improvements to accommodate people living up there," said Village Pres. Jack Walsh.

"We'd have to provide alternative routes. We can't just isolate those residents."

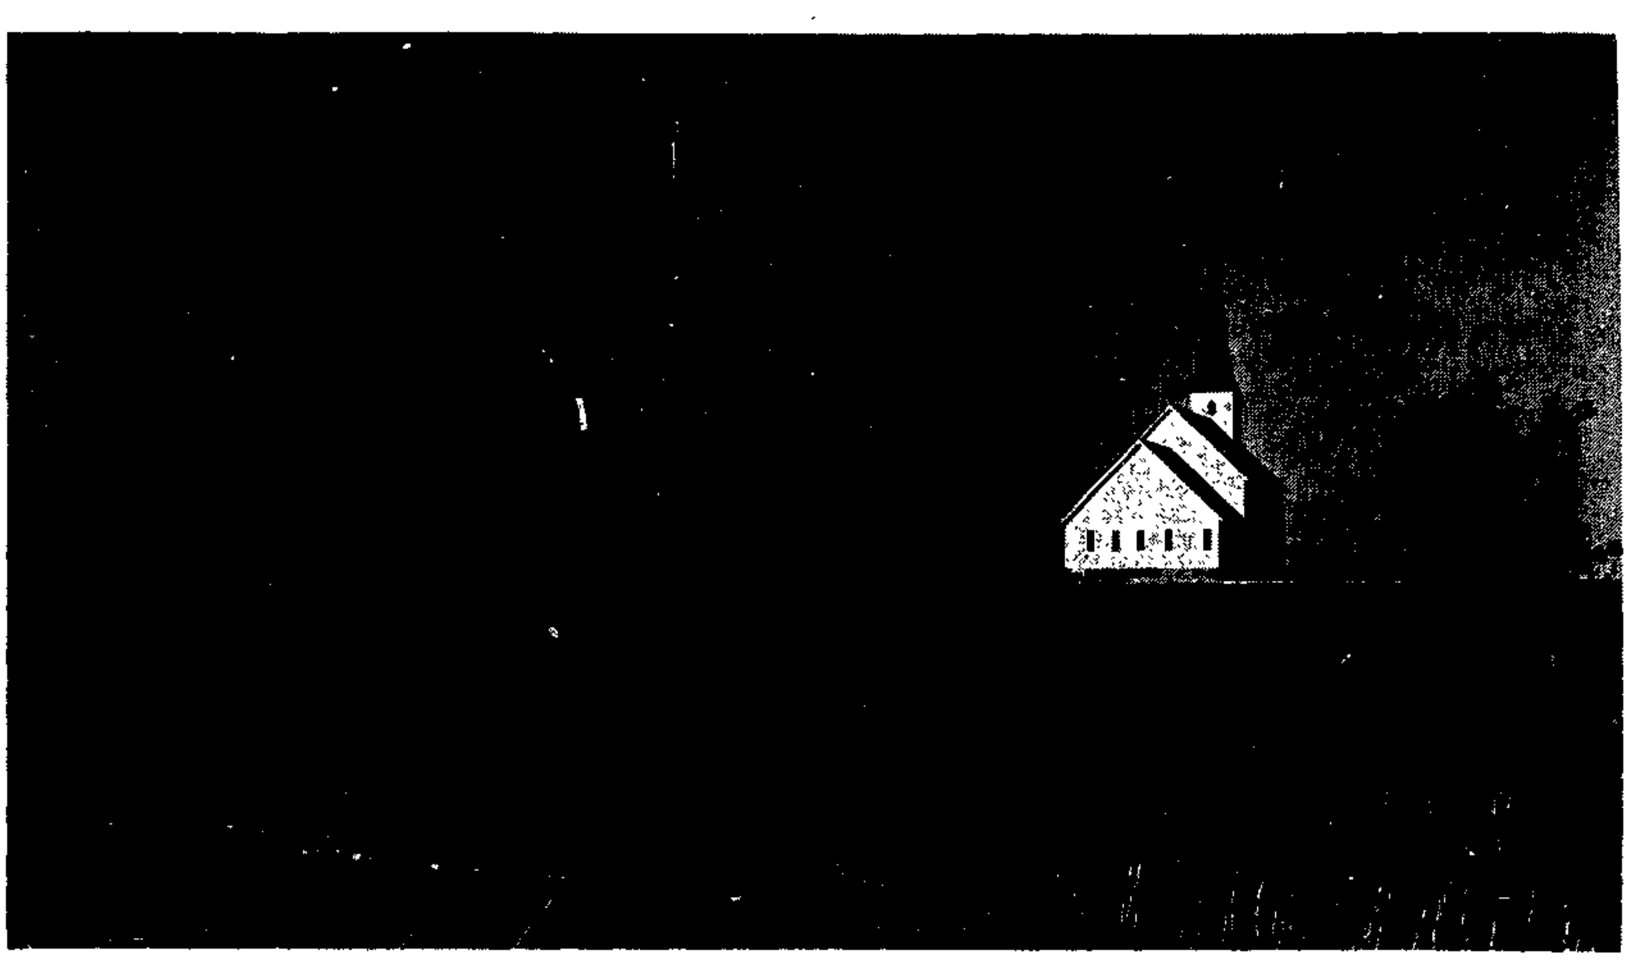
ONE POSSIBLE alternative is Waterman Avenue, now just a half-street, which runs north-south along the eastern side of John Hersey High School.

A north-south road along the west side of Hersey High School would have to cross the so-called "Schroeder property" which lies outside the village in unincorporated Cook County.

Village Engr. John Best said he would prefer to see Windsor Drive remain open to traffic turning right off Rand Road, although he did feel left turns should be prohibited at the intersection.

Yamanaka said construction will begin early next spring on the turning lanes and other improvements at the Rand-Thomas intersection to accommodate the increased traffic GEMCO is expected to generate.

The GEMCO store was approved by a 4-3 vote of the village board over the objections of many residents in the area and after a rezoning request for the development had been unanimously rejected by members of the plan commission.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK
A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Integration Ruling Effect Slight

State Supt. Michael Bakalis' order requiring integration in Illinois public schools should have little effect in Dist. 21, according to Supt. Kenneth Gill.

Gill said that very few students from minority groups live within the district's boundaries. Those that do are pretty evenly distributed throughout the district's 15 schools, he said.

All minority group students in the district attend the school whose boundary they are in, he added..

Gill said that he has not received a copy of the Bakalis guidelines, but that he doubts if they are "pertinent to us."

A few black students are enrolled in Dist. 21 schools Gill said.

"However, if we were asked to have an equal percentage of blacks at each of the schools, we wouldn't even have enough black students to send one to each of the 15 schools," he noted.

ABOUT 250-300 students of Mexican-American background are enrolled in Dist. 21 schools, Gill said. He said this is a very low percentage of the total enrollment, which is about 8,200 students.

These students do not reside in any one particular area of the district and therefore are not concentrated in one or two schools, but attend schools throughout Dist. 21.

A few students from American-Indian background are also enrolled in the district, Gill said.

A special program for children from families where the language spoken at home is not English is offered in Dist. 21 under Title I of the Federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The program is conducted at Nathaniel Hawthorne School in Wheeling this year for students attending that school. Last year the Title I program was offered at Walt Whitman School in Wheeling.

Gill said the program is not extensive and relatively few students are involved.

Gill said he does not feel that any school districts in the Northwest suburban area will be greatly affected by Bakalis' order.

"This is predominately a Caucasian area. It is kind of tragic that housing patterns are not more evenly distributed, but there's nothing we can do," he said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a board of inquiry to study the deadlocked Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike, the first step in a series of actions that could lead to a court-ordered 80-day return to work.

The Price Commission has approved a 4.5 per cent average price increase for Chrysler Corp. cars and trucks, but lopped 0.8 per cent off the company's request. It was the sixth increase approved and the first to be cut back. Chrysler had asked for a 5.9 per cent increase.

State Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said President Nixon's multi-billion dollar package of tax cuts might not be revived in Congress if Nixon vetoes it. Republican congressional leaders have said Nixon is considering a veto if the bill reaches his desk with a Democratic-sponsored amendment to finance presidential campaigns through a $1 tax check-off system.

The World

Pakistani officials reported heavy fighting in border areas on three sides of East Pakistan, but said Indian troops were pushed back and government troops recaptured a border outpost and two other areas, killing 200 Indians in one clash and killing and wounding 300 in another.

"YOU STUBBORN . . . *! " A player loses his mount in heated donkey basketball competition Tuesday night at John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. The event, which pitted girls from Prospect and Hersey high schools against Mount Prospect Lions and Jaycees, was sponsored by the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club. The club raised $400 to donate to the High School Dist. 214 scholarship fund.

Classroom 'Games' Lead To Learning

How would you like to learn addition by stringing beads? Multiplication by listening to a tape recorder? Fractions by working crossword puzzles?

When parents in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 went to school, such teaching methods were unheard of. Now their children are, or soon will be, coming home with tales of plahing games in the classroom. There're not really games, but part of the district's new math curriculum.

"We're trying to get kids interested in numbers," Richard Percy, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, told board members recently. "Remember, these are only supplementary ways of teaching students number facts. We haven't abandoned textbooks and worksheets. But we are trying motivational and inspirational new ways to get students involved in mathematics."

THE NEW MATH curriculum, begun more than a year ago by a committee of about 15 math teachers, will be put to use in the classroom next month. The curriculum, for kindergarten through eighth grade, is based on what teachers call "behavioral objectives" or learning goals that can be measured on a simple math test.

"We tried to determine what major number concepts should be learned at each grade level," said Mrs. Sue Rajca, chairman of the math department. "We try to get students to learn by themselves — to think, generalize and use logic and reason."

Mrs. Rajca, Geraldyn Judycki and Joy Lutsch, both Lions Park School teachers; and Joanne Youle, Fairview School teacher; wrote the new curriculum. The basis for the new guide is to try and upgrade students' computation skills, according to Percy.

"Our students are strong in the logic of math, but weak in computation. They lack the ability to care about accuracy. They knew what they were doing but never bothered to get the right answer," Percy said.

Percy stressed students do not score low on math achievements tests. "We score very well in math as compared with other districts," he said. "It's just that we score much better in logic than in the basic skills like addition, subtraction, division and multiplication."

Youth Found Dead In Car

An 18-year-old Elk Grove Township youth was found dead in a car parked in a garage in Long Grove Tuesday morning.

Lake County Sheriff's Police said that Wayne Dillavou of Hinsdale Road in Elk Grove Township, was apparently asphyxiated from carbon monoxide fumes.

Dillavou was found in a car in the garage of a friend's house at Rt. 2, Ill. Rte. 83, about 11:30, police said.

Driver Injured As His Auto Hits Tree

A 45-year-old Glencoe man was injured Saturday morning when the car he was driving struck a tree in front of 233 S. Main St., Mount Prospect.

According to Mount Prospect Police, Richard D. Weddell was going north on Main Street about 5 a.m. when he apparently lost control of the car after experiencing a pain in his chest. The car then struck the tree.

Weddell was listed in fair condition Monday at Holy Family Hospital. He suffered internal injuries and face lacerations.

Police have charged him with damage to village property and he is to appear in court Dec. 22.

Lack Of Interest Cancels Outing

Lack of interest in a Mount Prospect Park District teen field trip planned for Sunday has ended any chances for future trips, Paul Caldwell, assistant park director, said yesterday.

The trip to Deer Grove Forest Preserve near Palatine was canceled yesterday after only one teen wanted to sign up for it. Caldwell and an eight-member teen steering committee had planned the trip, hoping to spark interest in the district's teen center, 411 S.Maple St.

"As far as working with special groups to plan things they want, I'm finished," Caldwell said, pointing out that committee members who planned the trip did not even sign up. "As far as I'm concerned, we'll go ahead with our own programs."

He said the park district would go ahead with scheduling floor hockey and weight lifting for teens as the committee recommended. Floor hockey, which has already begun, can be played from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays. Weight lifting and physical fitness programs will start on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m., as soon as an instructor is hired.

Caldwell said park officials may still go ahead with planning a ski trip as the committee suggested. "That isn't done for a special group," he said. "We've done that before."

Dinner-Theater At Hersey

Residents can now make reservations for the first dinner-theater event at John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

"Don't Take It Personally," a variety show, will be performed Dec. 17 and 18 after an Italian dinner. Students, who are producing, directing and writing the show, are working to convert the school's cafeteria into a restaurant-theatre.

Tickets at $2.50 per person can be reserved by sending a check and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the school, 1900 E. Thomas St. The desired performance date should be specified. No tickets will be sold at the door and not after Dec. 14.

Proceeds from the dinner show will go to Hersey's foreign exchange students program and student council. Student co-directors are Jim Bastable and John Heidemann. The production is under the supervision of drama teachers John Marquette and Jerry Lowe.

Holiday Special Bus Service Is Offered Here

Mount Prospect residents will be getting something new for the Christmas season — a free "Holiday Shopping Special" bus service.

Officials of the village, Randhurst Corp. and the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce met twice yesterday in efforts to establish a route for the bus. They said they were contemplating a large circular loop route through the village and were scheduled to drive around some of the proposed routes.

The service will be aimed at helping Mount Prfospect residents get to stores during the daytime in the upcoming weeks before Christmas. Present plans call for the bus to operate seven days a week starting Dec. 1 and going through Jan. 8.

IT IS ESTIMATED THE service will cost between $3,000 and $4,000. The cost is being shared by the village (up to $2,000) and the Randhurst Corp. The project is being promoted by the Chamber of Commerce.

The bus will go through most parts of the village, including the newly annexed section. It will run to Randhurst, the downtown business section and the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Some trustees have expressed interest in having the bus routed down collector streets. However, length of the trip may become a factor, according to some officials. Harold Carlson, vice president of Randhurst Corp., estimated the trip route would take an hour to complete. But this does not include the newly annexed area.

In addition to giving store owners in Mount Prospect a boost in sales during the upcoming heavy shopping season, Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he considers the brief test run a good opportunity to judge how much Mount Prospect needs a bus service.

"It will give us some hard facts concerning bus use rather than relying on surveys," he said. Although the rides will be free, each user will have to leave his name and address with the bus driver.

"THIS WILL allow us to contact these people later with a survey," Teichert said. "After all, they will have actually ridden the bus."

The Chamber of Commerce recently completed a transportation study conducted last summer.

The survey, conducted in cooperation with Harper College, consisted of telephoning about 600 Mount Prospect households and questioning the residents as to their needs and desires for a bus service in the village.

Richard Hughes, chairman of the Chamber's transportation committee, said the survey led him to conclude a mass transit district was the most feasible means of handling the public transportation need in the Mount Prospect area.

Former Trustee Grittani Appointed By Ogilvie

Joseph Grittani, a former Mount Prospect village trustee and currently a member of the village's police and fire commission, has been appointed by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie as a delegate to the second White House Conference on Aging. The conference is scheduled to begin Sunday evening in Washington D.C.

The purpose of the conference is to define the needs of older Americans and to recommend courses of action to meet those needs.

Grittani has been involved with problems of the elderly as a member of the Chicago Housing Authority.

Joseph Grittani

Preliminary activities which led to the conference included organization of the Older Americans White House Community Forums in the fall, 1970, the Cook County Community White House Conference on Aging last spring, and the Illinois White House Conference on Aging in Springfield last July.

The first White House Conference on Aging was held in 1961 and it developed the Medicare program for those over 65 years of age.

The following subjects, according to priorities established by the elderly in Illinois, will be discussed: income, health care, housing, transportation, education, legislation, employment, leisure time activities, police protection, nutrition, involuntary retirement, consumer protection and pre-retirement counseling.

Revise Elevator Code

Mount Prospect has a new elevator code.

The new regulations are to apply to the construction of all passenger-type elevator equipment. A main provision is that the elevator cabs and door openings be of a size large enough to accept a standard portable ambulance cot in its horizontal position.

The regulations also apply to buildings for manufacture, storage or sale of combustible goods. Here the limits apply generally to buildings of over two stories or 7,500 square feet in floor area.

Expect 100 To Attend Turkey Trot

Thanksgiving: it's a day for big dinners, football games, and — in Mount Prospect — the annual Turkey Trot.

From all over the Chicago area, more than 100 persons are expected to come to the village this morning for the annual round of foot races, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

The series of races begin at 9 a.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwun Ave. Both men and women can participate in the contests, which are run on a course laid out on the Mount Prospect Park District's golf course. Length of the course will vary from one-half mile to four miles, depending on the age of each group of contestants.

Youths as young as those in junior high school can enter. There is no age limit: one contestant in an earlier Turkey Trot was in his late 70s.

The races will last from 9 a.m. to about 11:30 a.m. Trophies and ribbons will be given to winners. Coffee and doughnuts will be available.

There is no entry fee. However, Jaycees have asked that anyone not yet registered should be at the country club by 8:30 a.m. to register.

20 Prospect Students Initiated Into Tri-M

Twenty Prospect High School students were initiated into Tri-M, an honorary music society, recently.

To be a member of the organization, a student must belong to a school instrumental or choral group, receive an "A" in his music course and be listed on the honor roll. Activities of Tri-M, sponsored by Richard Turasky, include construction of a float for the homecoming parade.

'Joint Agreement' Eyed For Windsor Drive Close Off

by KURT BAER

The Illinois Highway Department is currently working on what a spokesman there called a "joint agreement" with the village of Arlington Heights to close off Windsor Drive where it intersects with Rand Road and Thomas Avenue.

The action, if approved, could have the effect of isolating residents of Arlington Terrace subdivision on the east side of the village.

Henry Yamanaka, a design engineer for the state highway department, said the agreement to build a cul de sac at the southern end of Windsor Drive was part of a localized road improvement program worked out between the village and the state at the time the GEMCO discount department store was approved.

The planned development for GEMCO, now known as MEMCO, was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board May 17. The development will be built near the southeast corner of the Rand Road-Thomas Street intersection.

YAMANAKA SAID the joint agreement will be presented to the village board as a proposed resolution and ordinance probably sometime early next year.

"At the time (of the GEMCO decision) we said that if the state would construct the necessary turning bays, we would not oppose cul de sacing Windsor," said Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson.

The state wants to close off Windsor Drive at Rand Road in order to clear up what it regards as a very hazardous intersection. Windsor is now one-way north off Rand and is heavily travelled by residents of Arlington Terrace and Berkley Square subdivisions.

"Before we could agree to cul de sacing Windsor we would have to take into account other highway improvements to accommodate people living up there," said Village Pres. Jack Walsh.

"We'd have to provide alternative routes. We can't just isolate those residents."

ONE POSSIBLE alternative is Waterman Avenue, now just a half-street, which runs north-south along the eastern side of John Hersey High School.

A north-south road along the west side of Hersey High School would have to cross the so-called "Schroeder property" which lies outside the village in unincorporated Cook County.

Village Engr. John Best said he would prefer to see Windsor Drive remain open to traffic turning right off Rand Road, although he did feel left turns should be prohibited at the intersection.

Yamanaka said construction will begin early next spring on the turning lanes and other improvements at the Rand-Thomas intersection to accommodate the increased traffic GEMCO is expected to generate.

The GEMCO store was approved by a 4-3 vote of the village board over the objections of many residents in the area and after a rezoning request for the development had been unanimously rejected by members of the plan commission.

Park Board Member Resigns

Roy Bressler Monday night resigned from the Arlington Heights Park District Board of Commissioners because he is moving out of the district.

Bressler was elected to the park board in 1969 and was sworn in a few weeks after he had completed a four-year term on the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees. In addition to being the chairman of the park board's public relations committee, Bressler was on the personnel and finance committees.

Roy Bressler

"I've enjoyed working with Roy. Besides being very personable, he's a great diplomat," said Robert Stenzel, a park board commissioner. His work on the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees was cited by William Meister, commissioner, as being extremely helpful in the coordination of activities between the park district and the village government.

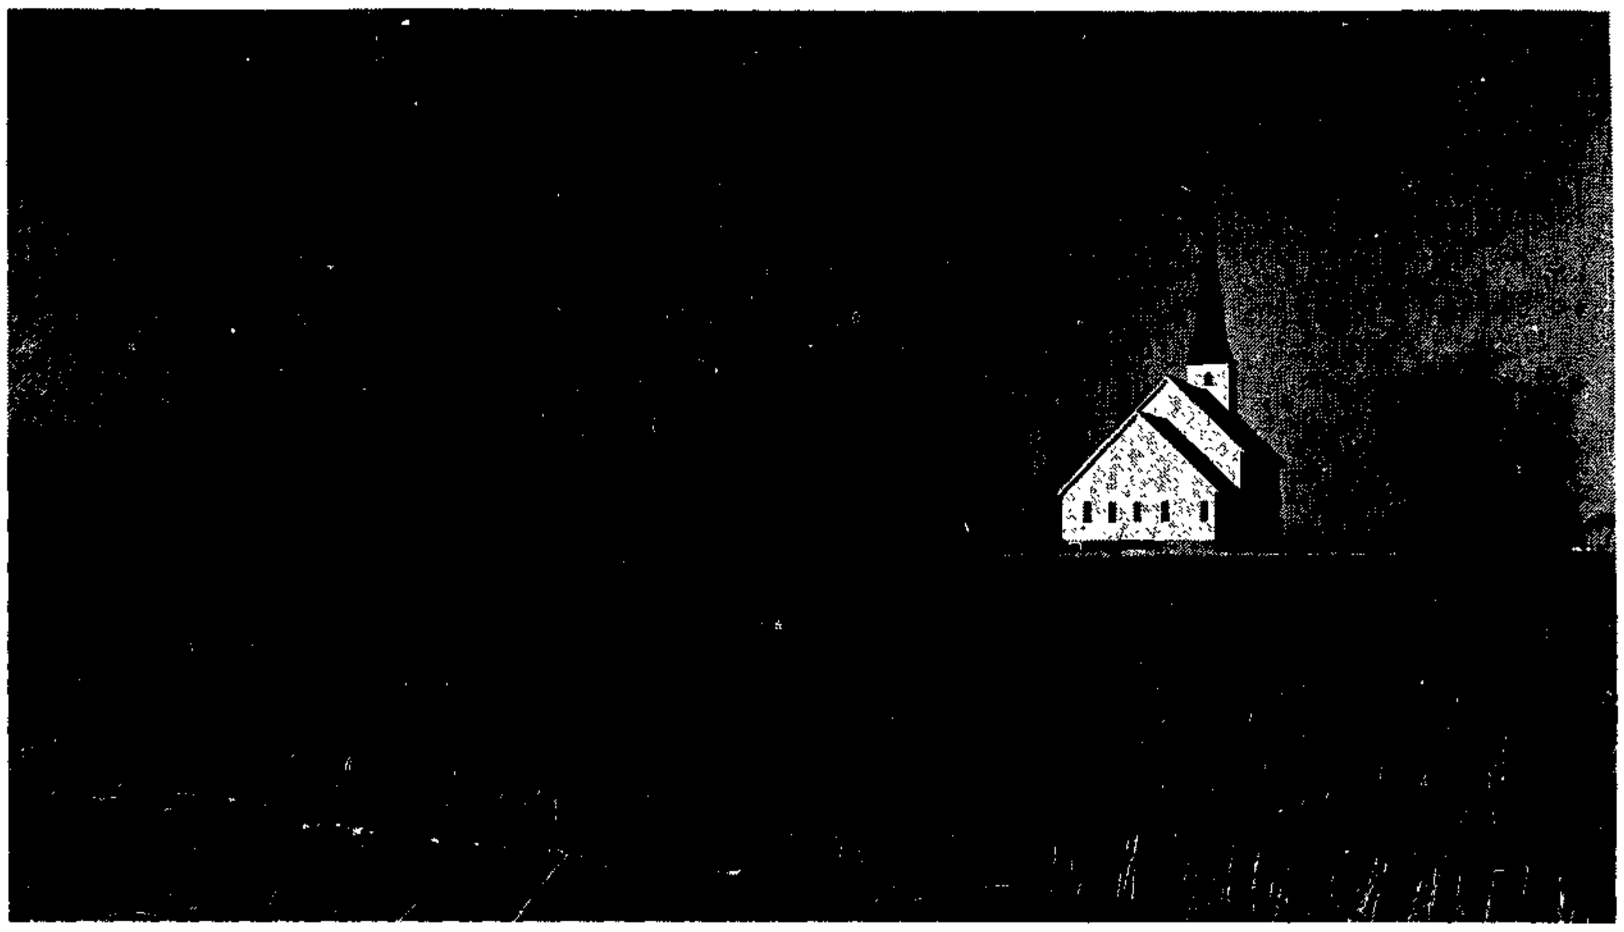
"My resignation will become effective the first week in December when we move," Bressler said. "I'm not worried about the board filling my vacancy, since there is a lot of talent in Arlington Heights."

THE LAST time a park commissioner resigned was in 1969 when Thomas K. McShane moved to California. Eight people applied for his vacancy. Last spring 10 people vied for two board openings.

"We will accept applications from any registered voter in Arlington Heights Park District," said Stenzel, "We are looking for someone who will make a moral commitment to run for the office in the next election, which will be held in April, 1973."

The board is looking for someone who is interested in more than an interim commitment to the park district. Two other board members will also be up for re-election in April, 1973.

There is no pay for the five-man board of commissioners.



Thanksgiving A Uniquely American Holiday

A Day To Celebrate Man's Tenacity

by KEN KOZAK
A THANKSGIVING ESSAY

For the record, it might be proper on this Thanksgiving Day to acknowledge those who have played the most prominent part in creating this day of national celebration: the Pilgrims, Elias Boudinot and Abraham Lincoln.

Thanksgiving is the uniquely American festival. Throughout the world, most national holidays celebrate great struggles for independence, or bloody battles of liberation.

Americans, perhaps guided by a vision that lets them see closer to the truth of things, have chosen a day simply to celebrate man's tenacity, his ability to survive against overwhelming odds, to reach within himself for resources he never knew he possessed.

Every grade school child knows the story behind the first Thanksgiving. They know of Pilgrim ships, bound for Virginia, that lost their way and landed finally in New England in 1620.

THEY KNOW the tales of the harsh winter and diseases that decimated the battered little colony that first year, of their inability to farm the rocky northeastern soil, of their complete alienation from a frightening and strange land.

They know too the stories of the determination that the Pilgrims maintained and of their ultimate success.

And they know of the great feast at which the survivors of that first winter celebrated and thanked the Lord for their blessings, the greatest of which at that time was just being alive. Thus was born the first Thanksgiving, celebrated by the first Thanksgivers.

But within the next few years, Thanksgiving as a holiday was forgotten. It might never have reappeared but for a deeply religious U.S. Representative named Elias Boudinot.

In 1789 Boudinot made a speech in the House of Representatives and introduced a resolution asking the president to set aside "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer."

Needless to say, at least one congressman found fault with the proposal. Rep. Thomas Tucker of South Carolina said "the House had no business to interfere in a matter which did not concern them."

"WHY SHOULD the president direct the people to do what, perhaps, they have no mind to do?" Tucker asked.

But the resolution found enough support to pass and President George Washington signed it and issued a proclamation setting aside the last Thursday in November as a national day of thanksgiving.

Still, it took another 80 years and yet another presidential proclamation before Thanksgiving became firmly entrenched in American tradition.

This time, the driving force was Abraham Lincoln, who as president was trying to hold together a nation bent on tearing itself limb-from-limb in the Civil War.

Lincoln called for a day on which all Americans would put aside their differences and think of their common bonds. He suggested Thanksgiving Day, which had been mostly forgotten until then, and the rest is history.

Happy Pilgrims-Boudinot-Lincoln Day.

Village Gift: 3 Hours Free Parking

Christmas shoppers in downtown Arlington Heights will receive an extra holiday bonus this year.

Beginning tomorrow and continuing for three Saturdays through Dec. 18, the village will allow up to three hours of free parking in the commuter and metered parking lots along the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks.

The free parking will be in effect only on Saturdays. It was arranged for by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Executive Manager of the Chamber Earl W. Johnson said signs will be posted in the designated lots to inform shoppers of the limitations.

BASICALLY, PERSONS wishing to park and shop in the downtown area will be able to ignore parking meters in the commuter lots on Saturdays for up to three hours.

Arlington Heights police cadets will be making spot checks, Johnson said, to insure that cars are not left parked all day before expired meters.

This is the first year that the free parking has been offered, and Johnson said it should help both the downtown merchants and holiday shoppers.

Johnson said upwards of 200 parking stalls will be available.

The free parking was coordinated through the office of Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

Pool Fun Planned At Olympic Park

Special events at Olympic Park pool, 660 N. Ridge, Arlington Heights, will be held Friday, including water basketball, a splash dive contest, dog paddles and pretzel races.

The penny dive is scheduled at 3 p.m., but the fun and competition will start at 1 p.m.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a board of inquiry to study the deadlocked Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike, the first step in a series of actions that could lead to a court-ordered 80-day return to work.

The Price Commission has approved a 4.5 per cent average price increase for Chrysler Corp. cars and trucks, but lopped 0.8 per cent off the company's request. It was the sixth increase approved and the first to be cut back. Chrysler had asked for a 5.9 per cent increase.

* * *

State Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said President Nixon's multi-billion dollar package of tax cuts might not be revived in Congress if Nixon vetoes it. Republican congressional leaders have said Nixon is considering a veto if the bill reaches his desk with a Democratic-sponsored amendment to finance presidential campaigns through a $1 tax check-off system.

The World

Pakistani officials reported heavy fighting in border areas on three sides of East Pakistan, but said Indian troops were pushed back and government troops recaptured a border outpost and two other areas, killing 200 Indians in one clash and killing and wounding 300 in another.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

An ice and snow storm moved across the upper Ohio Valley and central Appalachians to the Northeast, making driving hazardous in many areas for early Thanksgiving day.

Temperatures from around the nation:

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

77 Race Days At Arlington Park

by KURT BAER

Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE) walked away from the Illinois Racing Board Wednesday with 77 days of racing next year at Arlington Park Race Track, 43 fewer days than it had requested.

Opening day at Arlington Park will be May 31 with the horses running through Aug. 28. Last year there were 110 racing days at Arlington.

CTE also lost its bid to open the Illinois thoroughbred season next year at Arlington Park. The Sun-Times, Daily News charity meeting which kicks off the 1972 schedule on April 15 will be run at Hawthorne Race Track in Chicago.

CTE Pres. Jack Loome had no comment yesterday on the board's decision.

As expected, the racing board transferred CTE's Washington Park dates to the Arlington track. But it granted only 26 of the 60 dates CTE had requested in the Washington Park application.

CTE'S ARLINGTON Jockey Club division was awarded 45 days out of the 60 it had requested. An additional six days running of the Chicago Tribune charities from July 22 to July 28 accounts for the total 77-day racing season.

In awarding days to the state's 21 racing associations, Racing Board Chmn. Alexander MacArthur said he would continue his investigation into association stockholder lists.

"During these hearings, we flushed out quite a few mother hens which had been squatting on some strange eggs," MacArthur said. "By strange eggs I mean not of the species."

MacArthur reminded the leaders of Illinois horse racing who were gathered in Chicago that although the law required the awarding of dates on or before Nov. 30, the board did not have to grant racing licenses until 30 days before the scheduled opening of a meeting.

Although the racing season at Arlington Park will be 33 days shorter than last year, CTE was actually awarded the same number of dates as in 1971.

The difference stems from 33 days which last year were granted to the Balmoral Jockey Club which held its meeting at Arlington Park. This year, the Balmoral Club will run those same 33 days at Sportsman's Park in Chicago.

MacARTHUR SAID the principal criterion used in deciding the dates was the amount of revenue generated for the state at various tracks.

Last week, Illinois Atty. General William J. Scott announced plans to file suit against CTE for over $4 million in alleged back taxes.

The suit was filed because of CTE's practice in past years of totaling the wagering during its Arlington and Washington Park divisions as two separate meetings even though both were run back-to-back at Arlington Park.

By counting the betting separately, Scott charged CTE had avoided higher tax brackets which would have netted the state an additional $4 million.

Other thoroughbred associations in the Chicago area were awarded dates as follows:

Hawthorne Park, 39 days, April 15 to May 30; National Jockey Club Inc. 38 days at Sportsman's Park, Aug. 29 to Oct. 11; Balmoral Jockey Club, 33 days at Sportsman's, Oct. 12 to Nov. 11.

State law allows for a maximum of 187 days of thoroughbred racing in the Chicago area.

Student Walkout Protests War

by KEN KOZAK

A group of Rolling Meadows High School students, estimated between 40 and 70, walked out of school Wednesday morning to take part in a moratorium against the war in Southeast Asia.

The students that hadn't returned to school by the end of the day ran the risk of suspension from school Monday morning, the first class day after the four-day Thanksgiving weekend, according to school principal Robert Hoese. All but about a half dozen had returned by Thursday afternoon, Hoese said.

The students walked out following the first period class, which ended at 9:40 a.m. Hoese said he saw the students leaving, followed by assistant principal Dick Schnell, who talked to some of the students outside the building.

ONE STUDENT said Schnell told them that if they didn't return to school by 11 a.m. they would be suspended. Hoese said Schnell told them they were leaving school without authorization and ran the risk of disciplinary action. Hoese said a number of students came back to school at that point, but the rest continued on toward the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex, where the moratorium was held.

Regarding disciplinary action, Hoese said those students who came back yesterday had to stay after school to make up the work they missed, plus some extra time. He said the extra time wasn't punishment detention.

"Any time you miss an hour with a teacher it takes more time to make up the work on your own," he said.

The students who didn't report back yesterday will be asked to come with their parents to conferences at the school between 9 a.m. and noon tomorrow, Hoese said.

He said the school would contact parents of the students.

A Thank You from Your Garbageman

During October, we received a total of 38 complaints regarding our service. Most of them were justified, and that's 38 more than we like to see.

However, during those 26 working days in October, our crews made either 8 or 9 refuse pickups (dependent on the route) at over 13,500 homes — a total of over 117,000 service stops.

Viewed in the overall, 38 goofs out of 117,000 doesn't seem too bad. It indicates two things to us: One, most of our men are doing a pretty good job. Two, our customers on the whole are understanding of our problems and cooperative.

So on Thanksgiving Day, in our 44th year of service, it seems only right to say "Thank you, Arlington Heights", for your help in making a tough job easier.

Want Donations For Parks

Residents who attended a meeting of the Arlington Heights Park District Monday expressed an interest in obtaining donations to improve a park site.

Four residents attended the meeting, asking about plans for the old Nike site at Algonquin and Golf roads.

The Nike site formerly used as a missile control area was purchased from the federal government in February, 1964, along with another old Nike control site, now part of Heritage Park. There is no timetable or use stipulation in the government deed, but the federal government can reclaim the park in time of national emergency.

At the present time, explained Angelo Capulli, superintendent of parks, the five-and-a-half acre site has been graded, and is being fine graded and seeded. Future plans call for foliage, a play area, walks and bicycle paths.

When the residents were satisfied that the site had been properly graded so that standing water in their backyards wouldn't be the result of a rain storm, they asked what they could do in the way of contributions to get the park in usable condition.

Since the park will be used for passive recreation, meaning that there will be no facilities for sports, the main need after planting seeds will be poplar trees and other foliage. Also in the plans are rustic play equipment, made of timbers.

To complete the park, according to present plans, about $100,000 would be needed. The park has about $2,000 to use for the park at the present time. The site is expected to be developed slowly, over about 10 years.

The homeowners said they would see what they could do about getting landscape donations.

The recreation program at Heritage Park was discussed, including plans for more extensive use of the Juliette Low School building which adjoins Heritage Park. The park district contributed approximately $17,000 to the construction of the gymnasium, and uses the gym extensively.

"We would like to obtain use of the entire building after a certain hour of the day to provide more recreation programs for the neighborhood," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation.

In other park board business, it was resolved that any two commissioners and the secretary or treasurer of the park district could sign and countersign park district checks. The action was taken because Roger Burke, park treasurer, had formerly had to sign all checks. This presented complications when he was out of town.

Turkey Potpourri At Recreation Park

Some people just don't like to race, so the Arlington Heights Park District has decided to turn it's annual turkey trot into a turkey potpourri, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner.

Boys and girls in the first through eighth grades will compete in checker contests, penny grabs, musical chairs, tug of wars and table hockey. Ribbons will be awarded to winners.

For those who like to break things there will be a balloon break. A pinata, an animal filled with candy, will be at the mercy of children with sticks. There will be the traditional relays including a spoon relay, and funny relays.

New Librarian Appointed To Replace Klitzke

A new Des Plaines librarian has been appointed to succeed Lewis Klitzke, who has notified the city library board that he will retire Jan. 15.

The new librarian is William Wyman, 38, a graduate of the University of Illinois who has been Freeport, Ill., librarian for seven years.

Klitzke, 62, has been city librarian for almost 11 years. During his term as chief administrator, the library building was renovated and expanded, bookmobile services began, and the book collection more than doubled to almost 92,000 volumes.

Paul Batdorf, library board chairman, said yesterday that Klitzke's resignation was accepted "with regret." City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach said Klitzke will "definitely be missed. He has done a fine job for the city."

Assistant librarian, Marion Davis, who has headed the children's book department will also retire. She will be succeeded by her assistant, Marguerite Flentge, who has served as coordinator between school and city library programs.

Kenneth Frank, who has headed the library's reference department, has been appointed assistant librarian. The new reference department director will be Cheryl Mack, who holds a master's degree in library science from Rosary College, Park Forest.

Klitzke, who has been a resident of Des Plaines since 1961, is a native of Chicago's South Side. He received a bachelor's degree in social science and a master's degree in library science from the University of Chicago.

He taught in Chicago schools and was librarian of Luther High school on the city's south side. He was a professor and librarian at Concordia College, Portland, Ore., before his appointment as head librarian in Des Plaines.

Klitzke said yesterday that he has enjoyed working in Des Plaines and serving its residents. He and his wife, Margaret, have not yet decided what retirement plans they will follow.

During his term as librarian, a 3,000-square-foot addition and an enlarged parking area were added to the library building at Graceland Avenue and Thacker Street, which was constructed in 1959.

The addition includes increased office space, a bookmobile garage, and a new room for magazine collections. Use of the additional storage space in the new garage provided space to house 10,000 more books for adults and 4,000 more books for children.

The new parking lot, completed last November, contained 50 spaces and replaced a 17-space lot. It also provided easier access from Graceland and Thacker.

The library board purchased a bookmobile in June, 1969. The bookmobile now stops monthly at several Des Plaines schools, parks and firestations.

As a member of the North Suburban Library System (NSLS), the Des Plaines library became the area center for biographical books, with a 6,000-volume collection.

The library also provided several new services as a member of the NSLS, which allowed Des Plaines residents to receive books and magazines from other suburban libraries.

Also, during Klitzke's term, the children's book collection was expanded and new programs were begun.

Under Mrs. Davis's direction, programs included hobby shows, clown days, science fiction story days, and programs for non-English speaking youngsters.

Deny Psychiatric Test For Middleton Accuser

Criminal Court Judge Robert Downing yesterday refused to order a psychiatric examination for one of the women who said Dr. James G. Middleton sexually assaulted her in his Des Plaines office.

The ruling came late yesterday afternoon following a motion filed earlier in the day by Edward Genson, Dr. Middleton's attorney. In an affidavit signed by him, Genson outlined his basis for the request.

Judge Downing said although he feels the court has the authority to order such an examination, he also feels Genson's affidavit was not sufficient to justify ordering the test.

Moments earlier Judge Downing denied Genson's request to throw out the arrest warrant which enabled Cook County Sheriff's Police to arrest Dr. Middleton in his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, Dec. 1. The judge said the defense failed to show any grounds for quashing the warrant.

DR. MIDDLETON has been charged by two of his former women patients with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery. The alleged sexual attacks came after the doctor gave them drugs to make them more receptive to the attacks according to the women.

Judge Downing did not, however, rule on a third defense motion, which has been the subject of a hearing for the past three days.

After hearing more than three hours of arguments from both sides, Downing said he would "take under advisement" a motion to throw out all evidence collected at the time of the arrest. The judge said he will issue the court's decision on that motion Dec. 2 at 10 a.m.

Genson has requested all the evidence be suppressed because, he contends, the search and seizure were illegal.

Plan Seminars On Voting Procedures

The social science department at Maine West High School in Des Plaines will sponsor seminars to instruct students in voting procedures.

They will be held throughout the school year at times and dates officials said will be announced in the near future.

Eleanor Rohrbach, Des Plaines City Clerk, has been invited to speak at one of the seminars to explain voting registration in Des Plaines.

An attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, Edward Parsons, has also been invited to speak on the problems students may encounter with voting registration when they are attending out-of-town colleges or universities.

Representatives from the League of Women Voters and the Democratic, Republican and Independent parties have also been invited to speak at the seminars.

Directed by social science teachers James Martin and William Kiddle, the seminars will be primarily for seniors since many of them are 18 years old and eligible to register to vote.

However, school officials said social science students and students with free periods during seminars are also invited to attend.

Officials said candidates for Governor of Illinois may also be invited to speak at the seminars, including Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, Thomas Foran, and Daniel Walker.

Burglar Takes $8,000 In Jewelry

Jewelry valued at more than $8,000 was reported stolen Tuesday night from a room at a local motel, according to Des Plaines police.

According to police reports, Virginia Engbarth of Oak Park, Mich. said she and her daughter placed the jewelry in suitcases in their room at the Royal Court Inn, 1750 S. Elmhurst Rd., and left for about an hour.

On returning, Mrs. Engbarth told police they found the room door open and the jewelry missing from the suitcases. She estimated the value of the items, which she said included two rings and a watch, at $8,105, according to police reports.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a board of inquiry to study the deadlocked Atlantic and Gulf Coast dock strike, the first step in a series of actions that could lead to a court-ordered 80-day return to work.

The Price Commission has approved a 4.5 per cent average price increase for Chrysler Corp. cars and trucks, but lopped 0.8 per cent off the company's request. It was the sixth increase approved and the first to be cut back. Chrysler had asked for a 5.9 per cent increase.

State Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said President Nixon's multi-billion dollar package of tax cuts might not be revived in Congress if Nixon vetoes it. Republican congressional leaders have said Nixon is considering a veto if the bill reaches his desk with a Democratic-sponsored amendment to finance presidential campaigns through a $1 tax check-off system.

The World

Pakistani officials reported heavy fighting in border areas on three sides of East Pakistan, but said Indian troops were pushed back and government troops recaptured a border outpost and two other areas, killing 200 Indians in one clash and killing and wounding 300 in another.

The War

South Vietnamese paratroopers swooped into Cambodia's Chup rubber plantation, heart of the Communist sanctuaries northwest of Saigon, while armored units thrust west to link up with them on Highway Seven. Meanwhile, mess cooks are preparing Thanksgiving Day turkey dinners for 184,000 GIs, the lowest troop level in the war zone in six years. American troops will eat 236,000 pounds of turkey.

The Weather

An ice and snow storm moved across the upper Ohio Valley and central Appalachians to the Northeast, making driving hazardous in many areas for early Thanksgiving day.

Temperatures from around the nation:

The Market

The stock market came up to the Thanksgiving break on the plus side but it didn't surprise the experts, who a day earlier had watched the Dow Jones Average slip below 800 for the first time in a year. The blue chip barometer managed a net gain of 0.66 at 798.63. Advances topped declines, 739 to 627, but volume slowed to 11,870,000 shares from 16,840,000 traded the day before. Prices scored a token advance on the American Exchange in light trading.

No Test For Middleton's Accuser

torney, claims the police had the right to search the premises because they had reason to fear for their safety and that of citizens in the area. He also said the police believed at the time some of the items could be used as evidence against the doctor on the sex charges.

AMONG THE ITEMS confiscated were: artificial devices for sexual stimulation, pornographic material, photos, films, tape recording equipment, camera equipment and explosives materials.

In his affidavit, Genson requested the order for a psychiatric examination for one of the women who said she was attacked by the doctor in his former office at 632 W. Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines.

Genson said he was present when the woman testified at a medical board hearing. He said the woman said at that time she was in a "rundown condition" the day of the alleged attack and also had been in an automobile accident the same day.

Genson said the woman told the medical board she was in a "dazed condition" from medication the doctor allegedly gave her during the alleged attack and "couldn't fully perceive the circumstances of the incident."

The attorney also said she failed to report alleged previous molestations by the doctor and had in fact returned to him for further treatment.

THE AFFIDAVIT ALSO said the woman failed to report the alleged attack for several months and that she had set up a booth in a shopping center soliciting petitions for the promotion of Donald Shaw, the officer who arrested Dr. Middleton.

Kavanaugh argued successfully that the statements made by Genson were not relevant and did not show that the woman is incompetent to testify.

After Judge Downing issues a decision on the motion to suppress, the actual trial of the doctor is expected to begin about the second week in December.

Harper English Course Provides Welcome

There is a welcome at William Rainey Harper College in Palatine for persons who may not as yet understand the English word "welcome."

The Harper program in English as a second language has been expanded through an increased state grant for 1971-72, according to Marc Savard, director of governmental relations.

The special course is offered free of charge to foreign speaking adults who are at one of four levels of learning the English language. Last year, instruction on only three levels was available.

In 1970-71 the program enrollment included 99 per cent Spanish-speaking students. This year three-fourths of the total are Spanish-speaking. Other students are from Japan, Finland, Greece, Russia, Iran, Lithuania, Germany, Poland, Israel, Thailand and Switzerland.

According to Mrs. Noreen Lopez, coordinator of the program, "Some students have had a good education in their own language, while others have had little education at all. Some persons want to learn enough English to hold a job or acquire a better job."

Mrs. Lopez adds that "Others have worked in professions in their own country. They want to become proficient enough in English so they can continue in their profession here."

Students may join classes at any time. During this fall semester, 105 students are enrolled in the English program with others expected to join. Last year the total enrollment for both 1970-71 semesters was 143.

So that more individuals may be reached, the course is taught at industrial firms in the Harper district as well as on the college campus. Classes are held two nights a week at Motorola in Schaumburg and three nights at Spotnails, Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

Transportation for students is a problem, says Mrs. Lopez, even at the industrial plants. She tells of a recent case where four students were forced to drop the after-work classes at Motorola when their driver changed his schedule.

Many students return to classes for more than one season. Two Spanish-speaking former students are now working as para-professionals in the program.

In addition to classroom introduction of materials, and small group laboratory drill sessions, the program will soon include tape cassettes for individual study.

Mrs. Lopez tells of future expansion plans, "We are working with the Northwest Opportunity Center in an attempt to set up classes near Des Plaines. This would help students of that area who have transportation problems."

Also to aid new residents, a series of three consumer education classes will be held in Spanish during December. The sessions will be held at the Congregational United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights Dec. 2, Dec. 9 and Dec. 16, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

The increased state grant has also made possible the addition of a basic reading class for English-speaking adults. Instruction is given from first through eighth grade levels.

Teaching English as a Second Language had been sponsored by the Illinois Migrant Council and held in area schools. Last year classes began at Harper College, and are now administered through Harper's office of evening and continuing education.

For further information, interested residents should telephone 359-4200, extension 301 or inquire at the Office of Evening and Continuing Education, Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle Roads, Palatine.

Area Bilingual Program Heads Named

A teacher and an aide have been named by Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 officials to head a new state-funded bilingual program for Spanish-speaking students to begin in January.

Pat Barker, Spanish teacher at Maple and South schools in Des Plaines, will head the program, which is designed to teach first through third grade Spanish-speaking students English while teaching them other academic subjects in Spanish.

Josephine Mallett, a native of Mexico, will be her aide. The two are at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb this week attending a bilingual education workshop, according to Robert Reinke, Dist. 62 assistant superintendent.

The new bilingual program, which was approved by the board of education earlier this month, will be offered to about 30 Spanish-speaking students at North and Central schools in Des Plaines.

Miss Barker and Mrs. Mallett will teach at Central in the morning and at North in the afternoon. According to Reinke, these schools serve most of the 90 to 110 Spanish-speaking students enrolled in Des Plaines elementary schools.

Miss Barker is a graduate of Chicago's Northeastern University and has done graduate work at several colleges. She has studied in Argentina, Mexico and Spain. She came to the district in 1969 after 2½ years of teaching in Chicago.

She said the program will give Spanish-speaking students who are not fluent in English a chance to keep up academically with their English-speaking classmates.

Because many Spanish-speaking students speak no English when they begin school, the program will also give them the chance gradually to learn to speak English without having language lessons dominate all of their classroom work, depriving them of lessons in other subjects, Miss Barker said.

Dist. 62's Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL) program is available to Des Plaines' Spanish-speaking students once they reach fourth grade. Although TESL has been in existence for several years, school officials said it has never been offered to first, second and third graders.

Robert Cowell, district assistant superintendent of curriculum, said when the program was approved, "If we included all of the Spanish-speaking first, second and third graders in Dist. 62 we would have way more than we could handle. At North and Central we'll have two full classes of 15 students each."

Cowell added, "Fortunately that will take care of the students who have the greatest needs. The rest of the younger students are less deficient in English and can wait until they are old enough for TESL."

Cowell said Miss Barker will have to develop the curriculum for the program since no bilingual materials are currently available on such subjects as social studies, math, science, music, art and physical education.

During the half day the Spanish-speaking students are not participating in this bilingual program, they will join their regular first, second or third grade classes.

Staff salaries and materials purchased for the program will be reimbursed by the state, Cowell said. Whether the program will be continued and expanded to other district schools on a yearly basis will depend on its success and on continued state funding, he added.

Dist. 62 is one of the first in Illinois to receive funding for such a program, Cowell said. Although Chicago schools have had bilingual teaching for several years, he said, funds for the rest of the state became available only this fall.

The district applied for some of these funds, Cowell said, to meet the needs of the increasing number of Spanish-speaking families moving yearly into Des Plaines.

Dorothy Bishop, the district's Spanish consultant, will supervise the program when it begins. Christine Wolinski, Spanish substitute teacher for the district, will replace Miss Barker at South and Maple schools.

Scouting News

Fifteen Cub Scouts from Pack 160 capped the honors for design and speed at their annual Pinewood Derby Race recently.

About 50 Scouts entered cars they designed and built for the race at Einstein School. Using the computer built by Guy Hobart two years ago, race officials announced the following winners: Brad Holtzinger, Webelo Scout, first place; David Bohnen, second; Kevin Ryan, third; Bill Blohm, fourth and John Bonefas, Webelo, fifth Others were Jim Schmelter, sixth place; Steve Leuthner, seventh; Russell Jobski, Webelo, eighth; Steve Engel ninth and Mike Lundye, tenth.

Winners of best car design were David Bohnen, first; Bill Blohm, second; John Bonefas, third; Kevin Ryan, fourth and David Cox, fifth.

First place winners received an STP jacket or STP T-shirt and cap. Other winners received Andy Granatelli's book, "They Call Me Mister '500' " and all winners had their cars mounted on trophy stands made by John Cox.

Chairman of the event was Sam Creason, Webelo den leader.

The next big project on the Scouts' agenda will be distribution of toys and needed items to boys at the Northwestern University Settlement House, Dec. 18. The boys are also in the midst of a candy drive.

Eight Girl Scout Troops, their leaders and parents of St. Emily's School in Mount Prospect, will take part in a guitar Mass of Thanksgiving, followed by a "Harvest Social and "Sing-a-Long," on Wednesday, December 1, beginning at 7 p.m. in the school basement at Central Rd. and Horner Lane in Mount Prospect. The eight troops consist of 4 Brownie Troops, 3 Jr. Troops and one Cadette Troop.

Father Richard Fassbinder, Girl Scout Chaplain for St. Emily's, will celebrate the mass, and some of the girls will act as moderators by reading parts of the liturgy. Father Fassbinder will give the homily or conduct a dialogue with the girls.

The social and "Sing-a-Long" will follow mass. Two fathers of the girls will lead the entertainment. Bob Wagner will play piano, and Bob Boylan will conduct the sing-a-long. Refreshments will be served. This will be the first parent-daughter event of the year.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. Bernard Mullen. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Frank Gilligan and Bob Burhop. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Mullen at 297-3785.

A special treat was given to the members and parents of Devonshire Boy Scout Troop No. 263 by Mits and Tad Ono of One Brothers Automotive. They brought their "Rail" dragster to the Universal Oil Products Co. parking lot for an actual demonstration.

They "lit up" the racing machine and fully explained and demonstrated the automotive safety requirements. Thanks to the Ono Brothers and UOP, the boys had a very interesting and educational afternoon.

Seek Opinions On Unit District

Letters have gone out to boards of education in Wheeling and Elk Grove townships from Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 asking opinions on formation of a unit school district.

The letters, over the signature of Board Pres. Harold Harvey, went out early last week, but no boards have replied.

Earlier this month the board decided to send the letters to other board presidents to find out if any other boards in the area are interested in studying consolidation.

If other boards are interested, the Dist. 59 board has suggested an informal meeting to see whether to pursue the idea through a formal study.

IN HIS ANNUAL report in August, Supt. James Erviti recommended studying the question of having High School Dist. 214 absorb all underlying feeder elementary districts to form a unit school district including kindergarten through twelfth grade.

IF THE DISTRICTS combined, the area would receive more state aid than they do now because the state formula for aid penalizes dual school districts in which elementary and high schools are under separate districts.

High School Dist. 214 has more than 17,000 students in seven high schools, with an eighth high school under construction. The district draws from six elementary districts and a portion of a seventh.

Besides Dist. 59, Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Wheeling Dist. 21, Prospect Heights Dist. 23, River Trails Dist. 26, Mount Prospect Dist. 57 and a portion of Palatine Dist. 15 send students to Dist. 214.

John Birch Society Circulates Petition

The Des Plaines chapter of the John Birch Society is circulating petitions asking President Nixon to cancel his trip to Red China next year, according to a statement issued by the group.

The Birch society, a right wing political organization, has found that most persons in Des Plaines who are given an opportunity to sign the petition are anxious to do so, according to David Holcomb of the local chapter.

Holcomb said the group is also distributing literature in a campaign to get the United States out of the United Nations.

"American membership in the U.N. has become particularly untenable since the admission of Red China and the expulsion of free China," he said in the statement.

Flowers For Algernon Is Maine West Play

"Flowers for Algernon," the play that was the basis for the 1968 movie "Charley," has been selected for Maine West High School's senior class play.

Tryouts will be held at 3:30 p.m. Nov. 29 and 30 and Dec. 1 in room L-101. Scripts may be obtained in advance in room L-104. According to drama teacher Ronald Mills, who will direct the play, 17 female and nine male roles must be cast.

Holy Family Staff Donates Blood

Holy Family Hospital employes became the first official hospital group to volunteer blood at the new North Suburban Blood Center, 1748 Waukegan Rd., Glenview.

The new cooperative patient care service is sponsored by the North Shore Assn. of Health Resources, whose 12 member hospitals and other health organizations serve Northwest and Northern suburbs. Holy Family employes gave a total of 53 units of blood to launch the new program.

Football Feast On Turkey Day

by HARMON STAFF

Number One battles Number Two on Thanksgiving Day, and Thumber Three thrashes it out with Number Six on Saturday.

As we said last week, copy will abound this week on Nebraska-Oklahoma. In the Harmon book, the Cornhusker power quotient is just two points stronger than the Sooners, but whatever happens, you may be sure that a lot of mouth-watering turkey dinners all over the nation will suffer from cute footballitis.

Saturday's clash between the two Alabama unbeatens, Auburn and Alabama, won't run into any conflict with Thanksgiving dinners — possible only cold turkey for the losers. The Southeast Conference championship is squarely on the line in this 36th renewal of the Battle of Alabama. Georgia's inability to stop Auburn two weeks ago surprised us . . . the Crimson Tide might have the same problem, but we don't think so. Alabama will "hold that Tiger" just a bit better . . . Auburn is the underdog by six points.

Army meets Navy in the Big Tradition in Philadephia. The Cadets have shown a few more flashes of brilliance than the Middies, but as usual it can be anybody's ball game. On paper, it's West Point over Annapolis by two points.

In all the years we've been rating the college division teams (small colleges?), we've never had such a powerful Number One team as Delaware is this year. Nor have we had one that has been so far out in front of the rest of the pack as are the Blue Hens. Temple, now classed as a major school, was the only team to beat Delaware. Eight points back, in second place, is Tampa, with unbeaten Tennessee State and McNeese State third and fourth respectively.

On Thanksgiving Day, Texas will nail down the coffin containing the rest of the teams in the Southwest Conference. The Longhorns, No. 11, will win the league crown and earn the host's spot in the Cotton Bowl with an 18-point victory over Texas A & M. Seventh-ranked Georgia will whip the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech by 14 points.

In the Southwest and far West, two of the nation's powerhouses will close out their 1971 seasons. Tenth-ranked Arizona State, beaten only by Oregon State, will beat archrival Arizona by 28 points, and Houston No. 12, will scalp Utah, also by 28 points.

In one of the climaxes to the 1971 college football season on Dec. 4th, 5th-ed Penn State will beat Tennessee, No. 18, by 13 points.

St. Rita Still No. 1 In Rating After Big Scare

by LARRY MYLNCZAK

St. Rita remains No. 1 in the Herald's Chicagoland Area football ratings but never before has the Mustangs' position been in such jeopardy.

The Mustangs had to battle from behind last Sunday to nip Mendel 28-21. Mendel, after trailing 20-7 at one point, rallied to take a 21-20 lead in the fourth quarter before St. Rita staged its final, winning drive.

In the only other action which affected the ratings, Loyola ripped Gordon Tech 46-23 and Marist was tied by Immaculate Conception 12-12.

With its fine showing against, St. Rita, Mendel moved from 16th to 15th in the ratings. Loyola jumped from seventh to fifth while Gordon Tech remained in 14th. Marist fell from 12th to 17th with the tie against Immaculate Conception.

Evanston, East Leyden and Eisenhower remained second, third, and fourth respectively. Glenbard West and Holy Cross each fell one notch to make room for Loyola in the fifth spot.

Niles West in eighth, Homewood-Flossmoor in ninth, Hinsdale Central in 10th and Thornridge in 11th were unchanged from the week before.

Downers Grove North moved up one spot to 12th and Elk Grove went up two positions to 13th. Glenbard East moved up one notch to 16th while Deerfield, Ridgewood and Glenbrook North remained in 18th, 19th, and 20th respectively.

St. Rita will take on Loyola this weekend for the Chicago Catholic League championship. The victor will play in the Prep Bowl game in Soldier Field the following weekend against the Public League champ.

No matter who wins either league title, the Catholic League champion should be favored by something like 30 points — or more.

Elk Grove Sweeps Four

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Association teams enjoyed another successful week, sweeping all four games from Streamwood Park District. Three wins were routs and only two goals were allowed by Elk Grove in the four contests.

In Bantam action, Elk Grove was a 4-1 winner. Gary Pratscher scored first, assisted by Mark Gustafson and Joe Uhlarik. Mike Walsh got the next score, assisted by Steve Phillips. Gustafson got the third goal from Bob Brunn and Uhlarik and Brunn tacked on the final tally on another Uhlarik assist.

The Bantams also played a non-conference game against Hoffman Estates battling to a 2-2 tie. Steve Cimino played well as goalie for Elk Grove. Uhlarik scored the first goal unassisted. Elk Grove's other score was by Brian Rutkowski, assisted by Bill Javers and Walsh.

The Midget game went to Elk Grove by an overwhelming 11-0. John Javers got his first shutout of the season in goal. Ron Cleckler led the scoring with a three-goal hat trick. Mike Wallman added two goals, Sven Overland had a goal and assist, Greg Ibarra a goal and Frank Ferraro and Larry Mitch assists.

Other scoring was by Harold Bishop with a goal and two assists, Mark Christensen and Ray Fedel with a goal apiece, and Rob Goeske with a goal and assist. Bill Halfpenny, John Foster and John Gallagher barely missed scoring as their shots hit the net post.

Elk Grove won the Squirt game 9-0 for its sixth straight win to remain in first place. The Pee Wee game went to Elk Grove by an 11-1 score.

The same four teams will go against Dundee next Wednesday, Dec. 1 sith the Squirts starting at 6:00, the Pee Wees at 7:10, Bantams at 8:20 and Midgets at 9:30. The Village Realty Juveniles will take on Schaumburg Sunday, Nov. 28.

Wright Speed, Work At Line Jolt Hawk Five

Lightning-quick Wright, capitalizing on Harper turnovers and cashing with regularity at the free throw line, broke open a tight game in the second half Tuesday evening and rolled to a 103-83 victory over the visiting Hawks.

Harper, making its debut with new head coach Dave Etienne, only trailed by one at halftime, but the swift Rams, playing their third game of the young season, started working the boards with more authority and using their speed to good advantage in rolling to the victory.

"We're better than we showed," said Hawk coach Etienne. "I know the kids know that and that's important. We had foul problems and losing Spry (Don) for so long took away our rebounding in the second half.

"You have to give credit to Wright, they used their speed, and they took away a lot of things that we wanted to do, but they had played two games already and that had to help."

Harper, shooting a dazzling .532 from the floor and matching Wright in baskets, just didn't make enough trips to the free throw line. The host Rams hit on 38 of 51 free throws and four Harper players had five fouls.

"Don (Spry) picked up four in the first half and actually played only about 10 or 12 minutes in the game," said Etienne. "We rebounded better in the first half and held them to only three offensive rebounds then. They had us 24-11 rebounding in the second half and our fouling and turnovers were the difference too."

Harper showed good firepower on the attack with reliable Kevin Barthule taking game honors with 11 baskets and 7 free throws for 29 points.

"Kevin did a great job," enthused Etienne. "He's the closest to the complete type of player we have and one of the hardest working kids I've ever coached."

Jeff Algaier tossed in 19 points and Terry Rohan 16.

"We know what we have to work on," said Etienne, "and we'll just keep pushing it until we get it right. Our inability to get back on the fast break showed. We knew we were weak on it and we'll just have to emphasize it more now. These kids will be okay. This is a good group."

Harper plays Prairie State Friday night at seven o'clock at the College of DuPage, Lambert Road and 22nd Street, Glen Ellen.

Rebuilding Year Ahead

"It looks like this will be a rebuildng year."

These are the words of Maine West swimming coach Kent Howenstine, who is in his first year as head coach of the Warrior swimmers.

"Though it may be a rebuilding year," Howenstine says, "our boys are looking to establish a swimming tradition here. Our seniors are stepping in as leaders and they would like to leave tradition behind here."

Among Howenstine's top seniors this winter will be Dave Dettman, Steve Dueball, Don Hudson and Steve Mammoser.

Dettman set a school record last year in the 200-yard freestyle and will swim that event and the 400-yard freestyle this season.

Dueball missed a berth in the state meet by one-tenth of a second in the 100-yard breaststroke last year, but Howenstine says, "He is going to make it to state this year."

Hudson is Maine West's best in the 200-yard individual medley and Mammoser is a veteran in the 100-yard butterfly.

Howenstine hopes to build Maine West's budding tradition with a fine crop of juniors.

Chip Essig set a school sophomore record in the 100-yard butterfly last year, Greg Lanbrechts had a fine sophomore season in the sprint freestyles, Doug Meister is a breaststroker, Garyt Dahl placed third in the sophomore conference meet in the 400-yard freestyle and Rick Weaver and John Stanonis are capable divers.

The Warriors opened their 1971-72 season yesterday against Proviso West in the Maine West Pool.

Just Dogs

by Dave Terrill

Christmas and the new puppy —

Youngsters in many a family have been beseeching parents for months that a new puppy would be just about the best Christmas present that they could ever have.

The result has been a number of family conferences about what breed to get — please, don't plan on an Irish Wolfhound in an apartment — and who will take care of the puppy.

Parents should be aware that although a child sincerely intends to take care of the animal, the job may be a little too much through no fault of his own. Puppies have to be taken out of doors at least three times a day. With school involved during the week, mothers will have the chore.

Most important, do not plan to bring the puppy home the evening before the big day. Christmas Day is not the time to introduce the new arrival to a strange household. Plan on bringing the pup home at least three or more days before Christmas, so that he can become acquainted with everyone. Also a definite routine will have been worked out relative to feeding, etc., that can be followed through on Christmas Day.

A word about feeding, be sure to follow through with the same feeding that the pup has become accustomed; the schedule and brands of food will be given to you by reputable breeders. The holiday season is no time to experiment with different foods.

One last thought on the subject. It is said with truth that the best reason to give a youngster a dog is that it teaches him what a parent has to go through, and why sensible parental correction is necessary.

Winter is here —

That time of year has arrived that calls for a checkup of your dog's living quarters if he is outside. Make sure that the opening has some protection — nothing like a dog house with a wide open door to bring on colds and stiff muscles.

Most important when the temperature goes below freezing is that the water dish will have to be checked and refilled more often. A dog can lick ice, but he will have to spend too much time doing it to get the proper amount of water intake that he needs.

Another thing, a dog's coat is important to him during the winter months. Don't neglect a brushing now and then to keep it in good shape. Some long-haired breeds require it every few days.

Above all, if you have your dog indoors don't let him curl up next to a radiator, fireplace or hot-air vent during the winter months. Heat tends to dry out a dog's coat and he needs a good healthy one when taken outdoors in cold weather.

Excessive tearing —

Owners and breeders of dogs who have experienced the problem of excessive tearing with their animals that causes unsightly face staining may soon get some help from a research project just begun at the University of Illinois.

The project is sponsored by Seeing Eye, Inc., Morristown, N.J., through grants from the Morris Animal Foundation of Denver. In charge of the project is Lloyd C. Helper, D.V.M., M.S., the canine eye specialist at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.

Besides information on excessive tearing, the project may also provide knowledge on the more serious problem of "dry eye" (keratoconjunctivitis sicca), which can cause blindness.

Barks & Bays —

Now the Christmas present for dogs who love to chew. Shown at a recent pet industry trade show, a 27-pound, chewable rawhide bone, that's four feet long. The price is supposed to be $110.

Oakton College Students Elect

A Des Plaines girl is among the Oakton Community College students elected last week to student government offices.

Sue Listman, of 9010 Ballard Rd., is one of seven board of student affairs members. The board will meet weekly to discuss students' problems and needs and organize school organizations and activities.

Elected as student coordinator for Oakton was Dan Abrams of Skokie. His duties will include presiding over the board of student affairs and a three-member appointed student judicial board, serving on the college president's advisory committee and acting as an official representative of Oakton at public events.

Other Oakton students elected to the board of student affairs include Park Ridge students Dan Sullivan, Bill Lutz, Marge Mahoney and Wes Robb, Kevin Roach of Morton Grove, Tom Trayes of Niles.

Band Will Take A Flying Trip

The Forest View High School marching band will take a free trip on a DC-10 Friday, courtesy of United Air Lines.

The plane will take off from O'Hare International Airport at 9 a.m. for an hour flight The flight has been scheduled to thank members of the band and the Falcettes, a girls' drill team, for performing last month at the dedication of the first DC-10 purchased by United.

Fred Elliot, band director, and Lawrence Jenness, principal will accompany the approximately 100 students on the flight.

The $16.5 million plane started customer service in October for flights to and from Chicago. Forest View High School is at 2121 S. Goebbert Rd. in Arlington Heights

Aid Group Will Hold Party

A Northwest suburban social aid organization will sponsor a party Saturday night in Des Plaines for area residents who are members of minority groups.

Focus, an organization of 25 human relations and social action groups, has invited minority families to Maryville Academy, 1150 River Rd., to help them become acquainted, and to raise funds for a Focus-sponsored series of symposiums on social problems, according to Focus spokesman, Clyde Brooks.

Brooks said 65 families from Des Plaines, Schaumburg, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington, Elk Grove Village and Hanover Park have been invited.

Focus plans to sponsor seminars on the first and third Wednesdays of each month through March at Maryville on Christian social action and the problems of the poor, the sick and the elderly, Brooks said.

New Staff Chaplain At Hospital

The Rev. Merton Fish has been appointed a staff chaplain in the pastoral care department of Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. He had completed Lutheran General's one-year residency in clinical pastoral education in July.

Pastor Fish is a graduate of Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minn., and received his bachelor's degree from Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn. He has served as parish pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Stevens Point, Wis., and had previously received clinical chaplaincy training at Northern and Southern Wisconsin State Hospitals.

Central Telephone & Utilities Corp. installed its one millionth telephone on Sept. 30. 1971, double the number it served on Feb. 28, 1963, eight years ago.

Growth this year for the nation's fourth largest Independent Telephone System is projected at 68,000 new stations. The Centel System has telephone operations in 10 states including Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Nevada, Florida, North Carolina, Virginia and Kansas.

Central Telephone Co. of Illinois operates 20 exchanges in three districts: Park Ridge-Des Plaines, Dixon and Pekin. totaling more than 170,000 telephones. Approximately 119,000 of the stations are located in the Park Ridge-Des Plaines District, 20,000 in the Dixon District and 31,000 in Pekin District.

Total assets of corporation reached a new high of $712 million as of Sept. 30. This is double the $365 million recorded in July, 1965. Centel Pres. Clarence Ross predicts that at the corporation's present rate of growth total assets will approach one billion dollars by Dec. 31, 1974.

Ross estimates earnings of $25.4 million for common stock for the 12 months ending Sept. 30, 1971, or primary earnings of $1.53 per common share. He estimates $1.56 earnings for the year. A dividend of 22.5 cents per share was declared on Sept. 2, 1971 payable Oct. 30, 1971.

Centel System construction expenditures for 1971 will exceed $130 million with more than $120 million of that earmarked for telephone operations. Centel has more than 10,000 employees with an annual payroll of over $80 million. Approximately 1,700 employes are located in Illinois with nearly 1,100 in the Park Ridge-Des Plaines area.

WHEN SHE COUNSELS area teenagers who seek her help on such health problems as venereal disease and pregnancy, nurse Esther Kulp of Cook County Health Department dons casual clothes. She finds that makes the kids more comfortable than the usual starched white uniform of a nurse.

Ester Kulp Is There

When Teens Need A Friend

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Troubled teens in the northwest suburbs have a friend they call Esther.

Esther wears blue jeans and her long dark hair swings at her shoulders. She likes kids, and judging by the response she receives from teens asking for help with unwanted or feared pregnancies and venereal disease, kids in this area like her. More than that, they trust her.

"They tell me, I am glad you are here. I had no else to go to!"

What these kids didn't know at first is that Esther Kulp, 24, is a nurse who works for the north district of Cook County Public Health Department.

Miss Kulp earned the trust of high schoolers this past summer when she worked out of The Bridge in Palatine. A 10-week pilot program to reach and help kids with special health problems first was sparked by Mrs. Addie Renninger, health educator for the public health department. Mrs. Renninger contacted the Palatine Youth Commission and worked closely with Emerson Thomas, late director of The Bridge, to set up the trial program. Because of her special interest, skills and appeal Esther Kulp joined the effort.

TO CUT DOWN on "professional aura" and to make kids more comfortable, Esther works out of uniform. The young nurse, who holds a bachelor of science in nursing from North Park College in Chicago, spent three and a half weeks on the streets or "wherever kids hang out" to gain their confidence before she told them she was a nurse. The kids themselves spread the word that she was reliable. Esther said. Soon she was helping and counseling "confused and scared" suburban youngsters with sex related and other health problems.

Esther's first contact approached her in the company of two girl friends to "try her out," she recalled with a smile. The pregnant girl was 17. Since last June, Miss Kulp has talked to 40 or more girls between 17 and 23, with the average age 15 to 17. About one-third of them proved to be pregnant.

"Confidential" is the name of the game when you offer to help teenagers. Esther never contacts parents unless teens request her to do so. When a frightened girl comes to her (or her boy friend telephones for information), the first step is to determine if the girl is pregnant. Anxiety and other emotional factors often delay the menstrual cycle, she explained. The girl is referred to a physician or a clinic — both of which help in confidence — to determine the pregnancy.

ONCE A GIRL tests pregnant, Esther adheres to health department philosophy. "I talk to the girl about what she wants to do. and point out alternatives she may choose." These alternatives are getting married, obtaining a legal abortion under age 18, with parental consent, giving up the baby for adoption, or keeping the baby. In this area, most girls are choosing legal abortion with the help of their parents, Esther reports.

Sometimes a pregnancy is complicated by venereal disease. Help for those suspecting VD is readily available by contacting Esther at either The Bridge in Palatine, 359-7490 or The Place for People in Des Plaines, 297-4384. Or a call may be made to north district office in Des Plaines for Rita Bakewell at 827-5188.

Appointments will be made in the community the patient chooses . . . with no questions asked, assures Miss Bakewell, nursing supervisor at that office.

AT THIS TIME about 25 area physicians are cooperating with the county health department in diagnosis and treatment of VD. Stressing the department's determination to protect the patient's privacy, Rita says all who help go to great lengths to maintain confidentiality. This protection extends to minors and is upheld by Illinois law which reads in part: "The consent of the parent, parents, or legal guardian of such minor will not be necessary to authorize medical care related to diagnosis and treatment of such disease." Nor must the physician inform the patient's parents, according to the law.

Cook County Health Department advocates more VD educational information for teenagers . . . and favors instigation of an educational program as an elective course at high school level, according to Miss Bakewell.

NURSE ESTHER KULP is helping area teens to work out their various health problems. She never tells them what she thinks they should do, but they discuss possible consequences of their behavior. Most come to her for birth control information. Esther refers them to cooperating physicians or clinics.

Two such clinics are Planned Parenthood's Teen Scene and Evanston Health Department Clinic. Both operate under the Illinois statute which authorizes medical doctors to supervise and control birth control services to certain minors. This includes one who is married, or who is a parent, or who is pregnant or who has the consent of his parent or legal guardian. It also includes any to whom failure to provide such services would create a serious health hazard or who is referred for such services by a physician, clergyman or a Planned Parenthood agency. "The clinics use their own judgment," said Esther.

Ombudswoman For Sick

She's On The Patient's Side

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —To Anne Alexis Corte, former nurse, the patient is the most important person in the hospital. If necessary, she will go right to the director's door to see that the attitude prevails among the total staff.

Miss Corte represents a new trend on the national hospital scene — an ombudswoman, the liaison between patient and all those involved in caring for him or her, the person who sees that a complaint or request does not get bogged down in some departmental red tape. She's the direct line to the top.

It is not an easy job for the striking auburn-haired Miss Corte (prounced cortay). She works at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, one of the largest medical complexes in the nation last year, the hospital's in and out-patient load totaled nearly 245,000.

SHE ESTIMATES that last year she saw some 1,500 of these personally and concedes that's only touching the surface — "obviously not getting to all the problems."

But the direct line idea is expanding. Miss Corte said in an interview that some 80 hospitals have named patient representatives and that a newly-formed organization, the Association of Patient Service Representatives (she is the secretary), has petitioned the American Hospital Association for affiliation.

"When in doubt you take the patient's side," said Miss Corte. "It may be something as simple as a patient complaining there was no orange juice on her breakfast tray. Maybe she didn't want orange juice at all. Maybe she wanted attention."

OR IT MAY BE more complicated, since New York is a teaching hospital and "sometimes the patient feels like a guinea pig with so many doctors around." In such a case, she listens to the patient's complaints, goes to the floor's resident doctor and asks him to explain to the patient why other doctors also are around.

It may be a problem with bills. Or pills. "Many doctors now tell the patient what pills he's on and why," said Miss Corte. "The patient who wants to know should be informed."

Miss Corte, who's from the South Jersey resort town of Margate, came into her job as ombudswoman because of a back injury suffered while lifting a patient. Some monitoring equipment toppled onto her.

It ended the three and one-half year career she'd spent as R.N. at New York-Cornell. But while she was recovering — "in a strange hospital" — she began to see acutely why patients left with little self-identification except a wristband with their name tag and number on it, would have fears and anxieties.

DURING CONVALESCENCE, she talked one day with Dr. David Thompson, New York Hospital director, about "the problems patients face when they are hospitalized." Why not a patient representative? Why not, Thompson said, and appointed her with full responsibility for reporting directly to him.

She concedes that some patients can be difficult, trying for doctors, nurses, aides and all. "But the problem is they're sick," she said, emphasizing again the patient first.

"Surely," she continued, "the staff is human too and also may have pressures. There is no excuse for rudeness, say . . .

"The staff should be geared to the patient. The onus falls on the professional to adjust."

Toys Are Big Business

by HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When mom and dad shell out the cold cash for Christmas toys they are well-aware that the real Santa's workshop is not populated by charming little elves but by engineers, industrial designers and market researchers.

These are the professionals responsible for giving birth to the toys that find their way under the nation's Christmas trees every year.

The toy business is big business — $3.6 billion a year at retail — and very few toys reach the market by accident.

Erwin Benkoe, an authority on the toy market and a senior vice president of Ideal Toy Corp., points out that inspiration for today's toys comes largely from three sources — free lance professional inventors, internal industrial designers and company product planners.

"INVENTORS WITH proven track records make presentations regularly," Benkoe explained. "Often they come in with just a germ of an idea or a product in the earliest formative state which triggers the imagination.

"At the same time, each of our divisions — toys, games and dolls — has a staff of creative people whose job is to spot trends and come up with ideas for new playthings. They throw away hundreds of ideas for each one that eventually makes it." This is the case in most big toy companies.

"Product planners approach the situation from the other end. They spot a void in the market and try to develop a product to fill the hole," Benkoe explained.

These decisions are made at their five-story factory in Hollis on Long Island. However, some of the most fascinating experimentation takes place in a small secluded and unidentified building at the end of a dead end street several blocks from the plant. That's headquarters for the advanced engineering department which works on mechanical concepts — not products.

AN EXAMPLE of how this process works is Class A Racing — car sets without batteries, slots or wires.

In the fall, 1969, the company's planners decided to enter the car racing field with "a new and better product," Benkoe said.

"A team made up of an engineer, market researcher and product manager developed a list of negatives for the category and decided our cars and tracks shouldn't need electricity, batteries or slots, should permit passing but stay on the track easily to avoid frustrating younger children and should give participants an opportunity to compete with each other by being physically involved in the race."

The advanced engineering department then developed a new drive mechanism which provided a great deal of energy in a small space utilizing a simple windup technique.

"THE INDUSTRIAL design department designed the cars, pit stops and track and the manufacturing department translated all the ideas into something that could be tooled and manufactured," he continued.

The model shop then produced the prototypes to be presented to the company's marketing management group. "Throughout the entire process," he added, "there were repeated conferences among management and research and development and cost accounting executives.

"The final, refined concept is the result of these last meetings. After starting in early fall 1969, the project went to advanced engineering in November, the final product went for initial production in June, 1970, and was presented to the trades in February, 1971, for delivery to the nation's toy stores this fall."

SHAKER MAKERS, which permit a child to create cute little people, birds and animals, started with an outside inventor.

"He brought in the formula for the powder which became Magic Mix," Benkoe recalled.

"Our laboratories and outside labs worked on the formula to make sure it was 100 per cent safe. After an independent lab certified that it was completely non-toxic, it was submitted to the Food and Drug Administration which gave its approval.

"Industrial designers, under the direction of the product manager, worked on developing the product. It was decided the mixer shoud look like something easily recognizable — a shaker."

Most of the meetings were concerned with the subjects to be made. Scores of children were brought into the factory to play with hundreds of different kinds of figures. A videotape camera, hidden behind a one-way glass, recorded their reactions.

"INANIMATE OBJECTS rated poorest of all tested," Benkoe reported. "The model shop worked up the final figures and designers developed the casting molds. Then it was presented to marketing management."

All this still is a preliminary to the extensive manufacturing, advertising, distribution and sales efforts which bring the toys to the nation's toy counters.

So a lot goes into toymaking before Santa on Christmas Eve gaily calls, "On Dancer, on Prancer, Donner and Blitzen."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

AFTER MONTHS and months of research and development, a toy such as Shaker Makers is on the nation's toy counters. This toy creates cute little people, birds and animals with a special powder and water in two-piece molds.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

A lot of people who grew herbs a little too successfully this summer are on my back.

"What can we do with all these herbs," they want to know. Seems they have enough for the common market.

How about making like Helena Rubenstein and whipping up a few beauty aids?

HERBAL FACIAL SAUNA NO. 1

1 tsp. dried sweet basil
1 tsp. ground fennel seeds
1 tsp. dried peppermint leaves
1 tsp. dried rosemary
1 tsp. gin (90 proof)

Before starting, cleanse your face thoroughly to remove surface grime and makeup. Place gin and herbs in pot and add two quarts of rapidly boiling water. Turn heat off. Don't burn yourself — test steam first, then make a tent over your head and the pot with a Turkish towel. Steam for five minutes. Pat dry. Finish by closing pores with splashes of cool water. Better still, finish with a mask like the following:

OATMEAL REFRESHER-CLEANSER

1 tbsp. ground oatmeal
¼ tsp. dried mint
2 pinches dried rosemary

Combine ingredients and add enough hot water to make a spreadable paste Smooth on gently. Remove when paste is dry. Rinse well with cool water. Follow with a brisk skin tonic.

Lots of beauty queens and movie stars use take-offs on the following for their hair.

EXTRA SHINE RINSE ((for blondes)

2 tbsp. camomile
2 cups waters

Steep camomile in fast-boiling water for 10 minutes. Allow to cool. Strain through a nylon stocking. (Use the liquid as a final rinse after your usual shampoo.)

EXTRA SHINE RINSE (for brunettes)

2 tsp. dried rosemary
2 cups water

Proceed as above for blonde rinse.

Marie Antoinette took a daily herbal bath. You can too.

TONING VINEGAR-HERB BATH

2 tbsp. dried thyme
2 tbsp. dried rosemary
2 tbsp. dried marjoram
2 tbsp. dried mint
2 cups cider vinegar

Combine vinegar with two cups of water and heat to near boiling. Remove from heat. Add herbs and allow to steep overnight. Strain liquid through double cheesecloth or nylon stocking. Keep in a tightly closed jar. Add to your bath water — one cup per sensuously exotic bath.

These and other fun do-it-yourself cosmetics are listed in Lauretta Briskin's "Beauty Recipes."

If by chance we caught a few readers who didn't grow herbs, but maybe want to try a vial of homemade cosmetics, herbs are available from:

or perhaps from a gourmet shop in the area or down in Chicago's Old Town.

Wouldn't a beauty goodie make a clever concoction to bring to your Thanksgiving hostess?

Happy holiday!

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: The shortening of men's shirt sleeves has been sufficiently covered and thought I'd add my bit on how to replace the elastic in men's shorts. Using a razor blade or something similar, cut the threads which hold the original elastic to the cloth. You can buy a package of the proper width elastic at almost any variety or dry-goods store. Measure waistline with tape measure. For a snug fit, the elastic should be slightly shorter than the waist measure. It's a good idea to try it on to see how it feels. Pin the elastic to the inside of the shorts, stretching it to fit the cloth. Pin at last every five or six inches. Sew the elastic on with a fairly long stitch on the sewing machine, stretching it to fit the cloth. Then sew bottom edge of the elastic in the same manner. You may want to make two or three other lines of stitches on the narrow, lengthwise area of the elastic. If the original elastic is only on the sides of the garment, follow the same procedure, just using less elastic. Hope this helps anyone to rejuvenate a pair of shorts. — Florence M. Whitcomb.

Dear Dorothy: Your recent instructions on treating iron pots recommended pure soap. I have some lovely iron pots but the food prepared in them always had a distasteful flavor. Inasmuch as I make my own soap, I treated all of my iron skillets, pots and corn-stick pans to the soap treatment as you recommended. Finally, we enjoy the food prepared in the iron pans. Thank you. — Mrs. T. C. Chisolm.

Dear Dorothy: Notice people constantly ask what to do with laundry that has been washed and dried — including a colored crayon. If it's an all white laundry load they can get rid of the entire stain with two packages of color remover. It worked perfectly for me the only time the incident happened here. — Marthe Doguereau.

13 Local Realtors Aid 'Choose A Child' Project

Project "Choose a Child" is being sponsored by the Community Service committee of the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club, a member of the Illinois and General Federation of Women's Clubs.

This project will make it possible for area residents to give gifts to children of low income families who are listed with the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Area realtors will display trees with tags containing the sex and age of the 2,300 children listed by the center which is located at 3411 Kirchoff Road in Rolling Meadows, and is the local anti-poverty agency operated under the direction of the Office of Economic Opportunity, a department of the Federal Government.

One thousand families are currently listed with the center which operates on funds from the Cook County OEO and on contributions from concerned citizens. The anti-poverty agency helps families to help themselves through 17 special services including employment, housing, medical and welfare referrals, adult basic education and specialized classes, legal assistance and interpreter service.

MRS. DELMER HOAGLAND, chairman of Community Service, and Mrs. Frank Sager, the Juniors' NWOC projects chairman, are asking Des Plaines residents to stop in one of the 13 participating real estate offices, take a tag from the tree and buy one gift for a child whose age and sex are listed on the tag. In most cases, this will be the only Christmas gift this child will receive during the holidays.

Gifts may be either toys or clothing with a $2 minimum and a $5 maximum for each gift. Mrs. Hoagland suggests to anyone who might like to purchase a more expensive gift that it would be better to take two tags from the tree. Presents should be gaily wrapped with the tag displayed on the package to facilitate handling and distribution by the center.

The Juniors are working with Karen L. Stanley, NWOC director, and Angela Rojas, assistant director and social worker, in the selection of names and distribution of the gifts to the children.

LOCAL REAL ESTATE firms participating in the project are: Kole Real Estate, 1430 Miner St.; Approved Real Estate, 1643 Oakton St.; Kunkel Real Estate, 734 Lee St.; Sebastian Real Estate, 1518 Miner St.; Thomas Realty, 2474 Dempster St.; Eidamiller Real Estate, 680 Lee St.; Baird and Warner, 716 Lee St.; Double M. Realty, 650 Graceland Ave.; Rich Port Realty, 574 Northwest Hwy.; Amherst Realty, 1650 Oakton St.; Cumberland Realty, 685 Lee St.; McKay Nealis, 1600 Oakton St.; and Gladstone Realty, 1255 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Tags may be obtained at any office listed. Presents should be delivered to the real estate office by Dec. 17.
